Dwindling enrollment a mixed blessing for schools

Ken Gill, superintendent of Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Elementary Dist. 21, sat back in his chair recently and declared, "I always said I wanted to see this district fully built and out of debt. Now it looks like maybe I'll live that long."

The event that has given Gill new faith in the length of his life is the slowing of enrollment growth for school districts in the Northwest suburbs.

In Dist. 21, growth has dropped from more than 1,000 students a year at the beginning of the decade to just 150 this year. "The good part of our situation right now is that we've got planning time," Gill says.

However, the slower enrollment growth and enrollment decline that face many districts have some negative effects, too. On the horizon is the possibility that some districts may construct too many buildings, forcing closings later when enrollment declines.

SUPT. EDWARD GRODSKY of Prospect Heights Dist. 23, for example, says he has been under pressure from residents in the Northgate and Ivy Hill subdivisions in Arlington Heights to build a school for their youngsters — but so far enrollments don't warrant it.

Dist. 23 now has about 1,700 students, Grodsky says, and room in its school buildings for 2,300 — but the vacant classrooms aren't always near the children, and that can mean busing.

But to Grodsky the alternative, building a school which may not be needed, is more distasteful. "How do you go back to a community and tell them you have to close down a school — especially if it's not paid for yet?" he asks.

In Mount Prospect Dist. 57, where enrollment has been going down since 1964, the problem of empty classrooms has been handled another way. The district has rented out classrooms to other agencies. The district is now renting space to the Northwest Education Cooperative (NEC) computer and bilingual programs and to a computer cooperative run by several area villages.

Dist. 57 has coped less successfully with another problem that can plague a district with enrollment declines — the problem problem of finances.

AS ENROLLMENT has gone down, Dist. 57 Business Mgr. J. C. Busenhart says, the savings the district has realized by buying fewer supplies has been almost exactly eaten up by inflation. "By keeping the same supply budget for fewer kids each year, we've stayed even," Busenhart says.

The largest expenditure, and, therefore, the possible area of largest saving, in any school budget is for teachers. But saving money on teachers as enrollment

Paramedic program may mean tax increase: mayor

If Des Plaines is to have a paramedic program, local residents may be in for an increase in taxes, according to Mayor Herbert Behrel.

While stating that he was not against implementation of the program, which was approved by the City Council Dec. 3, the mayor cautioned proponents of the paramedic program that a tax increase may be needed.

The program, which has been started in a number of neighboring communities, provides firefighters with sophisticated medical training to assist in treating heart attack victims and critically injured persons.

The program requires radio equipment which allows firefighters to maintain contact with area hospital emergency rooms and receive instructions from doctors.

LOCAL OFFICIALS have estimated that it may cost more than $70,000 to start the program in Des Plaines. City Fire Chief Donald Corey said the cost would be spread out over several years.

The funds would pay for new ambulances, radio equipment and training for firefighters. The fire department had already requested a new ambulance to replace existing equipment.

BEHREL INDICATED that in addition to initial implementation costs, there would be continuing costs involved in the program.

"This continuing cost may mean an increase in taxes," the mayor said.

Corey said he plans to have 15 firefighters trained as paramedics over the next two years. He said in addition to the costs of the training program, there are plans to create a special pay rank in the department for men who have completed the training.

"All of the men who have volunteered for the paramedic training had stated they still want to maintain their firefighter rank," Corey said.

HE SAID there are nine firefighters currently undergoing a preliminary training program at Lutheran General Hospital. Corey explained once that course is completed the men will begin the actual paramedic program.

Final costs of the program have not been decided as yet. Corey said a final determination will be made early next year when the city budget is completed.

Des Plaines-Evanston bus pilot run will continue

With ridership steadily increasing, the trustees of the North Suburban Mass Transit District (NORTRAN) have voted to continue a pilot bus route between Evanston and Des Plaines until next June.

The district approved the extension of the routes, which run along Dempster Street, between the two cities after hearing a report from NORTRAN executive director Joseph DiJohn.

"The routes have shown a significant increase in ridership and could be considered a success," DiJohn explained.

DiJohn recommended the extension, adding that it is hoped plans for the six-county Regional Transit Authority will be finalized at that time.

The NORTRAN board also voted to continue routes which run from the Golf Mill Shopping Center in Niles to the Jefferson Park CTA station. The board expressed satisfaction with the steadily increasing ridership on this route.

Both routes were instituted earlier this year and are operated by the United Motor Coach Co. of Des Plaines.

IN OTHER ACTION, the NORTRAN board approved a plan allowing transfer from the United Motor Coach Evanston-Des Plaines route to Evanston CTA buses for free. The new plan goes into effect on Jan. 7, according to DiJohn.

The plan also allows for free transfer from any Evanston CTA bus to the United Motor Coach route in Evanston. Additional charges will be made from transfers outside Evanston.

The board is also expecting further action on a request for federal funds for new operating equipment for United Motor Coach.

The district has requested nearly $6 million in funds for new equipment.

DIJOHN SAID the grant application has been reviewed by an official of the U.S. Urban Mass Transit Administration and the government may take action on the request by early next month.

"The preliminary application was reviewed in person and page by page, and it was judged that the final report on the request may not be necessary," DiJohn said. The elimination of the final report for the fund request may save some time in processing district's application, he said.

Three men sought in assault case

Police are looking for three men who assaulted a dispatcher for the T&D Cab Service, 1900 Touhy Ave., early Christmas morning.

Richard Tastad, 53, of Park Ridge, told police he was working in the cab dispatching office when three young men came in to use the phone. The men, apparently drunk, started arguing with Tastad, who was knocked to the floor and kicked in the head by one of the men.

The three men, all in their early 20s, were seen leaving in a 1970 dark green Ford LTD station wagon with wood grain paneling.

Tastad described his assailant as 6 feet 2 inches tall, 180 pounds, with thin blond hair parted in the middle. The dispatcher said the man was called "Rich" by his friends.

The second man was described as 5 feet 10 inches tall, 160 pounds with short black hair. The third man, called Joe by his friends, was 5 feet 9 inches tall, 175 pounds with curly red hair. He was wearing a white T-shirt, a black knit sleeveless pullover and grey pants.

Police, not Rudolph, give Santa a lift

Three local police departments combined efforts early Tuesday to help Santa Claus get home.

In turn, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights police gave Santa a lift. Santa's car had broken down about 1 a.m. Christmas Day.

A further check on Santa, however, revealed him only to be one of the jolly, old man's helpers — Jerry White, 1530 N. Kennicott Ave., Arlington Heights.

EXCHANGE RETURNS

HOLIDAY SHOPPERS line up at an exchange counter yesterday to swap, barter or cash in on unwanted Christmas gifts. Retailers reported more people asking cash refunds.

Annual Post-Christmas lament:

'Tis better to give . . . back

by KURT BAER

So you don't really need a bejeweled Eiffel Tower salt shaker, another Hawaiian print sport shirt, or that electric, two-speed fly swatter that you got for Christmas. So what?

In the back of your mind you were already thinking: "Tomorrow is Wednesday . . . the stores will be open . . . I can take it back."

That's what thousands of people did yesterday as they immersed themselves in the holiday spirit of giving back.

IN MANY CASES the unwanted gifts are exchanged for something of comparable value. But in some cases — the ones retailers dread most — only a cash refund will do. And this year, apparently, there are more cash calls than usual.

"The majority of people say it is a gift and they don't want the giver to know they're returning it. But they want cash," says Gloria Dee, a customer service representative at Wieboldt's department store at Randhurst Shopping Center.

An 11-year veteran of Christmas season selling and returning, she said it is sometimes difficult to know whether the merchandise being returned was actually a gift or something they purchased themselves.

"There have been more cash refund requests than exchanges this year. People are feeling the pinch," said Virginia Westbrook, sales clerk in appliances at Marshall Field and Co. at Woodfield Shopping Center.

Expensive gifts like appliances are apt to be exchanged for even small defects, she said.

IN MONTGOMERY WARD and Co. at Randhurst a special counter was set up to handle what one spokesman there called "super long lines." Ward's personnel manager, Frank Warren, termed it "the usual day after Christmas crowd."

A few shoppers were buying and some making exchanges yesterday, but most were asking for cash returns, he said.

Clothes that don't fit, match or otherwise suit the recipient are prob-

Make sure 'bargains' are for real

Bargain hunters, better make sure those "after the holiday sales" are for real. The Chicago regional office of the Federal Trade Commission warns that a few shady merchants are waiting to bilk consumers who mistakenly believe they're getting more for their money.

The blitz of post-Christmas, January clearance and inventory closeout sales traditionally draw sales volume second only to Christmas, according to Kenneth Cole, vice president of the Illinois Retail Merchants Association. Cole said legitimate bargains are available in many lines such as linens, shoes, clothing, and furniture. But he cautioned that "some stores always have sales. So the sale price is pretty much the regular price."

HERE ARE simmicks to watch out for, advises the FTC:

- The former-price comparison; When an advertisement says an item was formerly (regularly, originally, etc.) one price and it's now a lower price, make sure the former price was openly offered to the public for a recent period of time. Otherwise, the bargain that's advertised is a false one.
- Comparison with a competitor's price; It's all right for a retailer to advertise "elsewhere $10, our price $7.50" if the majority of retailers offer an item at the $10 price, says the agency. But when competitors are not selling the item at the higher price, the consumer is falsely led to believe that he's saving money rather than paying the regular price.

This applies to comparable value advertisement, adds the FTC. The smart shopper knows that a price comparison is genuine only if it represents a similar quality item and is offered at the advertised price at most stores in the area.

- List price or suggested retail price comparisons: Many shoppers believe the manufacturers's list price or suggested retail price represents the price at which an item is usually sold. But the lower price is only a bargain if a substantial number of

Commuters face new fare boost

Commuters on the Chicago and North Western Ry. will pay about a dollar more a month beginning Jan. 1 because of a 2.9 per cent increase approved by the Illinois Commerce Commission. The C&NW had asked for a 7.1 per cent across the board increase to be effective Jan. 1, but the ICC deferred a decision on the full request until April 30. The railroad then asked for the 2.9 per cent hike to offset increased costs from higher railroad retirement contributions that begin Jan. 1.

Present fares were set when the C&NW was granted a rate increase last November, but that increase was almost a year after the request had been filed. The C&NW immediately filed for the 7.1 per cent increase to offset increasing costs of wages and diesel fuel, plus the increased retirement expense.

Seven-year-old conscious

The news spread quickly through Alexian Brothers Hospital in Elk Grove Village. Seven-year-old Kent Baumann was speaking for the first time in more than nine weeks. The Medinah youngster had been struck by a car as he walked to catch a school bus. For 11 days Kent was in a coma and he's been semi-conscious for most of the time since. The words started coming yesterday during a visit by his father. A quick telephone call home and his mother heard the first "Hi, Mommy" in weeks. "It's the best Christmas present I ever got," she said.

Hoffman bribery suit?

A class-action damage suit against a builder who pleaded no contest to charges of bribing village officials may be in the works in Hoffman Estates. Donnie Rudd, an attorney and former village official who now sits on the Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 school board, says the builder, Kaufman and Broad, Inc., may have profited by $800,000 because of the crooked rezoning deal. Rudd and a group of taxpayers may file suit for triple damages, a total of $2.4 million, which would be turned over to local taxing bodies if the suit is successful.

Bus route to continue

An increase in ridership has prompted the North Suburban Mass Transit District to continue at least until June an experimental bus route between Des Plaines and Evanston.

O'Hare still No. 1 in several flight categories: FAA statistics

O'Hare Airport still is No. 1 in most categories of aircraft operations, according to new statistics from the Federal Aviation Administration.

The airport is first in total number of aircraft operations (682,984), total air carrier (commercial) operations, and total number of instrument approaches. Statistics are based on fiscal year 1973, but are expected to remain similar for the calendar year.

The FAA Chicago Flight Service Station at DuPage County Airport became the number one facility of its type this year, with 860,082 flight services, far exceeding second place Miami Flight Service Station, which had 380,082. The service station provides information and assistance to private pilots that commercial pilots usually get from their own airlines.

Ranking behind O'Hare for total aircraft operations was Santa Ana, Calif., followed by several other California and Florida airports. The southern airports rank high in total operations because of the high number of flight schools based at them.

Atlanta International Airport ranks second in commercial arrivals and departures, and Los Angeles International Airport ranks second in instrument landings.

DuPage County FAA airport control tower ranks second in activity in the six-state Great Lakes Region, with 276,087 arrivals and departures.

Seven-year-old conscious

The news spread quickly through Alexian Brothers Hospital in Elk Grove Village. Seven-year-old Kent Baumann was speaking for the first time in more than nine weeks. The Medinah youngster had been struck by a car as he walked to catch a school bus. For 11 days Kent was in a coma and he's been semi-conscious for most of the time since. The words started coming yesterday during a visit by his father. A quick telephone call home and his mother heard the first "Hi, Mommy" in weeks. "It's the best Christmas present I ever got," she said.

Hoffman bribery suit?

A class-action damage suit against a builder who pleaded no contest to charges of bribing village officials may be in the works in Hoffman Estates. Donnie Rudd, an attorney and former village official who now sits on the Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 school board, says the builder, Kaufman and Broad, Inc., may have profited by $800,000 because of the crooked rezoning deal. Rudd and a group of taxpayers may file suit for triple damages, a total of $2.4 million, which would be turned over to local taxing bodies if the suit is successful.

Bus route to continue

An increase in ridership has prompted the North Suburban Mass Transit District to continue at least until June an experimental bus route between Des Plaines and Evanston.

O'Hare still No. 1 in several flight categories: FAA statistics

O'Hare Airport still is No. 1 in most categories of aircraft operations, according to new statistics from the Federal Aviation Administration.

The airport is first in total number of aircraft operations (682,984), total air carrier (commercial) operations, and total number of instrument approaches. Statistics are based on fiscal year 1973, but are expected to remain similar for the calendar year.

The FAA Chicago Flight Service Station at DuPage County Airport became the number one facility of its type this year, with 860,082 flight services, far exceeding second place Miami Flight Service Station, which had 380,082. The service station provides information and assistance to private pilots that commercial pilots usually get from their own airlines.

Ranking behind O'Hare for total aircraft operations was Santa Ana, Calif., followed by several other California and Florida airports. The southern airports rank high in total operations because of the high number of flight schools based at them.

Atlanta International Airport ranks second in commercial arrivals and departures, and Los Angeles International Airport ranks second in instrument landings.

DuPage County FAA airport control tower ranks second in activity in the six-state Great Lakes Region, with 276,087 arrivals and departures.

Tight lid on Kissinger death plot

From United Press International

The State Department refused Wednesday to discuss "security matters" when questioned about news reports of an alleged Arab plot to assassinate Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

UPI had reported earlier from Brussels that the Arab guerrilla organization responsible for killing 32 persons at Rome and Athens airports last week had originally planned to assassinate Kissinger.

The report said that according to diplomatic and military sources, Libya had ordered an attempt on Kissinger's life by the group at Beirut international airport Dec. 16 but Lebanese authorities, learning of it, had ordered Kissinger's plane diverted to Rayak, a Lebanese air base.

"We do not wish to discuss security matters at all," said department spokesman George Vest. "We do not have at hand information to confirm or deny those reports."

Meanwhile, in Paris a pro-Palestinian guerrilla group poised to launch commando attacks in various European capitals — apparently including Geneva where the Middle East peace talks are under way — has been smashed by French counter-espionage agents, French officials announced Wednesday.

The French arrested 13 persons, including two women, and seized a large cache of weapons and explosives.

The arrests came 24 hours after a Palestinian member of the ring was taken into custody on the Italian frontier while driving a car fitted out with secret compartments for smuggling explosives, police said.

Officials said the arrest of the group was the largest single breakup of a foreign illegal ring in France in recent years.

In Moscow, the weekly newspaper Literaturnya Gazeta suggested Wednesday that Israel was behind the recent attack on two planes at Rome's Leonardo da Vinci airport that took 33 lives. It said the raid apparently was organized by forces who wanted to torpedo the Middle East peace conference in Geneva and to provoke a new aggression against the Arabs.

"Only to these forces would the tragedy be profitable," the newspaper said in speculating that Israel was behind the attack.

Nixon holds conferences to avoid gas rationing

From Herald news services

President Nixon discussed the worldwide energy crisis and the U.S. response to it Wednesday in a day-long series of conferences with his domestic and international advisers and with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin.

The President said he was trying to work out a way to avoid gasoline rationing and welcomed as "a sign of progress" the Arab decision to relax its oil embargoes against Europe and Japan.

Energy adviser William E. Simon is expected to announce a decision to avoid gasoline rationing at a news conference this morning. In an interview published Wednesday, Simon said he thought the nation could "manage without rationing" if voluntary gasoline rationing continues at its current pace. He also said 700,000 barrels of oil a day were reaching the United States from the Arab oil states despite the declared total embargo against oil exports to this country.

Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., criticized Simon on the basis of reports that the energy chief welcomed the Arabs' decision to sharply increase oil prices because it would raise U.S. gasoline prices and thus cut demand.

"That's about as callous as anything I've ever heard—worthy of a true czar," Eagleton said. "They really want to put the load on the back of the little guy, who's having trouble making ends meet as it is."

There was no announcement of the nearly hour-long meeting with the Soviet ambassador before reporters noticed the Russian's limousine parked outside the west wing of the White House. Deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren said Nixon, Kissinger and Dobrynin were "just getting together to talk about general foreign policy" and recalled Nixon and Dobrynin had talked alone for about 40 minutes last week.

Meanwhile, service station dealers grossly overcharging holiday drivers unlucky enough to run out of gas, were faced with investigation by the federal government Wednesday.

Federal officials responsible for enforcing gas price ceilings imposed under Phase IV economic controls said that motorists should make complaints about overpricing to the Internal Revenue Service for investigation. Gas dealers found to have been overcharging in some previous cases have been ordered to give away fuel to the same value.

The gas outlook for the rest of the holiday season loomed as tight.

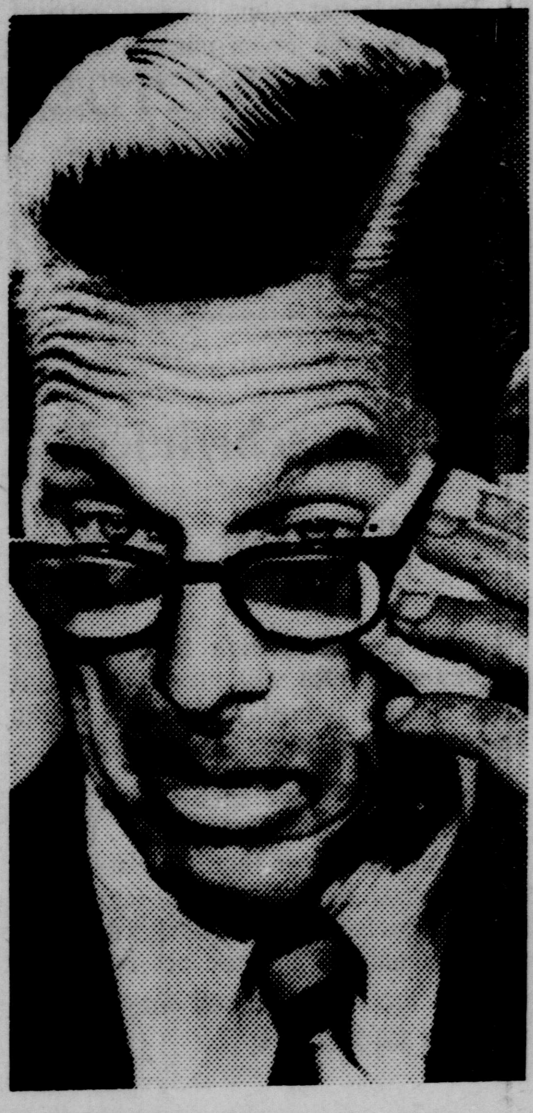
Robert Jacobs, an official of the Illinois and Indiana gasoline dealers association, predicted "gasless Sunday, Monday and Tuesday" for the New Year's holiday.

"The overwhelming probability," Jacobs said, "Is that 80 to 90 per cent of the gasoline stations will be closed all over the U.S."

He said a number of stations already have closed for the balance of the year because their monthly gasoline allotment was exhausted.

Jacobs said "less than one half of one per cent" of stations which remained open during the Christmas holiday gouged motorists, but he promised to get after those who did.

Two American companies — LVO Corp. of Tulsa and Pexamin Pacific Ltd. of Houston — announced Wednesday they had signed a contract to explore for oil and gas in Egypt.



THE HEAT IS ON William E. Simon, head of the Federal Energy Office, but in this case it's the lights at a televised press briefing, not the pressure of duties.

'Israelis in corner': Egypt

From United Press International

Egyptian War Minister Gen Ahmed Ismail said in Cairo Wednesday the Israelis have placed themselves "in a corner" by establishing a bridgehead on the Suez Canal's West Bank during the October war.

"No man in his senses could have launched this operation because he voluntarily placed himself in a corner," said Ismail, commander in chief of the armed forces.

He said Egyptian troops were surrounding the Israelis from all directions on the Canal's West Bank.

"Any pressure on the Israeli bulge will make it collapse," Ismail said. "I would like to assure you that the enemy forces are in trouble, not us."

He added that the Israelis suffered great losses in men and equipment during their offensive across the Canal, but continued the attack "because it was a psychologial more than a strategic or military operation." Ismail denied Israeli claims that the Egyptians were assisted by Soviet advisers during the planning or execution of the October war.

Maj. Gen. Hassan el-Greitly, the army's chief of operations, said Egyptian troops now are fighting a war of attrition.

Israeli reservists continue to be mobilized and this is having adverse effect on Israeli economy, he said, adding that the fact Egypt is taking part in the Geneva peace conference has no effect at all on the armed forces.

A U.N. spokesman said earlier that shooting incidents between Egyptian and Israeli troops in the Suez City are slowing down the delivery of relief supplies to the Egyptian 3rd Army on the Canal's East bank.

Meanwhile, Egyptian and Israeli leaders met in Geneva Wednesday in a new effort to break the deadlock over the separation of their armed forces on the Suez Canal front as the first step toward negotiating a Middle East peace settlement.

But each side dismissed the other's proposals as unacceptable and adopted such tough bargaining positions that no progress was reported in the opening session that lasted an hour and 38 minutes. The next session was set for tomorrow.

In Tel Aviv, Lt. Gen. David Elazar, armed forces chief of staff, warned any breakdown in the Geneva talks over disengagement of Egyptian and Israeli forces might spark renewed war along the Suez front.

The Israeli military command reported more small arms and artillery clashes east and west of the waterway Wednesday.

President Nixon Wednesday signed a $2.2 billion emergency aid-to-Israel authorization to cover the cost of supplying U. S. arms during and after the Middle East War.

The bill is the first of two pieces of aid legislation Congress sent the President last week before it adjourned. A $5.8 billion aid appropriation containing emergency aid funds and $385 million in other money for Israel remained on his desk.

The authorization bill, signed at the White House, gives Nixon authority to provide Israel up to $1.5 billion in outright grants and $700 million in credits for military equipment.

Tapes don't support milk suit charges: prosecutor

From Herald news services

White House tapes and documents do not support charges that the Justice Department filed an antitrust suit against milk producers in an effort to extract contributions for President Nixon's 1972 reelection campaign, a Watergate special prosecutor said Wednesday.

"None of these documents or recordings support" allegations of Associated Milk Producers Inc., assistant prosecutor Jon A. Sale said in an affidavit contained in a Justice Department brief filed in U.S. District Court in Kansas City. The brief was filed in reply to AMPI's request that the court order the department to produce documents and memos related to Nixon's fundraising activities among milk producers.

The Senate Watergate Committee and the prosecutor are investigating allegations that Nixon increased the federal price support for raw milk in 1971 in exchange for $527,000 in campaign contributions by the dairy industry.

Meanwhile, Sen. Edward Gurney, R-Fla., considered President Nixon's main backer on the Watergate committee, has no intention of resigning from the panel although he has stayed away from recent sessions, his administrative assistant said yesterday.

The spokesman, Jim Allison Jr., did not dispute news reports that Gurney missed all of the last eight open committee hearings, but said the senator's absence was based more on schedule conflicts than any deliberate effort to avoid the hearings.

Allison said the senator missed the public sessions because of conflicting meetings of the Senate Judiciary meeting, of which he is a member. But Judiciary committee records showed Gurney did not attend any of its eight public hearings held between Nov. 1 and 20.

Gurney is involved in a Justice Department investigation of an alleged political fund established on his behalf by Florida builders in exchange for expected preferential treatment by the Federal Housing Administration. Te Watergate meetings he missed occurred from Oct. 31 to Nov. 15, about the time Gurney acknowledged the slush fund investigation.

In Los Angeles, a pretrial hearing in the case of John Erlichman, G. Gordon Liddy and David Young, former White House aides charged with burglary in the Ellsberg psychiatrist break-in was set over Wednesday until Jan. 14. The trial itself is scheduled to start April 15.

When disasters become windfalls

From Herald news services

Federal disaster relief is now so generous that it discourages homeowners and businessmen from buying insurance and encourages them to build in trouble-prone areas, a University of Pennsylvania economist said Wednesday.

In fact, some individuals have come out of recent natural disasters in far better financial shape than they were before, according to a study by Prof. Howard Kunreuther, who teaches management at Pennsylvania's Wharton School of finance and commerce.

In one extreme case, said Kunreuther, a motel owner in Fairbanks, Alaska, whose property suffered $140,000 in damage during an August, 1967, flood, was able to borrow $394,000 from the government at 3 per cent interest for a 30-year period. The conventional loan rate at the time was 7 per cent.

"It is no surprise to find residents of Anchorage saying that the 1964 earthquake and flood are the two best things that have happened to Alaska in recent years," said Kunreuther.

After a 1971 California earthquake, many homeowners asked for federal funds to repair damage that was not even caused by the quake — and frequently got even more than they asked for, Kunreuther said.

After 1972 floods caused by Tropical Storm Agnes, Congress passed laws that in effect gave $5,000 free to victims and allowed them to borrow up to $200,000 more at 1 per cent interest, the result was to swell total claims to almost $2.6 billion this year — more than the past six years put together.

At the same time, Kunreuther reported, Pennsylvania residents hit by the storm declined to buy readily available federal flood insurance, and many rebuilt flood-prone areas despite the fact other land was available.

"The general taxpayer is being burdened with an increased role in financing recovery despite the availability of insurance, of sites in less hazard-prone areas and of construction methods that will reduce losses," he said.

"Any pressure on the Israeli bulge will make it collapse," Ismail said. "I would like to assure you that the enemy forces are in trouble, not us."

He added that the Israelis suffered great losses in men and equipment during their offensive across the Canal, but continued the attack "because it was a psychologial more than a strategic or military operation." Ismail denied Israeli claims that the Egyptians were assisted by Soviet advisers during the planning or execution of the October war.

Maj. Gen. Hassan el-Greitly, the army's chief of operations, said Egyptian troops now are fighting a war of attrition.

Israeli reservists continue to be mobilized and this is having adverse effect on Israeli economy, he said, adding that the fact Egypt is taking part in the Geneva peace conference has no effect at all on the armed forces.

A U.N. spokesman said earlier that shooting incidents between Egyptian and Israeli troops in the Suez City are slowing down the delivery of relief supplies to the Egyptian 3rd Army on the Canal's East bank.

Meanwhile, Egyptian and Israeli leaders met in Geneva Wednesday in a new effort to break the deadlock over the separation of their armed forces on the Suez Canal front as the first step toward negotiating a Middle East peace settlement.

But each side dismissed the other's proposals as unacceptable and adopted such tough bargaining positions that no progress was reported in the opening session that lasted an hour and 38 minutes. The next session was set for tomorrow.

In Tel Aviv, Lt. Gen. David Elazar, armed forces chief of staff, warned any breakdown in the Geneva talks over disengagement of Egyptian and Israeli forces might spark renewed war along the Suez front.

The Israeli military command reported more small arms and artillery clashes east and west of the waterway Wednesday.

President Nixon Wednesday signed a $2.2 billion emergency aid-to-Israel authorization to cover the cost of supplying U. S. arms during and after the Middle East War.

The bill is the first of two pieces of aid legislation Congress sent the President last week before it adjourned. A $5.8 billion aid appropriation containing emergency aid funds and $385 million in other money for Israel remained on his desk.

The authorization bill, signed at the White House, gives Nixon authority to provide Israel up to $1.5 billion in outright grants and $700 million in credits for military equipment.

Tapes don't support milk suit charges: prosecutor

From Herald news services

White House tapes and documents do not support charges that the Justice Department filed an antitrust suit against milk producers in an effort to extract contributions for President Nixon's 1972 reelection campaign, a Watergate special prosecutor said Wednesday.

"None of these documents or recordings support" allegations of Associated Milk Producers Inc., assistant prosecutor Jon A. Sale said in an affidavit contained in a Justice Department brief filed in U.S. District Court in Kansas City. The brief was filed in reply to AMPI's request that the court order the department to produce documents and memos related to Nixon's fundraising activities among milk producers.

The Senate Watergate Committee and the prosecutor are investigating allegations that Nixon increased the federal price support for raw milk in 1971 in exchange for $527,000 in campaign contributions by the dairy industry.

Meanwhile, Sen. Edward Gurney, R-Fla., considered President Nixon's main backer on the Watergate committee, has no intention of resigning from the panel although he has stayed away from recent sessions, his administrative assistant said yesterday.

The spokesman, Jim Allison Jr., did not dispute news reports that Gurney missed all of the last eight open committee hearings, but said the senator's absence was based more on schedule conflicts than any deliberate effort to avoid the hearings.

Allison said the senator missed the public sessions because of conflicting meetings of the Senate Judiciary meeting, of which he is a member. But Judiciary committee records showed Gurney did not attend any of its eight public hearings held between Nov. 1 and 20.

Gurney is involved in a Justice Department investigation of an alleged political fund established on his behalf by Florida builders in exchange for expected preferential treatment by the Federal Housing Administration. Te Watergate meetings he missed occurred from Oct. 31 to Nov. 15, about the time Gurney acknowledged the slush fund investigation.

In Los Angeles, a pretrial hearing in the case of John Erlichman, G. Gordon Liddy and David Young, former White House aides charged with burglary in the Ellsberg psychiatrist break-in was set over Wednesday until Jan. 14. The trial itself is scheduled to start April 15.

When disasters become windfalls

From Herald news services

Federal disaster relief is now so generous that it discourages homeowners and businessmen from buying insurance and encourages them to build in trouble-prone areas, a University of Pennsylvania economist said Wednesday.

In fact, some individuals have come out of recent natural disasters in far better financial shape than they were before, according to a study by Prof. Howard Kunreuther, who teaches management at Pennsylvania's Wharton School of finance and commerce.

In one extreme case, said Kunreuther, a motel owner in Fairbanks, Alaska, whose property suffered $140,000 in damage during an August, 1967, flood, was able to borrow $894,000 from the government at 3 per cent interest for a 30-year period. The conventional loan rate at the time was 7 per cent.

"It is no surprise to find residents of Anchorage saying that the 1964 earthquake and flood are the two best things that have happened to Alaska in recent years," said Kunreuther.

After a 1971 California earthquake, many homeowners asked for federal funds to repair damage that was not even caused by the quake — and frequently got even more than they asked for, Kunreuther said.

After 1972 floods caused by Tropical Storm Agnes, Congress passed laws that in effect gave $5,000 free to victims and allowed them to borrow up to $200,000 more at 1 per cent interest, the result was to swell total claims to almost $2.6 billion this year — more than the past six years put together.

At the same time, Kunreuther reported, Pennsylvania residents hit by the storm declined to buy readily available federal flgod insurance, and many rebuilt flood-prone areas despite the fact other land was available.

"The general taxpayer is being burdened with an increased role in financing recovery despite the availability of insurance, of sites in less hazard-prone areas and of construction methods that will reduce losses," he said.

ably the most-returned and exchanged gifts. But the range is as wild as the imagination.

Robert Hoffmann, the owner of Animal Kingdom in Des Plaines, for example, half expects to see the King Snake he sold this holiday smiling back at him from the return counter.

A girl has rented the small, harmless snake for half its $29 purchase price on a kind of lend-lease deal to see if her boyfriend and the reptile hit it off.

LAST YEAR, says Hoffman, an executive bought a live vulture for his office to discourage unwanted salesmen from lingering at his desk. Though the pet store owner expected the bird back after Christmas, the harried exec reported it was working like a charm.

"The only returns we've had so far is the lady who walks in before Christmas and says, 'I don't have any idea what Harvey wants, but he loves trains. Give me something for $50.' We'll be seeing her all week," said Kathy Lenahan, of the Roundhouse train store in Des Plaines.

But there is a feeling among some retailers that Christmas shoppers were more conservative and realistic in their gift choices this year, and less practical joking may mean fewer returns.

But Leonard Johnson of Palatine may take the award for this season's most unusual exchange.

Johnson walked into the Radio Shack store in Rolling Meadows yesterday, presented a box still wrapped in holiday paper and bows, showed the clerk his receipt and asked for a refund.

He had purchased the gift, a record player, and had it wrapped for the season, but then decided he didn't want to give it this Christmas. So, like thousands of others yesterday, Johnson "took it back."

Paramedics' efforts fail

Elderly woman dies in house fire

AN ARLINGTON HEIGHTS fireman breaks a window to clear the Thomas house, 341 S. Stratford, of smoke. Mrs. Alyce Thomas, in her 60s, died in the fire yesterday afternoon. The cause of the blaze is under investigation.

An elderly Arlington Heights woman died yesterday when fire swept through her home.

Mrs. Alyce Thomas, in her 60s, of 341 S. Stratford Rd., was pronounced dead at Northwest Community Hospital where she was taken by Arlington Heights Fire Department ambulance. Efforts by fire department paramedics to revive her were unsuccessful.

Arlington Fire Chief John Hayden said the fire started in a rear bedroom of the two-story brick house. It quickly spread through the hall and kitchen, where Mrs. Thomas was found by firemen.

Hayden said the cause of the fire has not been established. He said the department would conduct an investigation.

According to Chief Hayden an empty cleaning fluid can found in the house had no relation to the fire.

The fire was discovered by Karl Prinslow, 11 N. Gibbons, a West Point cadet home on holiday leave. He saw the smoke coming from the rear of the house and ran to a neighbor's house to telephone the fire department.

Damage from the fire was limited to the rear of the house. However, the living room and the upstairs received damage from water, smoke and heat. There was no immediate fire department estimate of damage.

Paramedics attempted to revive Mrs. Thomas for about 30 minutes before taking her to the hospital.

A spokesman for Northwest Community hospital said Mrs. Thomas was dead on arrival.

Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove firemen battled the fire. Units from Mount Prospect acted as a backup force in the mutual aid alarm.

FIRE DEPARTMENT PARAMEDICS try unsuccessfully to revive Mrs. Alyce Thomas. Mrs. Thomas died when fire swept through the rear of her two-story brick home, 341 S. Stratford Rd., Arlington Heights. A West Point cadet on holiday leave, Karl Prinslow, discovered the fire and raced to a neighbor for aid.

Golden agers

by JUNE LANDMEIER

There has been a tremendous growth in the number of senior citizens in Des Plaines in recent years. The Des Plaines Park District continues to offer a variety of programs and activities for those men and women who are at least sixty years of age and who reside within the boundaries of the Park District. An original poem written by a member indicates the interest shared by many.

I'm glad I belong to the Golden Agers,
The group that's so lovely and gay.
They like to cook — they like to eat,
To sing and dance and be happy in many a way.
Whether it's South, West, or Rand Park
Or wherever they chance to meet,
You can be assured of having a good time
Which is pretty darn hard to beat.
—H. Harz

New violation at hospital?

While the city and officials from Forest Hospital have apparently reached an agreement over several alleged code violations, Corporation Counsel Robert DiLeonardi said there may be another violation there.

DiLeonardi said the hospital has met city requirements regarding the use of several houses along Rand Road in Des Plaines, but he had been told there may be another violation that has not been corrected.

Several city officials said while the hospitals are no longer using the houses as living quarters, at least one is being used as a classroom, which apparently is not allowed under present zoning.

The city's director of planning and zoning, Michael Richardson, said he still has the matter under study.

DiLeonardi said the city's original law suit is still pending and a hearing has been set for today to determine the status of the case.

The houses are presently zoned for single-family use and no more than three unrelated persons can live there.

Why not let it start working for you? We bring up the point, because at First Federal Savings, your money works harder for you. In fact, it works every day. Our daily interest means your savings are compounded each day. And, on passbook accounts every deposit made before the tenth of each month, earns from the first of that month if on deposit at the end of the calendar quarter. And, every deposit earns from the date of deposit to the date of withdrawal on all accounts. And, all of it earns at the absolute top interest rate.

Five ways to put your money hard at work earning for you at First Federal Savings. Look over these rates and see which is best for you:

5¼% annually passbook account, compounded daily. No minimum deposit—add or withdraw any amount at any time.

6½% annually 2 year certificate, compounded daily. $5,000 minimum, automatically renewable. Yields 6.81%*

6½% annually 1 year certificate, compounded daily. $1,000 minimum, automatically renewable, Yields 6.81%*

6¾% annually 2½ year certificate, compounded daily. $5,000 minimum, automatically renewable. Yields 7.08%*

Certificates purchased by the 10th day of calendar quarter earn from the first.

($100,000 certificates available, inquire for rates and terms)
a substantial interest penalty is required for early withdrawal from certificate accounts

Whatever your savings goals . . . a college education for your children, retirement for you . . . a new home, or a long vacation . . . work your money at First Federal Savings of Des Plaines.

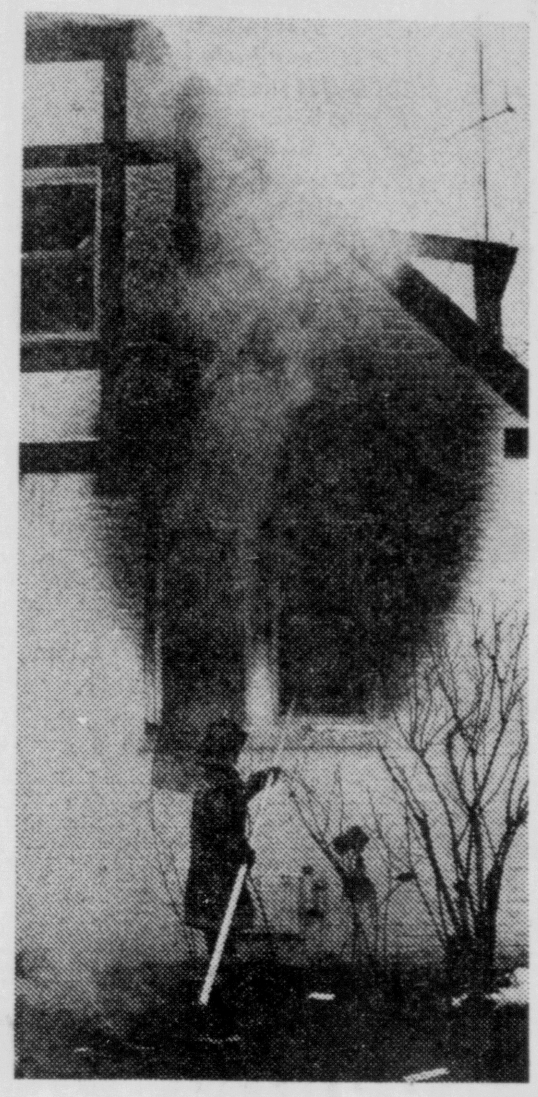
Paramedics' efforts fail

Elderly woman dies in house fire



AN ARLINGTON HEIGHTS fireman breaks a window to clear the Thomas house, 341 S. Stratford, of smoke. Mrs. Alyce Thomas, in her 60s, died in the fire yesterday afternoon. The cause of the blaze is under investigation.

An elderly Arlington Heights woman died yesterday when fire swept through her home.

Mrs. Alyce Thomas, in her 60s, of 341 S. Stratford Rd., was pronounced dead at Northwest Community Hospital where she was taken by Arlington Heights Fire Department ambulance. Efforts by fire department paramedics to revive her were unsuccessful.

Arlington Fire Chief John Hayden said the fire started in a rear bedroom of the two-story brick house. It quickly spread through the hall and kitchen, where Mrs. Thomas was found by firemen.

Hayden said the cause of the fire has not been established. He said the department would conduct an investigation.

According to Chief Hayden an empty cleaning fluid can found in the house had no relation to the fire.

The fire was discovered by Karl Prinslow, 11 N. Gibbons, a West Point cadet home on holiday leave. He saw the smoke coming from the rear of the house and ran to a neighbor's house to telephone the fire department.

Damage from the fire was limited to the rear of the house. However, the living room and the upstairs received damage from water, smoke and heat. There was no immediate fire department estimate of damage.

Paramedics attempted to revive Mrs. Thomas for about 30 minutes before taking her to the hospital.

A spokesman for Northwest Community hospital said Mrs. Thomas was dead on arrival.

Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove firemen battled the fire. Units from Mount Prospect acted as a backup force in the mutual aid alarm.

FIRE DEPARTMENT PARAMEDICS try unsuccessfully to revive Mrs. Alyce Thomas. Mrs. Thomas died when fire swept through the rear of her two-story brick home, 341 S. Stratford Rd., Arlington Heights. A West Point cadet on holiday leave, Karl Prinslow, discovered the fire and raced to a neighbor for aid.

Golden agers

by JUNE LANDMEIER

There has been a tremendous growth in the number of senior citizens in Des Plaines in recent years. The Des Plaines Park District continues to offer a variety of programs and activities for those men and women who are at least sixty years of age and who reside within the boundaries of the Park District. An original poem written by a member indicates the interest shared by many.

I'm glad I belong to the Golden Agers,
The group that's so lovely and gay.
They like to cook — they like to eat,
To sing and dance and be happy in many a way.
Whether it's South, West, or Rand Park
Or wherever they chance to meet,
You can be assured of having a good time
Which is pretty darn hard to beat.
—H. Harz

New violation at hospital?

While the city and officials from Forest Hospital have apparently reached an agreement over several alleged code violations, Corporation Counsel Robert DiLeonardi said there may be another violation there.

DiLeonardi said the hospital has met city requirements regarding the use of several houses along Rand Road in Des Plaines, but he had been told there may be another violation that has not been corrected.

Several city officials said while the hospitals are no longer using the houses as living quarters, at least one is being used as a classroom, which apparently is not allowed under present zoning.

The city's director of planning and zoning, Michael Richardson, said he still has the matter under study.

DiLeonardi said the city's original law suit is still pending and a hearing has been set for today to determine the status of the case.

The houses are presently zoned for single-family use and no more than three unrelated persons can live there.

7 new commemorative issues coming during 1974

by BERNADINE M. RECHNER

Stamp notes

The U.S. Postal Service will release at least seven commemorative stamps and one postal stationery item during 1974.

Scheduled for issue early in the new year is an adhesive on the theme "Retarded Children Can Be Helped." It follows similar stamps issued in recent years warning against drug abuse and urging blood donor contributions and cancer checkups.

The 75th anniversary of the founding of the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) organization will be commemorated on a postage stamp early in 1974.

The centennial of the birth of Robert Frost, four-time winner of the Pulitzer Prize for Poetry, will be marked by a postal issue.

A stamp will commemorate the 200th anniversary of the founding of the first permanent settlement in Kentucky at Fort Harrod. This issue is expected about midyear.

A block of four stamps will be issued in Philadelphia on July 4 honoring the 200th anniversary of the assembly of the First Continental Congress. This release continues postal recognition of the Bicentennial of the American Revolution.

A new aerogramme will salute the 25th anniversary of the founding of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

The postal service previously announced the 1974 issuance of two additional stamps in the Rural America Series. These will honor the 100th anniversary of the introduction of Kansas Hard Winter Wheat into the United States and the 100th anniversary of the establishment of the Chautauqua.

THE CANADA Post Office has released its 1972 souvenir card containing all the commemorative and special issue postage stamps issued in 1972.

Actually it is an eight-page booklet bound in a red and gold embossed cover. The stamps, packaged in a "cello-pack," have a face value of $1.63.

The booklet is $2 and may be ordered from the Philatelic Service, Canada Post Office, Ottawa, Ont., Canada K1A OB5.

An 11-CENT airmail postal card, to be issued for use when proposed new postal rates go into effect Jan. 5, will be released by the U.S. Postal Service Jan. 4 at State College, Pa.

First-day ceremonies will be held in connection with the opening of a Postal Station in the American Philatelic Society's new building.

Collectors desiring first-day cancellations should address requests to Airmail Postal Card, Postmaster, State College, Pa. 16801.

Columbia figure relatively rare on U.S. currency

by Mort Reed

If you are one of those who has wondered what the figure atop our Capitol dome represents, rest easy. It is Columbia, an abstract feminine personification of the United States of America.

She often has been mistaken for the Goddess of Liberty or Freedom, and even a relaxed form of the Statue of Justice. But few people recognize her starred crown, sword and shield as symbols that place her first among all female symbols used officially in the United States.

Strangely enough, on our currency she appears only on the Demand Note of 1861 and the United States Note of 1862. Both are of the same five-dollar denomination and design. However, she has been impersonated by none other than the Goddess of Liberty on the Benjamin Franklin Fifty-dollar Note, Series of 1874.

WHY THE designer chose to disguise Liberty as Columbia has never been satisfactorily explained. But there she is holding a sword in her right hand with her left arm resting on a Seal of the United States, and crowned by a band of 13 stars.

William Donlon's Catalog of United States Large Size Paper Currency lists the Columbia Note of 1861 at from $285 to $1,250 in Good condition, and $450 to $2,000 Very Good condition depending on the redeemable bank.

The same catalog shows the United States Note (same design) to be worth from $35 Fine condition to as much as $300 Uncirculated. Several factors enter into the price category including, redeemable banks, signatures, dates and the color of the Treasury seal.

The Paramount Average's Silver Coin Portfolio fell two and one-half points in the past 30 days but as with the Copper coin portfolio, the silver coin market is expected to climb with the issuance of the Paramount Rare Coin List described in a recent column.

by Mort Reed

If you are one of those who has wondered what the figure atop our Capitol dome represents, rest easy. It is Columbia, an abstract feminine personification of the United States of America.

She often has been mistaken for the Goddess of Liberty or Freedom, and even a relaxed form of the Statue of Justice. But few people recognize her starred crown, sword and shield as symbols that place her first among all female symbols used officially in the United States.

Strangely enough, on our currency she appears only on the Demand Note of 1861 and the United States Note of 1862. Both are of the same five-dollar denomination and design. However, she has been impersonated by none other than the Goddess of Liberty on the Benjamin Franklin Fifty-dollar Note, Series of 1874.

WHY THE designer chose to disguise Liberty as Columbia has never been satisfactorily explained. But there she is holding a sword in her right hand with her left arm resting on a Seal of the United States, and crowned by a band of 13 stars.

William Donlon's Catalog of United States Large Size Paper Currency lists the Columbia Note of 1861 at from $285 to $1,250 in Good condition, and $450 to $2,000 Very Good condition depending on the redeemable bank.

7 new commemorative issues coming during 1974

by BERNADINE M. RECHNER

The U.S. Postal Service will release at least seven commemorative stamps and one postal stationery item during 1974.

Scheduled for issue early in the new year is an adhesive on the theme "Retarded Children Can Be Helped." It follows similar stamps issued in recent years warning against drug abuse and urging blood donor contributions and cancer checkups.

The 75th anniversary of the founding of the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) organization will be commemorated on a postage stamp early in 1974.

The centennial of the birth of Robert Frost, four-time winner of the Pulitzer Prize for Poetry, will be marked by a postal issue.

Stamp notes

A stamp will commemorate the 200th anniversary of the founding of the first permanent settlement in Kentucky at Fort Harrod. This issue is expected about midyear.

A block of four stamps will be issued in Philadelphia on July 4 honoring the 200th anniversary of the assembly of the First Continental Congress. This release continues postal recognition of the Bicentennial of the American Revolution.

A new aerogramme will salute the 25th anniversary of the founding of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

The postal service previously announced the 1974 issuance of two additional stamps in the Rural America Series. These will honor the 100th anniversary of the introduction of Kansas Hard Winter Wheat into the United States and the 100th anniverary of the establishment of the Chautauqua.

The battered Presidency: focus '74

Watergate and shortages assailed Nixon in 1973

by ARNOLD B. SAWISLAK
UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON — Battered but still battling, the Nixon Presidency lurches toward its sixth year sorely beset by too much Watergate and by shortages of what seems to be practically everything else.

The second year of Richard Nixon's second term begins so differently from the first that the hardest fact to accept about 1973 may be that it lasted only the usual 12 months.

As 1972 ended, the proud winner of a 62 per cent election mandate was confidently planning, at long last, to translate years of campaign rhetoric into action that would lead the nation back to "independence, self-reliance, pride."

Now, the plans lie virtually forgotten, many of the men who were to carry them forward are in disgrace or worse and the campaign that produced the greatest electoral vote landslide of three decades is widely held in contempt.

Worse may lie ahead. The Vice President, two cabinet secretaries and a long list of aides who worked at the President's shoulder in the first four years are gone. Some stand in jeopardy of prison.

The President himself is under the gravest attack — some members of his own party nave urged him to resign and the House Judiciary Committee is preparing an inquiry into the allegations of "high crimes and misdemeanors" contained in a small but menacing pile of formal impeachment resolutions.

Bob Lahey, the Herald's Political Editor, did not write a column today.

More has gone awry than Nixon's personal fortunes. The administration began the year struggling to find workable wage and price restraints and to stabilize the dollar in world markets. No sooner had those running sores been bandaged than the nation began running short of a bewildering shopping list — beef, gasoline, paper, onions, plastics, soybeans and, as winter approached, the fuels that millions of Americans depend upon to move and to warm their homes and shops.

The year did see the final withdrawal of American troops from Indochina and the return of the prisoners of war. But the war itself did not end and another conflict began in the Mideast tinderbox that was arrested with the shakiest of cease fires.

Still, the President's best marks for 1973 were in foreign policy. His real problems were and continue to be at home.

On Oct. 25, 1972, the Democratic presidential candidate made a major campaign speech in which he said, "The men who have collected millions in secret money, who have passed out special favors, who have ordered political sabotage, who have invaded our offices in the dead of night — all of these men work for Mr. Nixon. Most of them he hired himself. And their power comes from him alone. They act on his behalf, and they all accept his orders."

Two weeks later, Nixon swamped Sen. George McGovern at the polls. The Watergate scandal, which had seemed to McGovern to be an issue volatile enough to turn around the voters, only turned them off.

But as wrong as McGovern was about Watergate, his miscalculation was dwarfed by Nixon's. The President apparently believed that once the election was over, he did not have to worry about Watergate. And, putting aside all charges and theories about Nixon's role in Watergate and its attempted coverup, by failing to clean up the case before his second term began, the President exposed himself to the explosion that followed in 1973.

As a result, the President of the United States put himself into the humiliating position of having to say he had been bilked by his own associates and, finally, of having to deny in public that he was a "crook." He has had the embarrassment of having to choose three Attorneys General and a Vice President in a single year and the pain of having to face the most bluntly aggressive questions from the news media that any President ever has had to entertain.

Now, he must face the possibility of impeachment by the House and trial by the Senate. The constitutional process for removing a President from office is regarded as the nuclear bomb of politics, and it was clear congressional leaders did not want to use it. But the "Saturday Night Massacre" — the Cox-Richardson-Ruckelshaus affair — set the House of Representatives on a course that now seems cannot be stopped short of a formal decision on whether Nixon has committed "high crimes and misdemeanors."

However the impeachment inquiry ends, the fact that it was started and the experiences of 1973 have by themselves done immense damage to Nixon's standing with the public and among his political peers. If Watergate does nothing more to Nixon in 1974, it will already have spoiled his presidency by denying him the clear claim to national leadership that his 1972 election triumph established.

Nor could the discreet year-end visitor to the White House make small talk by asking, "Aside from that, how did you like 1973?"

The President began the year by trying to redeem his promises to "trim down" and "shuck off" federal programs that "just threw money at problems." He impounded federal funds previously appropriated by Congress and approved by himself for a long list of activities, with emphasis on social welfare programs started in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations. One such program, the Office of Economic Opportunity's "War on Poverty," he undertook to abolish.

The Democratic-controlled Congress made some threatening noises, but it was the courts that blocked the White House. They ruled in a number of cases that holding back legally appropriated funds was itself illegal, and not only told Nixon that he was obliged to continue OEO, but that his appointed undertaker for the agency, Howard Phillips, was serving illegally in the office of director.

Nixon did not get most of his prized legislative proposals through Congress — the long-awaited Phase II of New Federalism, called Special Revenue Sharing, went nowhere — but he did maintain a kind of negative mastery over Capitol Hill. Congress tried to override eight of his vetoes during 1973 and failed in every case but one — the "war powers" bill that would limit the President's power to send U.S. forces into action abroad without Congressional approval.

For 1974, White House and departmental spokesmen are talking about new initiatives to reform public welfare and enact a broad new health insurance program. But applying Nixon's own yardstick of "negotiating from strength" to his relations with Congress, his prospects for doing business with House and Senate leaders in any domestic field cannot be rated high.

The notion that the new Vice President, Gerald Ford, will be able to work miracles for the White House on Capitol Hill remains to be tested. But it should be remembered that Lyndon Johnson was a pretty fair country operative when he was in Congress and not too much help to John Kennedy when he became Vice President.

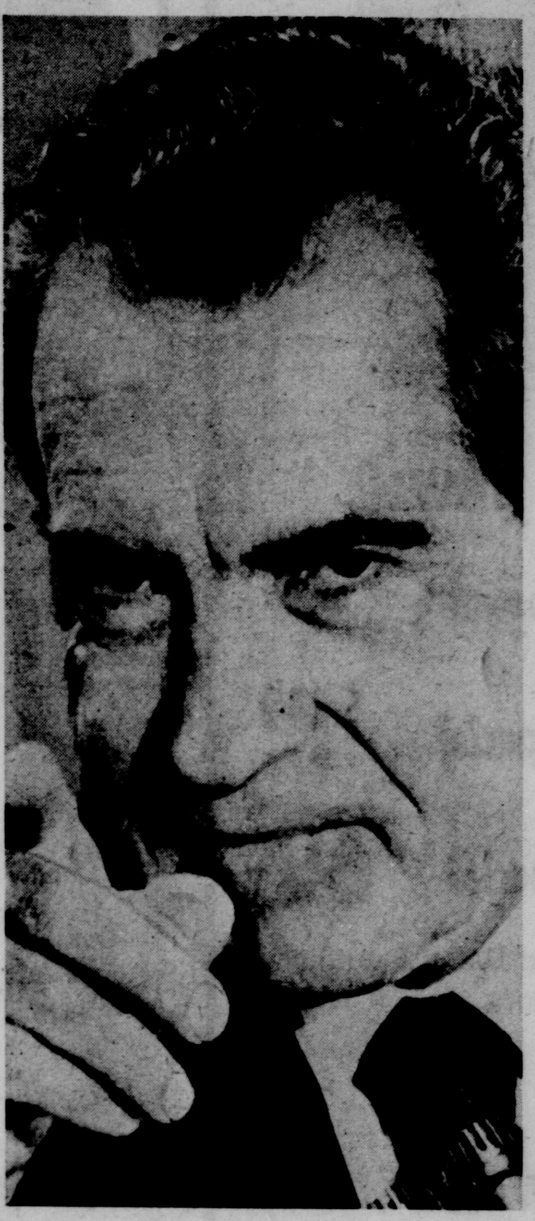
In foreign affairs, Nixon had to postpone his long-scheduled trip to Europe in a year that was supposed to be devoted to improving American prospects on that continent, but he did act as host of a successful state visit by Soviet Party Chairman Leonid Brezhnev, who he had to stand up to a few months later when the Arab-Israeli war appeared headed for a U.S-Russian confrontation.

Presidential adviser Henry Kissinger became Secretary of State and kept on traveling and fixing — with more visits to China and to Middle Eastern countries to lead the way toward a cease-fire and peace conference.

Foreign economic developments were less upbeat, except for the turnabout in the balance of trade, which produced black ink for the first time in some years. But world gold prices went out of sight and the U.S. dollar took a fearful battering earlier in the year and had to be devalued for the second time in 18 months.

The 1973 record for world affairs might be regarded as a plus except for a development, perhaps more domestic than foreign in origin, that threatens a dark and chilly winter for the nation — and, by the processes which form public opinion — for the Nixon administration.

It really should not be startling news that the United States is running out of energy. Forsighted business people as well as scholars have been saying for years that the country was abusing its fuel supplies and would have to cut back soon. In the summer of 1973, it happened.



Gasoline ran short in many areas of the country, inconveniencing a lot of Americans. But as the days grew shorter, authorities began talking about coming shortages of oil and electricity, and that meant discomfort. This possibility became a reality when Arab nations, objecting to U.S. arms and diplomatic support of Israel in the latest Mideast conflict, cut off oil shipments to this country. While the Arabs provide less than 10 per cent of the oil used in this country, even that loss transformed plans for voluntary cutbacks into mandatory reductions of aviation fuel and heating oil and brought talk of gasoline rationing for the first time in 30 years.

As the year ended, airlines, automobile manufacturers and a number of other energy-dependent industries were laying off workers or making cutback plans, and unemployment, at its lowest peacetime level in decades, was starting to climb again. Worse, so was inflation, as the marketplace demanded more money for the decreasing supply of fuels.

This is what President Nixon should be worried about. His Watergate problems may turn out to be his smallest concerns if Americans in large numbers are (1) unable to heat their homes and shops, (2) thrown out of work because products or services depending upon energy cannot be sold, and (3) denied the use of their automobiles, the symbol of the post-World war II prosperity that did much to get the nation into the energy mess in the first place.

If there is real human hardship, even in the homes of the affluent, and if there is a real recession, as some economists predict, the chances are strong that the public will, as it has done many times before, blame the man in charge, President Nixon. In the middle of an ordinary presidential term, this could mean an unpopular, weakened chief executive. Midway in the Nixon second term, it could be the snowflake that looses the avalanche.

Agnew spending must end

Spiro T. Agnew resigned from the federal government over two months ago — but from the actions of the White House, you'd think he's still the vice president.

It was reported last week that the General Accounting Office, the spending watchdog agency of the federal government, revealed that at least $100,000 had been spent to provide offices, aides and other privileges to Agnew since he resigned as vice president.

The costs were accounted through Dec. 4, and did not include the cost of Secret Service agents, who continue to guard the former vice president on a round-the-clock basis.

The GAO also reported there was no legal basis for assigning the Secret Service agent to Agnew, and it questioned paying money for Agnew's office aides. However, attempts by the GAO to get more information about the questionable spending have been blocked by the While House.

It is one thing to provide minimal Secret Service protection to former public officials, as has been done during recent Presidential races. It can be argued that Agnew should be granted some sort of minimal protection.

However, Agnew is no longer a government employe, and he is a convicted felon. He should have no right to free office space, a staff and the other niceties to which he became accustomed as vice president. His tax-supported staff is a flagrant abuse of the realities of his criminal record and his disgracing of the office of Vice President of the United States.

Currently, the former vice president is pleading for leniency in disbarment hearings in Maryland. His argument is that in the future he will bring credit to the legal profession as a practicing lawyer, if he is only suspended from practicing law.

But Alfred Scanlan, the lawyer for the Maryland Bar Assn. who is arguing for disbarment, summed it up by stating, "There really are no extenuating circumstances in this case" that would argue for only a suspension of Agnew as a practicing lawyer. "This is not a lawyer who worked hard, got some fees and didn't report it," Scanlan said.

Agnew will be placed under some hardship without the ability to practice law, but he's also made many friends during his years of accepting cash from builders. We don't expect the former vice president to starve, and we believe, because of his abuse of his profession and his national office, he deserves to be punished as fully as possible for his confessed crime.

Herald newsboys lauded

It was shortly after six this morning, still dark, when I looked out at the piles of snow and to my amazement saw the newsboy bringing the Herald to my door. He's a small kid, and with the filled newspaper bag hanging from his side he had some difficulty trudging through the snow piled up on the sidewalks. He wore low-cut shoes; storm boots, you see, are beyond this kid's means and he is probably saving to buy a pair. Then he thought, perhaps, that maybe he could wait a while yet for those, as his small earnings had to be used first to get that Christmas present for mom, and maybe a sister or sisters or brother. It was a tough decision to make.

One cannot help but admire a kid like that, a kid reaching the age when he begins to understand the difficulties of rearing a family, the terrific strain on the family's income under present conditions to provide even the simple necessities of life. A kid getting up so early in the morning to help mom and dad shows that he is made of the right stuff and he will most certainly get along in life, just as have thousands of successful business and professional men who started out as newsboys.

At this Christmas time it would be nice to extend a helping hand to your newsboy with a suitable monetary gift to give him encouragement.

Elk Grove praised

In the midst of our December 13 snowstorm, a young lady showed up on my doorstep with no funds, and suddenly denied a job arranged by an Evanston employment agency. She was looking for a way to get back to Evanston, and with conditions the way they were that day, I'm afraid I was skeptical after hearing her story. The only place I could think to turn for help was the Elk Grove Police Department, and it proved to be a very wise move for both, especially the young lady.

When I called for follow-up informationl I found she was safely ensconsed in the Holiday Inn, with dinner and breakfast and assistance by the YWCA and another agency assured.

How wonderful to live in Elk Grove, where people truly care. This young woman could have been dropped off at our village limits and left to fend for herself, but instead the Elk Grove police and allied agencies showed they care. Bravo, Elk Grove, I'm proud to live here.

Nor could the discreet year-end visitor to the White House make small talk by asking, "Aside from that, how did you like 1973?"

The President began the year by trying to redeem his promises to "trim down" and "shuck off" federal programs that "just threw money at problems." He impounded federal funds previously appropriated by Congress and approved by himself for a long list of activities, with emphasis on social welfare programs started in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations. One such program, the Office of Economic Opportunity's "War on Poverty," he undertook to abolish.

The Democratic-controlled Congress made some threatening noises, but it was the courts that blocked the White House. They ruled in a number of cases that holding back legally appropriated funds was itself illegal, and not only told Nixon that he was obliged to continue OEO, but that his appointed undertaker for the agency, Howard Phillips, was serving illegally in the office of director.

Nixon did not get most of his prized legislative proposals through Congress — the long-awaited Phase II of New Federalism, called Special Revenue Sharing, went nowhere — but he did maintain a kind of negative mastery over Capitol Hill. Congress tried to override eight of his vetoes during 1973 and failed in every case but one — the "war powers" bill that would limit the President's power to send U.S. forces into action abroad without Congressional approval.

For 1974, White House and departmental spokesmen are talking about new initiatives to reform public welfare and enact a broad new health insurance program. But applying Nixon's own yardstick of "negotiating from strength" to his relations with Congress, his prospects for doing business with House and Senate leaders in any domestic field cannot be rated high.

The notion that the new Vice President, Gerald Ford, will be able to work miracles for the White House on Capitol Hill remains to be tested. But it should be remembered that Lyndon Johnson was a pretty fair country operative when he was in Congress and not too much help to John Kennedy when he became Vice President.

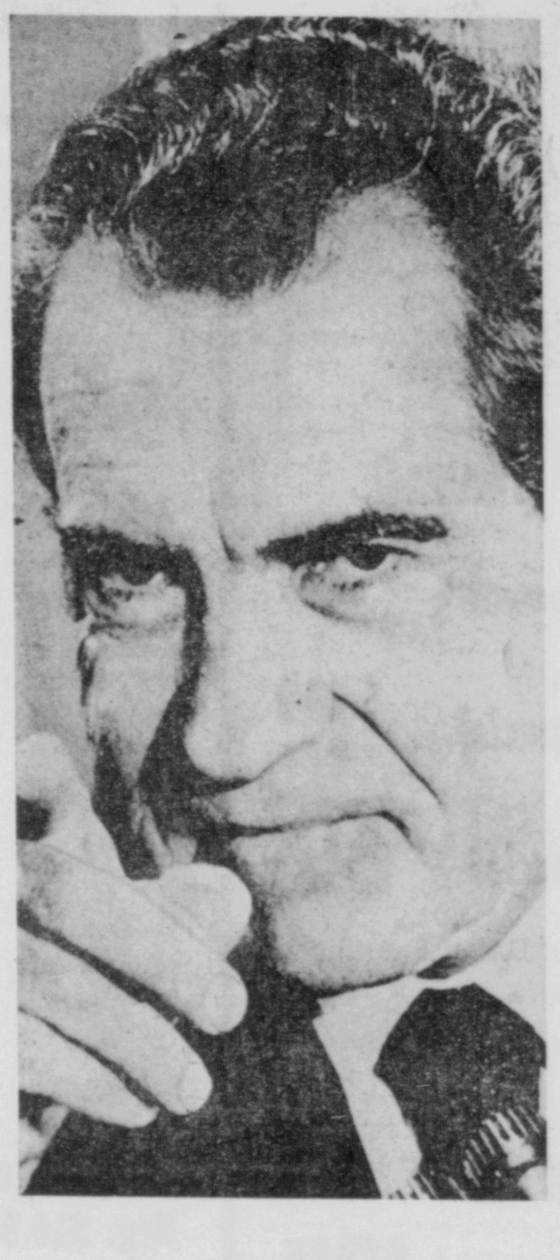
In foreign affairs, Nixon had to postpone his long-scheduled trip to Europe in a year that was supposed to be devoted to improving American prospects on that continent, but he did act as host of a successful state visit by Soviet Party Chairman Leonid Brezhnev, who he had to stand up to a few months later when the Arab-Israeli war appeared headed for a U.S-Russian confrontation.

Presidential adviser Henry Kissinger became Secretary of State and kept on traveling and fixing — with more visits to China and to Middle Eastern countries to lead the way toward a cease-fire and peace conference.

Foreign economic developments were less upbeat, except for the turnabout in the balance of trade, which produced black ink for the first time in some years. But world gold prices went out of sight and the U.S. dollar took a fearful battering earlier in the year and had to be devalued for the second time in 18 months.

The 1973 record for world affairs might be regarded as a plus except for a development, perhaps more domestic than foreign in origin, that threatens a dark and chilly winter for the nation — and, by the processes which form public opinion — for the Nixon administration.

It really should not be startling news that the United States is running out of energy. Forsighted business people as well as scholars have been saying for years that the country was abusing its fuel supplies and would have to cut back soon. In the summer of 1973, it happened.



Gasoline ran short in many areas of the country, inconveniencing a lot of Americans. But as the days grew shorter, authorities began talking about coming shortages of oil and electricity, and that meant discomfort. This possibility became a reality when Arab nations, objecting to U.S. arms and diplomatic support of Israel in the latest Mideast conflict, cut off oil shipments to this country. While the Arabs provide less than 10 per cent of the oil used in this country, even that loss transformed plans for voluntary cutbacks into mandatory reductions of aviation fuel and heating oil and brought talk of gasoline rationing for the first time in 30 years.

As the year ended, airlines, automobile manufacturers and a number of other energy-dependent industries were laying off workers or making cutback plans, and unemployment, at its lowest peacetime level in decades, was starting to climb again. Worse, so was inflation, as the marketplace demanded more money for the decreasing supply of fuels.

This is what President Nixon should be worried about. His Watergate problems may turn out to be his smallest concerns if Americans in large numbers are (1) unable to heat their homes and shops, (2) thrown out of work because products or services depending upon energy cannot be sold, and (3) denied the use of their automobiles, the symbol of the post-World war II prosperity that did much to get the nation into the energy mess in the first place.

If there is real human hardship, even in the homes of the affluent, and if there is a real recession, as some economists predict, the chances are strong that the public will, as it has done many times before, blame the man in charge, President Nixon. In the middle of an ordinary presidential term, this could mean an unpopular, weakened chief executive. Midway in the Nixon second term, it could be the snowflake that looses the avalanche.

Does that feel better, Spiro?

Agnew spending must end

Spiro T. Agnew resigned from the federal government over two months ago — but from the actions of the White House, you'd think he's still the vice president.

It was reported last week that the General Accounting Office, the spending watchdog agency of the federal government, revealed that at least $100,000 had been spent to provide offices, aides and other privileges to Agnew since he resigned as vice president.

The costs were accounted through Dec. 4, and did not include the cost of Secret Service agents, who continue to guard the former vice president on a round-the-clock basis.

The GAO also reported there was no legal basis for assigning the Secret Service agent to Agnew, and it questioned paying money for Agnew's office aides. However, attempts by the GAO to get more information about the questionable spending have been blocked by the While House.

It is one thing to provide minimal Secret Service protection to former public officials, as has been done during recent Presidential races. It can be argued that Agnew should be granted some sort of minimal protection.

However, Agnew is no longer a government employe, and he is a convicted felon. He should have no right to free office space, a staff and the other niceties to which he became accustomed as vice president. His tax-supported staff is a flagrant abuse of the realities of his criminal record and his disgracing of the office of Vice President of the United States.

Currently, the former vice president is pleading for leniency in disbarment hearings in Maryland. His argument is that in the future he will bring credit to the legal profession as a practicing lawyer, if he is only suspended from practicing law.

But Alfred Scanlan, the lawyer for the Maryland Bar Assn. who is arguing for disbarment, summed it up by stating, "There really are no extenuating circumstances in this case" that would argue for only a suspension of Agnew as a practicing lawyer. "This is not a lawyer who worked hard, got some fees and didn't report it," Scanlan said.

Agnew will be placed under some hardship without the ability to practice law, but he's also made many friends during his years of accepting cash from builders. We don't expect the former vice president to starve, and we believe, because of his abuse of his profession and his national office, he deserves to be punished as fully as possible for his confessed crime.

Herald newsboys lauded

It was shortly after six this morning, still dark, when I looked out at the piles of snow and to my amazement saw the newsboy bringing the Herald to my door. He's a small kid, and with the filled newspaper bag hanging from his side he had some difficulty trudging through the snow piled up on the sidewalks. He wore low-cut shoes; storm boots, you see, are beyond this kid's means and he is probably saving to buy a pair. Then he thought, perhaps, that maybe he could wait a while yet for those, as his small earnings had to be used first to get that Christmas present for mom, and maybe a sister or sisters or brother. It was a tough decision to make.

One cannot help but admire a kid like that, a kid reaching the age when he begins to understand the difficulties of rearing a family, the terrific strain on the family's income under present conditions to provide even the simple necessities of life. A kid getting up so early in the morning to help mom and dad shows that he is made of the right stuff and he will most certainly get along in life, just as have thousands of successful business and professional men who started out as newsboys.

At this Christmas time it would be nice to extend a helping hand to your newsboy with a suitable monetary gift to give him encouragement.

Elk Grove praised

In the midst of our December 13 snowstorm, a young lady showed up on my doorstep with no funds, and suddenly denied a job arranged by an Evanston employment agency. She was looking for a way to get back to Evanston, and with conditions the way they were that day, I'm afraid I was skeptical after hearing her story. The only place I could think to turn for help was the Elk Grove Police Department, and it proved to be a very wise move for both, especially the young lady.

When I called for follow-up informationl I found she was safely ensconsed in the Holiday Inn, with dinner and breakfast and assistance by the YWCA and another agency assured.

How wonderful to live in Elk Grove, where people truly care. This young woman could have been dropped off at our village limits and left to fend for herself, but instead the Elk Grove police and allied agencies showed they care. Bravo, Elk Grove, I'm proud to live here.

Socker Boppers bring Palatine company into the fight for national toy sales

by LEA TONKIN

Business today

Pow! Bif! Blam!

Those are the crisp, clear sounds of children at play, letting off steam in a way that comes naturally. Why can't the kids stop all that ruckus and fighting, parents ask.

Take heart, folks. Thanks to a small toy company founded in Palatine several years ago, the distinct sounds of battle and the cries of a child "wounded" in a punching bout can be muffled. Now it's Whoosh! Plop! and Oomph! the sweet sounds of success for toy makers Tom Mayfield and Randolph Hammer.

"Our goal is that every kid in the U.S. will have two sets of Socker Boppers," says Hammer. For the uninitiated, Socker Boppers are soft, inflatable king-size boxing gloves made by Centsable Products Inc.

"EVERY KID has a lot of energy," said Mayfield, Centsable president. He says the Socker Boppers offer a way of releasing this energy without inflicting injuries. "It's like a pillow fight," he says. "Any kid who wants to can pound on another kid. We've had very good responses from elementary schools and schools for the retarded where they encourage this type of play."

In the sophisticated world of toy manufacturers, the success story of Socker Boppers is one that's hard to beat. "We're awful darn lucky to have a toy like this," says Mayfield. "Maybe we never will again." He's cagey about the exact number of the punchy toys that have been sold in the past year, but says it's a few million. A top seller throughout 1973, Socker Boppers will be among the Centsable playthings to be offered next year.

The secrecy about sales figures is the only thing about Sentsable that links it to big name toymakers. There's no barbed wire fence or security guards posted to ward off would-be toy design thieves. No staff of researchers and inventors. No plans to score big sales gains in the high-priced Christmas sales market.

Mayfield and company vice president Hammer are up to their shirtsleeves in every aspect of the business. They listen to up-and-coming inventors talk about brainstorms for new toys. "Like the inventor of the Socker Boppers," said Mayfield. "He's a foreman at a steel mill on the South Side of Chicago."

SOUNDING OUT playful ideas — "sometimes it's just an idea on a piece of paper" — they make up models of promising toys. "Then we try out the toys on our kids and their friends," said Mayfield. He figures that any toy that can withstand three days of intensive use stands a good chance of survival in the toy market.

Success has come slowly for Centsable. "This is the first year we've really gone someplace," added Mayfield. Yet he, Hammer and other employes wouldn't trade a minute of the efforts they've spent to transform Centsable from a unknown maker of housewares gadgets to a successful venture.

"There's a satisfaction of working in a small company that you just can't get at a big corporation," says Mayfield, formerly in the food industry. Hammer nods in agreement, when he talks about the responsibility for putting ideas to work. Hammer was a General Motors marketing representative before joining Centsable. He notes that one of the women working for the Palatine toy company joined the Playskool company when it included only three employes. How's that for incentive, he asks?

Centsable made the jump from sales of Butter Uppers and other small gadgets to smash sales of Socker Boppers after a promotional spot on the Johnny Carson show a year ago. "You've heard of Butter Uppers haven't you?" asked Mayfield. The little gizmo that's supposed to be a boon for buttering ears of corn was one of the mainstay Centsable products at the time. Mayfield says a heavy television promotion boosted general distribution of toys in 1973.

NOW THE company is concentrating its efforts on a new line of toys for 1974. A line being kept under wraps for the moment. Mayfield said the under-$5 market is "where it's at" for Centsable. "Our most expensive toy costs $4 now," he says.

"We think it lends itself to impulse buying, for year-round sales. Most toy companies concentrate primarily on Christmas sales," he says.

A vinyl playhouse that fits over a card table and a green froggy named Grabbit are also among the firm's offerings.

Expansion of the Centsable sales is on Mayfield's mind for 1974. He says the operation at 305 N. Eric Dr., Palatine, is outgrowing the facilities. With worldwide sales planned for next year, the company will add to the facilities, or possibly construct a local plant next year. Centsable recently purchased Austin Art Studios in Omaha, Neb. The firm produces Halloween costumes, novelties and decorations.

Centsable operations in the U.S. are largely packaging and distribution centers. The production of the plastic toys is subcontracted at a Taiwan plant.

Shortages of petrochemical raw materials could hurt the business in the coming year, Mayfield concedes. "But it's always hard to predict what's going to happen in this business," he adds.

Mayfield can smile when he talks about uncertainty. "In the past year, our business has multiplied eight times," he said.

MUFFLED SOUNDS of success — it's the action when kids get together to fight it out with Socker Boppers. Trying them out are Tom Mayfield, right, and Randolph Hammer of Centsable Products Inc.

New poster explains job safety rules

A revised safety and health protection on the job poster published by the U.S. Department of Labor summarizes responsibilities of employers and employes.

The Williams-Steiger Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970 requires that the poster be displayed in most workplaces.

The new poster is more detailed than the old one and explains the rights of employes during inspections by the Labor Department's Occupational Safety and Health Administration, as well as procedures for filing complaints, citation provisions, and OSHA's commitment to encouraging voluntary compliance.

Copies are available free from regional offices of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, listed under Department of Labor, in the phone book. A regional OSHA office is located in Chicago.

State Chamber: relax EPA rules

by LEA TONKIN

BUSINESS AS USUAL — that's what the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce wants to maintain in the development of new shopping centers and other major developments. The chamber says regulations of complex sources of air pollution, as outlined by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, would step on developer's toes and crimp the state's economy.

Raymond J. Bodnar, environmental affairs director for the state chamber, said the proposed regulations could "stifle growth and development in our major metropolitan centers." Movie theaters, convention centers, industrial parks, housing projects, roads and shopping centers are among the projects which would be affected by the regulations.

The state EPA wants developers to apply for a permit before major construction projects could be undertaken. The prevention of further deterioration in air quality for the Chicago metropolitan area and other regions is at stake, the EPA contends.

The Illinois Pollution Control Board recently wrapped up hearings on the proposals and will consider whether or not to adopt the rules in present form.

'Clean' float for Rose parade

"HAPPINESS IS A Clean America." The theme of the Interior Department's Johnny Horizon '76 program will be carried on a colorful float in the 1974 Tournament of Roses Parade on New Year's Day. The float in the Pasadena, Calif., parade is cosponsored by the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

The Johnny Horizon '76 program is a nationwide consumer action awareness program that calls for help in improvement of the environment. Thousands of citizen groups and individuals throughout the U.S. sponsor the program, recognized as an official Bicentennial activity.

Firm wants variance

NEW CASES entered before the Illinois Pollution Control Board include Weber Marking Systems Inc. vs. the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency. The maker of stencils and carbon paper in Arlington Heights seeks a variance until June 1 of next year to permit discharge of contaminants until a solvent recovery system is installed and operational. The system was supposed to have been operating by Dec. 31, but components were not delivered on time. The equipment is expected to be in use by April 5, and no later than June 1, the company says.

Public comments welcome

COMMENTS from the public are welcome on proposed new standards for diesel-engine emissions and procedural-rule revisions, says the Illinois Pollution Control Board. Comments should be made to the clerk of the board in Chicago. They should be identified by the number of the proceeding, R72-3 and R73-14, respectively.

Animal importer jailed

WELL-KNOWN .importer Fred J. Zeehandelaar, was recently sentenced to three years in jail and fined $5.000 for falsifying documents in an effort to import 20 cheetahs. The animals are on the endangered species list.

Special agents of the U.S Fish and Wildlife Service initiated the investigation which led to Zeehandelaar's arrest and conviction, reports the Conservation News publication of the National Wildlife Federation.

Zeehandelaar is a former advisor on wild animal importations to the American Assn. of Zoological Parks and Museums. He has also testified before Congress on endangered species legislation and worked with the Interior Department on laws affecting wild animal importation.

No coyote shortage

THERE'S NO shortage of coyotes, despite an increasing demand for the animal pelts. In Kansas, which can boast the nation's highest population of coyotes, a pelt brings $12 or more. The coyote was once sought only for its ears, which brought a $5 bounty.

According to F. Robert Henderson, extension specialist with the Wildlife Damage Control Department at Kansas State University, the increased demand for coyote pelts is due to the dwindling population of wolves to the north. Coyote pelts, along with those of other long haired animals such as the fox and bobcat, are being exported for use on ski clothes in Europe.

Henderson says the coyote is in no danger of becoming an endangered species as long as conservation laws are obeyed. He's seconded by Clarence Wales, a Kansas hunter and trapper. Wales took 73 coyotes last year to become the runner up for the coyote trapping national championship.

"There is no shortage of coyotes," Wales said. "The coyote has worked his way around civilization." He adds that much of the livestock loss attributed to coyotes is caused by dogs. Wales said he hopes the federal government does not "come in with another poisoning contract such as it has in the past to kill coyotes."

Win at bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Our old friend pessimistic Pete writes, "Here is my favorite rubber bridge hand of 1973. It sure illustrates the importance of playing safe for your contract.

"I happened to sit East. My jack of clubs was taken by South's ace. South proceeded to play a diamond to the queen and a second diamond to the king. Then he played a third and fourth diamond. I was in with the jack and had noted that my partner had discarded the three and five of hearts and five of clubs so I promptly led my six of spades. South's 10 lost to my partner's jack. He returned a low spade to my king. I led my last spade and all of a sudden we had five tricks in."

Pete's letter continues for some time, but the gist of it is that South could and should have insured his contract by finessing his nine of diamonds at trick three.

This might have lost to a doubleton or tripleton jack in the West hand, but the three notrump contract would still wheel in. Even if West shifted to a low spade the defense could not gather in more than three spade tricks and South would then be sure of the nine needed for game and rubber.

State Chamber: relax EPA rules

by LEA TONKIN

BUSINESS AS USUAL — that's what the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce wants to maintain in the development of new shopping centers and other major developments. The chamber says regulations of complex sources of air pollution, as outlined by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, would step on developer's toes and crimp the state's economy.

Raymond J. Bodnar, environmental affairs director for the state chamber, said the proposed regulations could "stifle growth and development in our major metropolitan centers." Movie theaters, convention centers, industrial parks, housing projects, roads and shopping centers are among the projects which would be affected by the regulations.

The state EPA wants developers to apply for a permit before major construction projects could be undertaken. The prevention of further deterioration in air quality for the Chicago metropolitan area and other regions is at stake, the EPA contends.

The Illinois Pollution Control Board recently wrapped up hearings on the proposals and will consider whether or not to adopt the rules in present form.

'Clean' float for Rose parade

"HAPPINESS IS A Clean America." The theme of the Interior Department's Johnny Horizon '76 program will be carried on a colorful float in the 1974 Tournament of Roses Parade on New Year's Day. The float in the Pasadena, Calif., parade is cosponsored by the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

The Johnny Horizon '76 program is a nationwide consumer action awareness program that calls for help in improvement of the environment. Thousands of citizen groups and individuals throughout the U.S. sponsor the program, recognized as an official Bicentennial activity.

Firm wants variance

NEW CASES entered before the Illinois Pollution Control Board include Weber Marking Systems Inc. vs. the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency. The maker of stencils and carbon paper in Arlington Heights seeks a variance until June 1 of next year to permit discharge of contaminants until a solvent recovery system is installed and operational. The system was supposed to have been operating by Dec. 31, but components were not delivered on time. The equipment is expected to be in use by April 5, and no later than June 1, the company says.

Public comments welcome

COMMENTS from the public are welcome on proposed new standards for diesel-engine emissions and procedural-rule revisions, says the Illinois Pollution Control Board. Comments should be made to the clerk of the board in Chicago. They should be identified by the number of the proceeding, R72-3 and R73-14, respectively.

Animal importer jailed

WELL-KNOWN .importer Fred J. Zeehandelaar, was recently sentenced to three years in jail and fined $5.000 for falsifying documents in an effort to import 20 cheetahs. The animals are on the endangered species list.

Special agents of the U.S Fish and Wildlife Service initiated the investigation which led to Zeehandelaar's arrest and conviction, reports the Conservation News publication of the National Wildlife Federation.

Zeehandelaar is a former advisor on wild animal importations to the American Assn. of Zoological Parks and Museums. He has also testified before Congress on endangered species legislation and worked with the Interior Department on laws affecting wild animal importation.

No coyote shortage

THERE'S NO shortage of coyotes, despite an increasing demand for the animal pelts. In Kansas, which can boast the nation's highest population of coyotes, a pelt brings $12 or more. The coyote was once sought only for its ears, which brought a $5 bounty.

According to F. Robert Henderson, extension specialist with the Wildlife Damage Control Department at Kansas State University, the increased demand for coyote pelts is due to the dwindling population of wolves to the north. Coyote pelts, along with those of other long haired animals such as the fox and bobcat, are being exported for use on ski clothes in Europe.

Henderson says the coyote is in no danger of becoming an endangered species as long as conservation laws are obeyed. He's seconded by Clarence Wales, a Kansas hunter and trapper. Wales took 73 coyotes last year to become the runner up for the coyote trapping national championship.

"There is no shortage of coyotes," Wales said. "The coyote has worked his way around civilization." He adds that much of the livestock loss attributed to coyotes is caused by dogs. Wales said he hopes the federal government does not "come in with another poisoning contract such as it has in the past to kill coyotes."

Win at bridge

by Oswald and
James Jacoby

Our old friend pessimistic Pete writes, "Here is my favorite rubber bridge hand of 1973. It sure illustrates the importance of playing safe for your contract.

"I happened to sit East. My jack of clubs was taken by South's ace. South proceeded to play a diamond to the queen and a second diamond to the king. Then he played a third and fourth diamond. I was in with the jack and had noted that my partner had discarded the three and five of hearts and five of clubs so I promptly led my six of spades. South's 10 lost to my partner's jack. He returned a low spade to my king. I led my last spade and all of a sudden we had five tricks in."

Catholic TV network plans to be on air by March 1

by PAT GERLACH

A four-channel television network operated by the Chicago Catholic Archdiocese is expected to be on the air by March 1.

The Chicago Archdiocesan Multi-Media Communications Center and Network (CAMCAN) announced purchase this week of broadcast equipment for the system.

Relay towers 285 feet high will be placed in Schaumburg and Orland townships in Cook County and in Mundelein in Lake County.

The Schaumburg tower will be located on an undeveloped portion of St. Michael The Archangel Cemetery, Algonquin and Roselle roads.

THE NETWORK should be fully operational within one year, according to a CAMCAN spokesman.

"CAMCAN is envisioned as an audio-visual communications network to serve the needs and interests of the entire Archdiocese — including schools, seminaries, parishes, catechetical centers and all agencies of the diocese," explained the Rev. James F. Moriarty, CAMCAN director.

It will produce motion picture films, film strips and slides, audio/video cassettes and other types of graphic presentations for use by archiodcesan agencies, he said.

Programs will be transmitted in the band of frequencies set aside for International Television Fixed Service (ITFS), Father Moriarty said.

"TV signals at these microwave frequencies are picked up by a rooftop dish-like antenna and passed through a 'down converter' so they may be received by a standard TV set," he continued.

FATHER MORIARTY emphasized that this will permit simultaneous transmission of four different color programs on as many channels.

A master antenna will be mounted 28 feet above the 110th floor of Sears Tower and a CAMCAN transmitter will be located in the same building.

TOWERS IDENTICAL to the one in Schaumburg Township will be constructed on land owned by the archdiocese in Mundelein in Lake County and Orland Park in the south end of Cook County.

"The need for effective communications in the pastoral ministry of the Church has never been greater. Properly used, the tools of communications can assist in spreading the good news of the Gospel," said John Cardinal Cody, Archbishop of Chicago, in announcing the progress of CAMCAN toward a fully operational network.

Cardinal Cody added that with a full complement of program — originating and recording equipment planned for its studios, CAMCAN could eventually be in a position to become a national producer of television programming for the Catholic Church.

Executive director of CAMCAN is Charles E. Hinds Jr., former assistant to the vice president and general manager of WBBM-TV.

Charles W. Crum has been named CAMCAN chief engineer. Crum spent nine years as studio engineer and technical director of NBC-TV studios in Chicago. CAMCAN studios are at 1 N. Wacker Dr., Chicago.

Picnic permits available soon

It's picnic permit time again for the Cook County Forest Preserve District.

The district's permit office will begin accepting applications for 1974 at 5 a.m. Monday in room 230, County Building, 118 N. Clark, Chicago. Permits are necessary for any group of 25 or more, and lines traditonally form early for the choice selections for summer outings.

Permits are issued on a first-come, first-served basis only to applicants who appear in person. A $5 refundable deposit is required when application is made.

District Pres. George Dunne said use of the forest preserve picnic facilities is increasing, with 1,000 more permits issued in 1973 than in 1972. A total of 8,200 permits were issued last year, for groups totaling about 2.5 million people. Small groups and families who don't need permits may have added another 1 million to that, according to the district.

Service league offers $1,000 scholarships

Two $1,000 health career scholarships are being offered by the Service League of Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge. This year the league has increased the scholarships that were formerly $500 each.

Lutheran General employes or their children, children of leaguers, and high school seniors from 28 area high schools are eligible to apply for the grants.

This is the eighth year that scholarships have been offered to encourage young people to enter health careers. Additional information and applications may be obtained from the league.

Enrollment dip for area schools

"If you go down 200 students, that doesn't mean you can dismiss the equivalent number of teachers," Busenhart says. "You don't lose enrollment in neat packages of 25 or 30 per grade level."

In addition, Busenhart says, the amount of state school aid a district receives is based on the number of students it has in regular attendance. As enrollment goes down, state aid goes down and for a district facing inflation that can mean trouble.

SUPT. DONALD STRONG of Arlington Heights Dist. 25 adds another dimension to the budget problem. Dist. 25, which has a declining enrollment, "did not this year make proportional teacher reductions because we chose to improve class size," he says.

As enrollments go down, districts may also find themselves confronting new issues when they sit down to bargain with the teachers. David Tomchek, local representative for the Illinois Education Assn., the state's largest teacher union, says declining enrollments can create uncertainly among teachers "and more uncertainty usually means more trouble."

Tomchek says he expects teachers to be asking for a voice in decisions on cost cutting measures that may be prompted by declining enrollments and "you'll probably see a lot of hassles over seniority clauses in contracts which you have not had until now."

Whatever present or future problems the new enrollment trends may bring to educators, however, most agree with Ken Gill's assessment that, at least for now, the problems are outweighed by benefits.

STRONG SAYS, "The impact, at least initially, is good. Our schools were built fast and tended to have just the bare minimum. Libraries were half-size areas off in a corner. Now we're getting adequate libraries, art and music rooms and other things that would have been part of the original design if we had had the money at the time."

In Dist. 21, Gill says, "The fact that we're not growing so fast means we can stabilize our educational program a little. I've always said that when new parents and teachers come into the district we have to sell them on our history. That's been very hard when there are so many of them at once."

Tomchek, who may end up across bargaining tables with the superintendents on issues centered on declining enrollments, tends to agree. "Buildings are a big bore," he says. "I think the schools need the breathing room they're getting now. This will give the schools an opportunity to offer a complete program."

THE TREND TOWARD stable or declining enrollments may change, of course, and districts may suddenly find themselves caught up in a new surge if trends change, but for now, at least, it appears the suburban school boom is over.

The public attitude toward the new calm is something that school officials find hard to measure. When schools were bursting at the seams, problems were easy to see and communities tended to rally around in the crisis atmosphere.

Now, the public may become apathetic toward the schools that no longer have attention-grabbing problems. Or, in Strong's fond hope, something else may happen.

"In a crisis," Strong says, "people will accept things as the 'best you can do,' but when the crisis is passed, people may become more interested in quality rather than survival. I think people will tend to look closer at their schools and maybe there will be a little greater depth of insight by everybody."

If you think you need $5,000, $10,000 or $20,000 to earn 7½%, look again.

At Bell, all it takes is $1,000.

Bell Federal pays the highest interest rates allowed by law—on the minimum amount required by law. That means it takes only $1,000 to begin earning a guaranteed 7½% in our 4-year certificate.

Of course, you're not going to tie up your last $1,000 of savings for years, if you're going to need it, because withdrawals before maturity earn our passbook interest, less 90 days interest. But it's nice to know that on every $1,000 you can afford to put away for four years, you can be earning the highest insured interest rate allowed by law.

What's more, under our new method of compounding interest, we pay the highest annual yield possible on your savings. For instance, our 7½% yields a full 7.90%.

And, as always, money deposited in a certificate by the 10th of any month earns interest from the 1st, when left on deposit until the end of the calendar quarter. We'll also be happy to set up a monthly income check plan for you.

While we can guarantee 7½% for four years in our certificate, we cannot guarantee how long we can make this offer. So fill out the transfer form now, or stop by either of our two locations. Start your money earning the highest possible rate on insured savings.

Enrollment dip for area schools

goes down also isn't simple.

"If you go down 200 students, that doesn't mean you can dismiss the equivalent number of teachers," Busenhart says. "You don't lose enrollment in neat packages of 25 or 30 per grade level."

In addition, Busenhart says, the amount of state school aid a district receives is based on the number of students it has in regular attendance. As enrollment goes down, state aid goes down and for a district facing inflation that can mean trouble.

SUPT. DONALD STRONG of Arlington Heights Dist. 25 adds another dimension to the budget problem. Dist. 25, which has a declining enrollment, "did not this year make proportional teacher reductions because we chose to improve class size," he says.

As enrollments go down, districts may also find themselves confronting new issues when they sit down to bargain with the teachers. David Tomchek, local representative for the Illinois Education Assn., the state's largest teacher union, says declining enrollments can create uncertainly among teachers "and more uncertainty usually means more trouble."

Tomchek says he expects teachers to be asking for a voice in decisions on cost cutting measures that may be prompted by declining enrollments and "you'll probably see a lot of hassles over seniority clauses in contracts which you have not had until now."

Whatever present or future problems the new enrollment trends may bring to educators, however, most agree with Ken Gill's assessment that, at least for now, the problems are outweighed by benefits.

STRONG SAYS, "The impact, at least initially, is good. Our schools were built fast and tended to have just the bare minimum. Libraries were half-size areas off in a corner. Now we're getting adequate libraries, art and music rooms and other things that would have been part of the original design if we had had the money at the time."

In Dist. 21, Gill says, "The fact that we're not growing so fast means we can stabilize our educational program a little. I've always said that when new parents and teachers come into the district we have to sell them on our history. That's been very hard when there are so many of them at once."

Tomchek, who may end up across bargaining tables with the superintendents on issues centered on declining enrollments, tends to agree. "Buildings are a big bore," he says. "I think the schools need the breathing room they're getting now. This will give the schools an opportunity to offer a complete program."

THE TREND TOWARD stable or declining enrollments may change, of course, and districts may suddenly find themselves caught up in a new surge if trends change, but for now, at least, it appears the suburban school boom is over.

The public attitude toward the new calm is something that school officials find hard to measure. When schools were bursting at the seams, problems were easy to see and communities tended to rally around in the crisis atmosphere.

Now, the public may become apathetic toward the schools that no longer have attention-grabbing problems. Or, in Strong's fond hope, something else may happen.

"In a crisis," Strong says, "people will accept things as the 'best you can do,' but when the crisis is passed, people may become more interested in quality rather than survival. I think people will tend to look closer at their schools and maybe there will be a little greater depth of insight by everybody."

If you think you need $5,000, $10,000 or $20,000 to earn 7½%, look again.

Certificates ($1,000 minimum balance)
Annual Rate	Maximum Annual Yield	Minimum Term
7½%	7.90%	4 years
6¾%	7.08%	2½ years
6½%	6.81%	1 year
5¾%	6.00%	3 months
Passbook ($10 minimum balance)
5¼%	5.39%	None

All certificates mature at the end of a calendar quarter.
Certificate withdrawals (excluding interest) prior to maturity earn passbook rate less 90 days interest.

At Bell, all it takes is $1,000.

Bell Federal pays the highest interest rates allowed by law—on the minimum amount required by law. That means it takes only $1,000 to begin earning a guaranteed 7½% in our 4-year certificate.

Of course, you're not going to tie up your last $1,000 of savings for years, if you're going to need it, because withdrawals before maturity earn our passbook interest, less 90 days interest. But it's nice to know that on every $1,000 you can afford to put away for four years, you can be earning the highest insured interest rate allowed by law.

What's more, under our new method of compounding interest, we pay the highest annual yield possible on your savings. For instance, our 7½% yields a full 7.90%.

And, as always, money deposited in a certificate by the 10th of any month earns interest from the 1st, when left on deposit until the end of the calendar quarter. We'll also be happy to set up a monthly income check plan for you.

While we can guarantee 7½% for four years in our certificate, we cannot guarantee how long we can make this offer. So fill out the transfer form now, or stop by either of our two locations. Start your money earning the highest possible rate on insured savings.

Nosepicking interferes with husband's love life

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Can you explain what causes a person to pick his nose? We are all made alike. Some people do it and some do not. I was always taught not to, but to use a handkerchief or tissue. I never found my husband doing it until lately, and it not only distresses me, but I find it a disgusting habit. I have dropped a couple of hints, in fact came right out and said "you never used to do it." But, he continues to do it, and I find it hard to respond to an embrace a short while afterward.

It can be a nervous habit. Another problem that is frequently a factor in this habit is the dry nose. This happens to some people as they get older. The normal moisture of the lining of the nose dries out.

When the dry nose is the problem, a good idea is to place a small amount of petroleum jelly in the tip of each side of the nose each morning. You can use a cotton swab to put the small amount of lubricant in. Press the nostril shut on each side to help spread the lubricant around. This will serve as a moisturizer and keep the skin from getting dry and irritating the person. It will also help to prevent the formation of tight adherent crusts. Tell him "try it, you'll like it."

I find when running and needing wind, if I try nose breathing only, the nostril opening is not nearly wide enough. Will this change with more exercise? In winter if one nostril is stuffed with a cold, the other would not be adequate if I were to breathe more than usual. Is there a safe way to correct this?

Most people who must breathe heavily or move a lot of air breathe through their mouth. Just watch the runners during competition. There is nothing wrong with this.

A lot of people have a nose that is more for decoration than functional purposes. That is too bad since the small hair structures in the nose help to filter the air and the nasal passages warm the air before it reaches the lungs.

If the air passageways are too narrow for reasonable breathing, it is possible for them to be increased in size by surgical methods. The septum between the two sides of the nose may need to be straightened or excess tissue in the passages removed. Your doctor can tell by examining you if you need to have the passages opened or not. The passages won't enlarge with exercise.

If the passages are so narrow that a person normally must use mouth breathing then something should be done to correct the problem. Persistent mouth breathing during the development years can affect the appearance of the face and chin area.

One of the best examples of this is the facial characteristics of the person with enlarged adenoid tissue in the back of the nose that interferes with normal breathing. The medical dictionary describes it as a stupid expression, so you can see it is not a pleasant expression. The adenoids are often removed when the tonsils are removed.

Nosepicking interferes with husband's love life

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Can you explain what causes a person to pick his nose? We are all made alike. Some people do it and some do not. I was always taught not to, but to use a handkerchief or tissue. I never found my husband doing it until lately, and it not only distresses me, but I find it a disgusting habit. I have dropped a couple of hints, in fact came right out and said "you never used to do it." But, he continues to do it, and I find it hard to respond to an embrace a short while afterward.

It can be a nervous habit. Another problem that is frequently a factor in this habit is the dry nose. This happens to some people as they get older. The normal moisture of the lining of the nose dries out.

When the dry nose is the problem, a good idea is to place a small amount of petroleum jelly in the tip of each side of the nose each morning. You can use a cotton swab to put the small amount of lubricant in. Press the nostril shut on each side to help spread the lubricant around. This will serve as a moisturizer and keep the skin from getting dry and irritating the person. It will also help to prevent the formation of tight adherent crusts. Tell him "try it, you'll like it."

I find when running and needing wind, if I try nose breathing only, the nostril opening is not nearly wide enough. Will this change with more exercise? In winter if one nostril is stuffed with a cold, the other would not be adequate if I were to breathe more than usual. Is there a safe way to correct this?

Most people who must breathe heavily or move a lot of air breathe through their mouth. Just watch the runners during competition. There is nothing wrong with this.

The Herald's photography department — Number 1 in the state!

That's right! The Herald's eight-man staff of professional photographers teamed their efforts to earn The Herald the "Newspaper of the Year" award in a recent statewide competition sponsored by the Illinois Press Photographers Association.

The 15 winning photos entered by The Herald photography department were representative works of its entire staff. The competition they faced was tough — the knowledgeable judges reviewed entries from all the major Illinois newspapers, including the four Chicago dailies, and found The Herald's superior to all.

Top-notch photography . . . just one more reason to make the award-winning Herald your daily source for news.

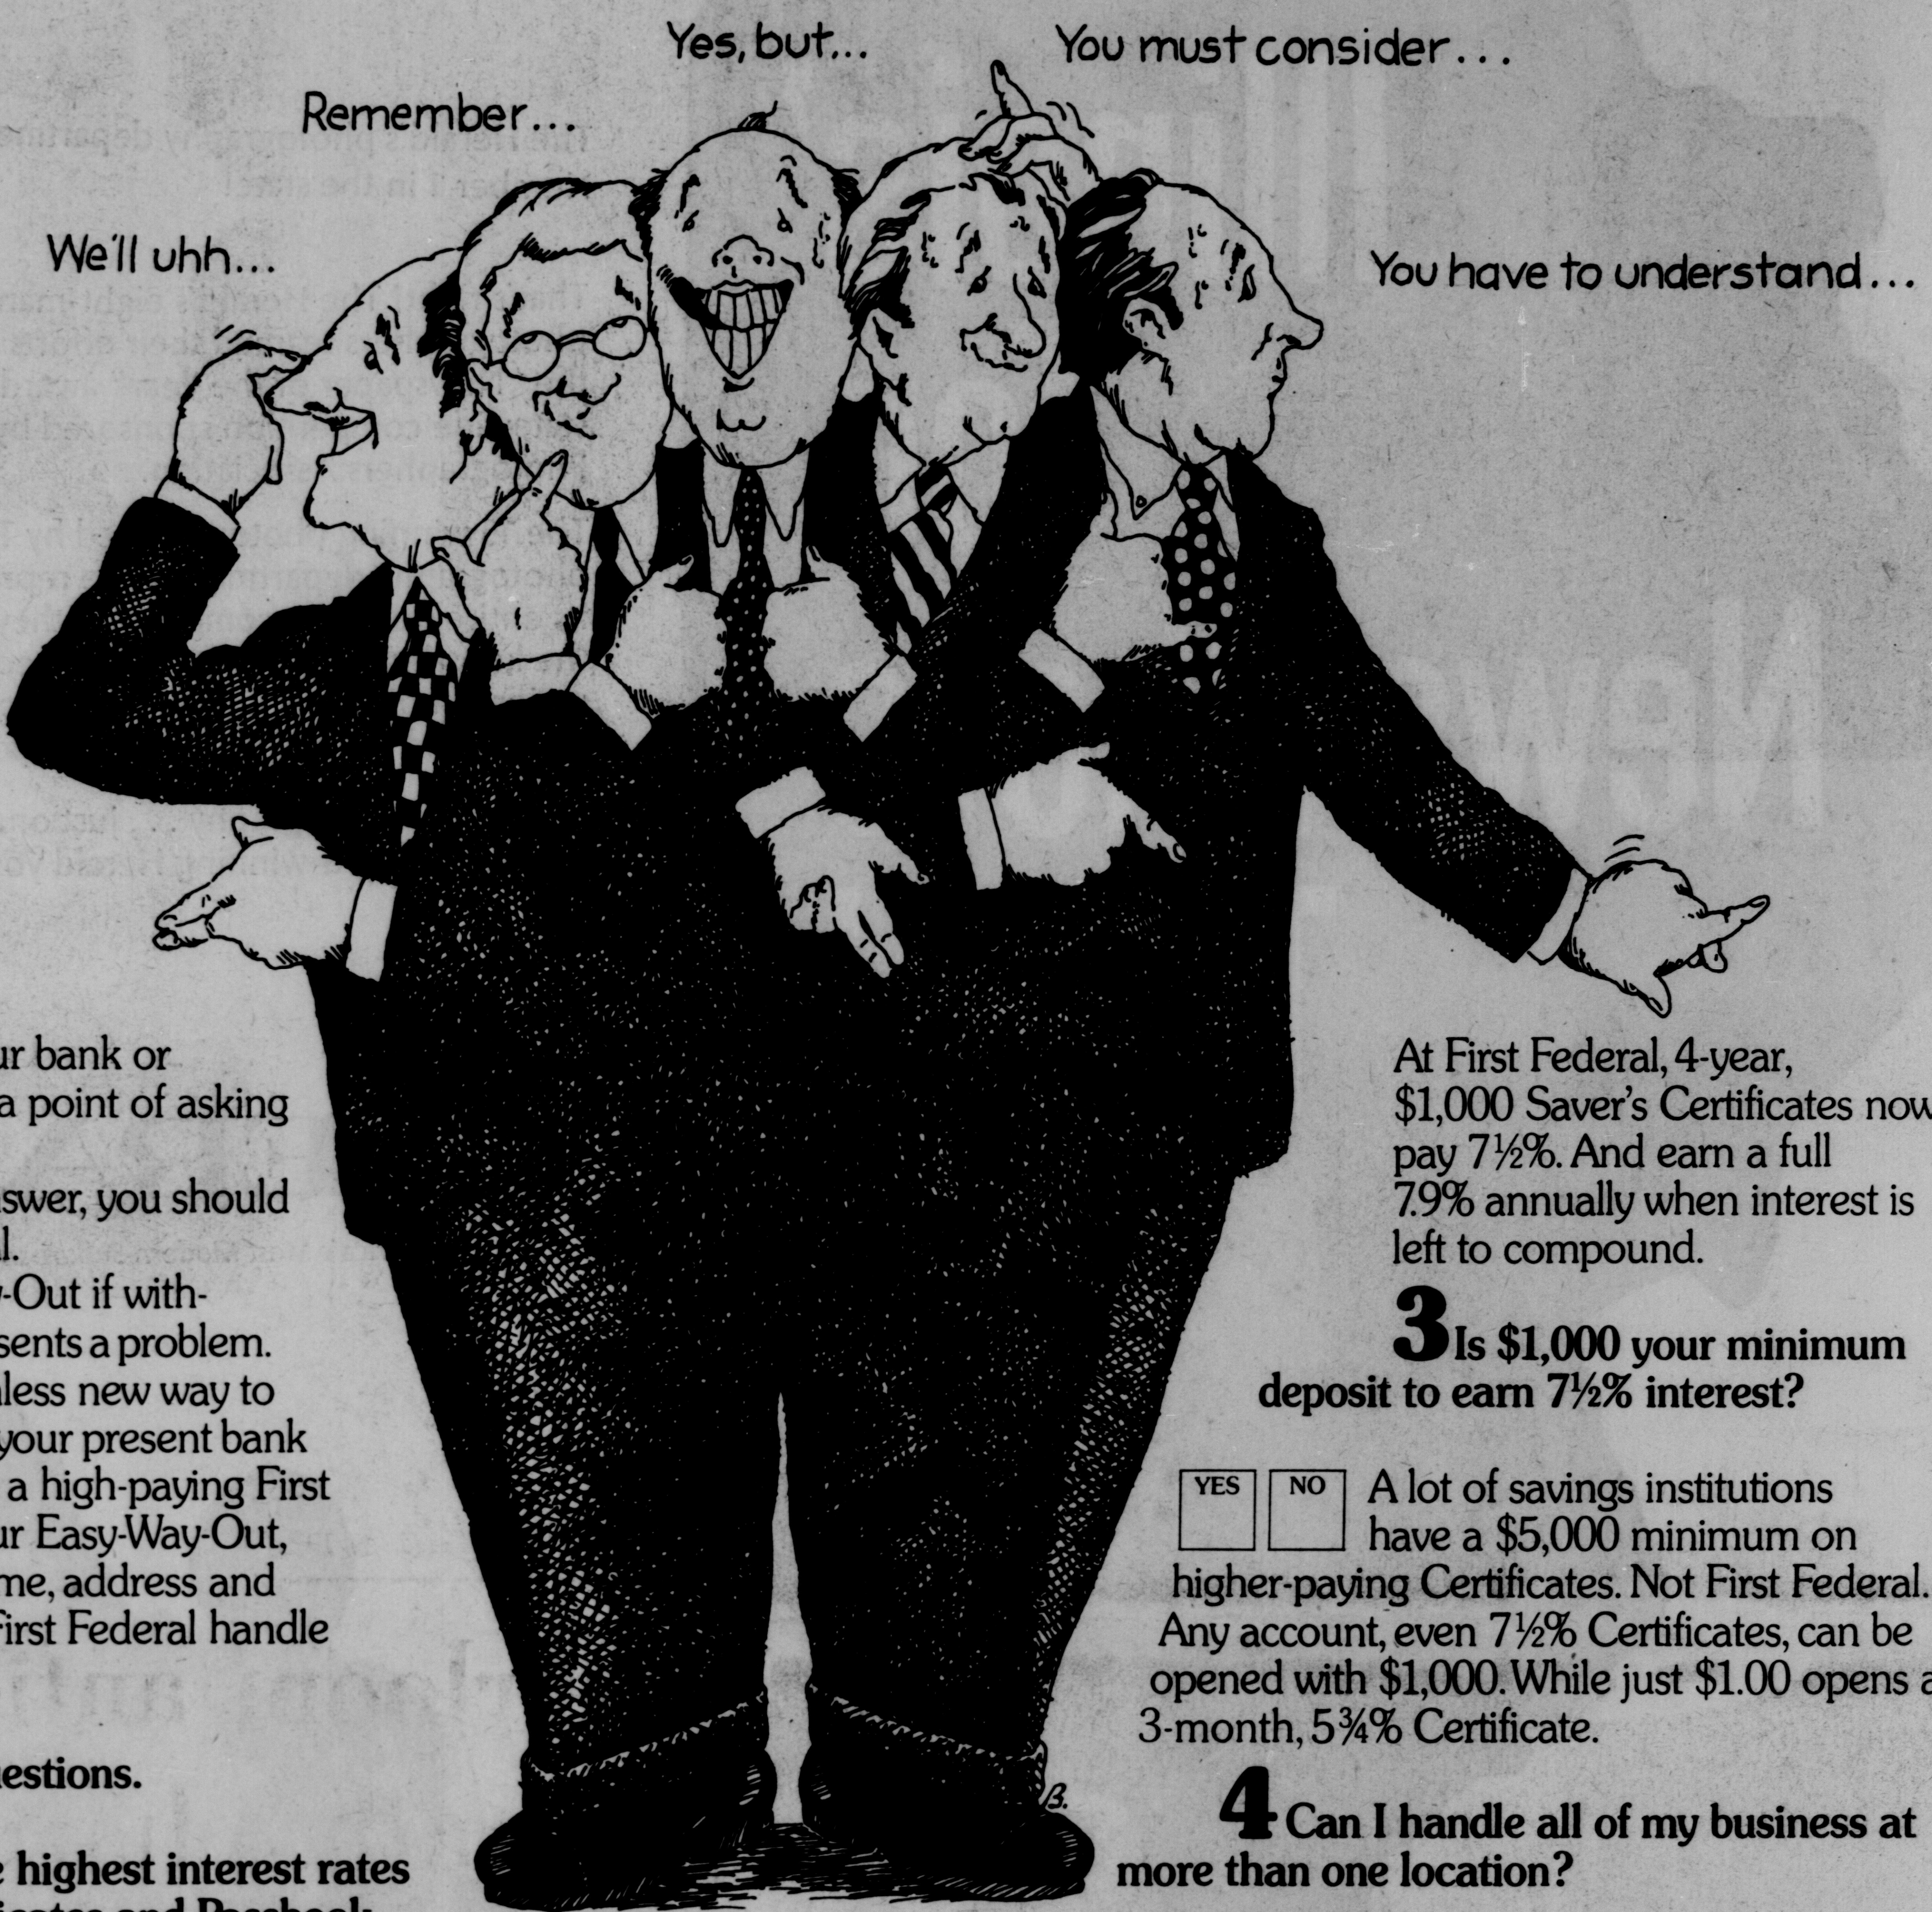
Ask these 5 questions where you save. If they answer "no" to any of them, here's an Easy-Way-Out.



We'll uhh...
Remember...
Yes, but...

You have to understand...

On your next visit to your bank or savings and loan, make a point of asking these five questions.

If you get one "no" answer, you should be saving at First Federal.

We have an Easy-Way-Out if withdrawing your money presents a problem.

It's First Federal's painless new way to move your money from your present bank or savings and loan into a high-paying First Federal account. With our Easy-Way-Out, you just give us your name, address and phone number and let First Federal handle the details. It's that easy.

First, ask these questions.

1 Do you pay the highest interest rates on both Savings Certificates and Passbook accounts?

☐ YES ☐ NO By law, banks can't. While some savings and loans won't. First Federal, on the other hand, pays the highest available interest rates on all accounts—5¼% on Passbook, up to 7½% on Certificates.

2 Will you pay me 7½% interest on a Savings Certificate?

☐ YES ☐ NO Again by law, banks are limited to 7¼%. Some savings and loans don't even match bank rates.

At First Federal, 4-year, $1,000 Saver's Certificates now pay 7½%. And earn a full 7.9% annually when interest is left to compound.

3 Is $1,000 your minimum deposit to earn 7½% interest?

☐ YES ☐ NO A lot of savings institutions have a $5,000 minimum on higher-paying Certificates. Not First Federal. Any account, even 7½% Certificates, can be opened with $1,000. While just $1.00 opens a 3-month, 5¾% Certificate.

4 Can I handle all of my business at more than one location?

☐ YES ☐ NO Very few banks or savings and loans have more than one full-service location. First Federal has three. So you can handle all of your savings business at any of three convenient locations.

5 Can you offer my money the security of over a billion dollars in savings?

☐ YES ☐ NO In Illinois, only two banks and First Federal have more than a billion dollars in savings.* And this includes the bank's commercial Certificates of Deposit.

FRAMED SAMPLERS and water color paintings done by Rennie Higgins accent the walls of the living room of their home. Many of the antique furnishings and art objects were handed down from her relatives.

FAMILY MEALS at the Thomas Higgins home in Arlington Heights are served in the dining room. But Bonnie and Heather often enjoy snacks and breakfast at a sunny counter in the antique-accented kitchen.

TOM AND RENNIE HIGGINS restored the round oak table found in the dining room of their Arlington Heights home. Sheer tie-back curtains, wicker and copper accents and pine furniture reflect country charm.

Suburban Living

Especially for the Family

How suburbia lives

by FRAN HECKART

Although knee-deep snow drifts surrounded the Thomas Higgins home in Arlington Heights on the day of my visit, the interior reflected all the warmth and charm of a country spring day.

Rennie Higgins' interest in interior design and her husband's natural carpentery abilities have created a pleasant blend of primitive and early American decor in their suburban home.

Rennie and Tom like the quality and craftsmanship of primitive furniture and think of their antiques as an investment. Many of their pieces have come from Rennie's relatives in Park Ridge, but others were carefully selected from various antique centers throughout the state.

Collections from the family include a solid cherry table which Rennie's grandfather purchased at an auction many years ago for 50 cents. According to Rennie, this tilt-top table is at least 100 years old and would be of considerable more value today.

SUNBONNET baby plates that belonged to her mother hang above a dry sink of pine in the window-lined living room. A copper wash tub now filled with a flourishing plant and a copper teapot once belonged to Rennie's great aunt. Other accents include salt cellars, a ginger box that was unearthed behind the family home, hurricane lamps and a wooden cigar mold.

Although Rennie and Tom prefer "older things" they are very discriminating in their choice of antiques. Regardless of the age, they select only the pieces that appeal to both of them and blend with the primitive decor.

"We like to leave or restore the antiques to the most natural state possible," said Rennie.

Faced with the problem of what to do with a large — perhaps institutional size — kraut cutter, Tom added legs and it became a coffee table.

ONE OF THE most unusual pieces in the home is an old pine box from the late 1800s that was originally a container for letting bread dough rise. When it was time to bake bread, the top was used as a kneading and preparation surface. It is now a storage box in the living room. Another once functional object is a yarn winder that came from Bishop Hill, Ill., onetime Swedish commune.

Although partial to pine, Rennie likes the effect of combining various woods and does so with excellent taste. A large oak table from her family stands in the center of the dining room. It, too, is surrounded by pine furniture and other antique accents.

A copper apple bucket now holds attractive greenery. A pine flour bin has been restored as a small buffet piece. An Amish washstand holds a traditional water pitcher and basin. Dating to the 1700s, Rennie feels that the washstand may be the "oldest" antique in the home. Depression glass and pieces of original flowblue glass add colorful accents to the room.

RENNIE IS VERY adept at needlepoint and has done several samplers for the home. One of the most interesting is a clock design to which her husband added the works and frame to create a functional timepiece.

The kitchen, too, has its share of old-fashioned touches. A wall grouping features a large wooden clothespin, a nutmeg grater, a decorative carving found on the end of a wooden box and other primitive objects Rennie has acquired.

An old wooden coffee grinder, butter churn and other stoneware also decorate the kitchen.

Carpeting, wallboard and ceiling were installed to transform the once drab basement into a cozy family room. Tom did the remodeling along with the addition of a Ben Franklin fireplace. Besides enlarging the living area, the basement now makes a pleasant play area for the Higgins' two small daughters, Heather, 7, and Bonnie, 3.

THE GIRLS have the good fortune of being able to enjoy miniature antiques in their upstairs bedroom. A miniature hutch and child-size walnut table and chairs, which also came from Rennie's family, are delightful additions to the room. Although the girls sleep on a canopy trundle bed, a small wooden cradle is ideal for dolls.

A massive walnut bed that belonged to Rennie's great-granlmother stands in the master bedroom.

"After she died, it stood in a shed behind my grandmother's house until we restored it," said Rennie. An old-fashioned quilt, for which Rennie takes total credit, adds a truly Early American look.

Wins award

Fran Heckart, the Herald's home furnishings writer, has been named winner in her circulation classification in the annual Dorothy Dawe Awards competition for home furnishings reporting.

Miss Heckart, who also serves as foods editor for the Heralds, will receive a trophy in honor of her achievement at a presentation luncheon Jan. 7 at the American Furniture Mart in Chicago.

THE THOMAS HIGGINS family enjoyed an old-fashioned Christmas tree this year in keeping with the Early American decor of their home. A wooden cigar mold and brass lamp adorn a pine box that once was used to store bread dough. In the left corner is a yarn winder from Bishop Hill, Ill.

Although the girls sleep on a canopy trundle bed, a small wooden cradle is ideal for dolls.

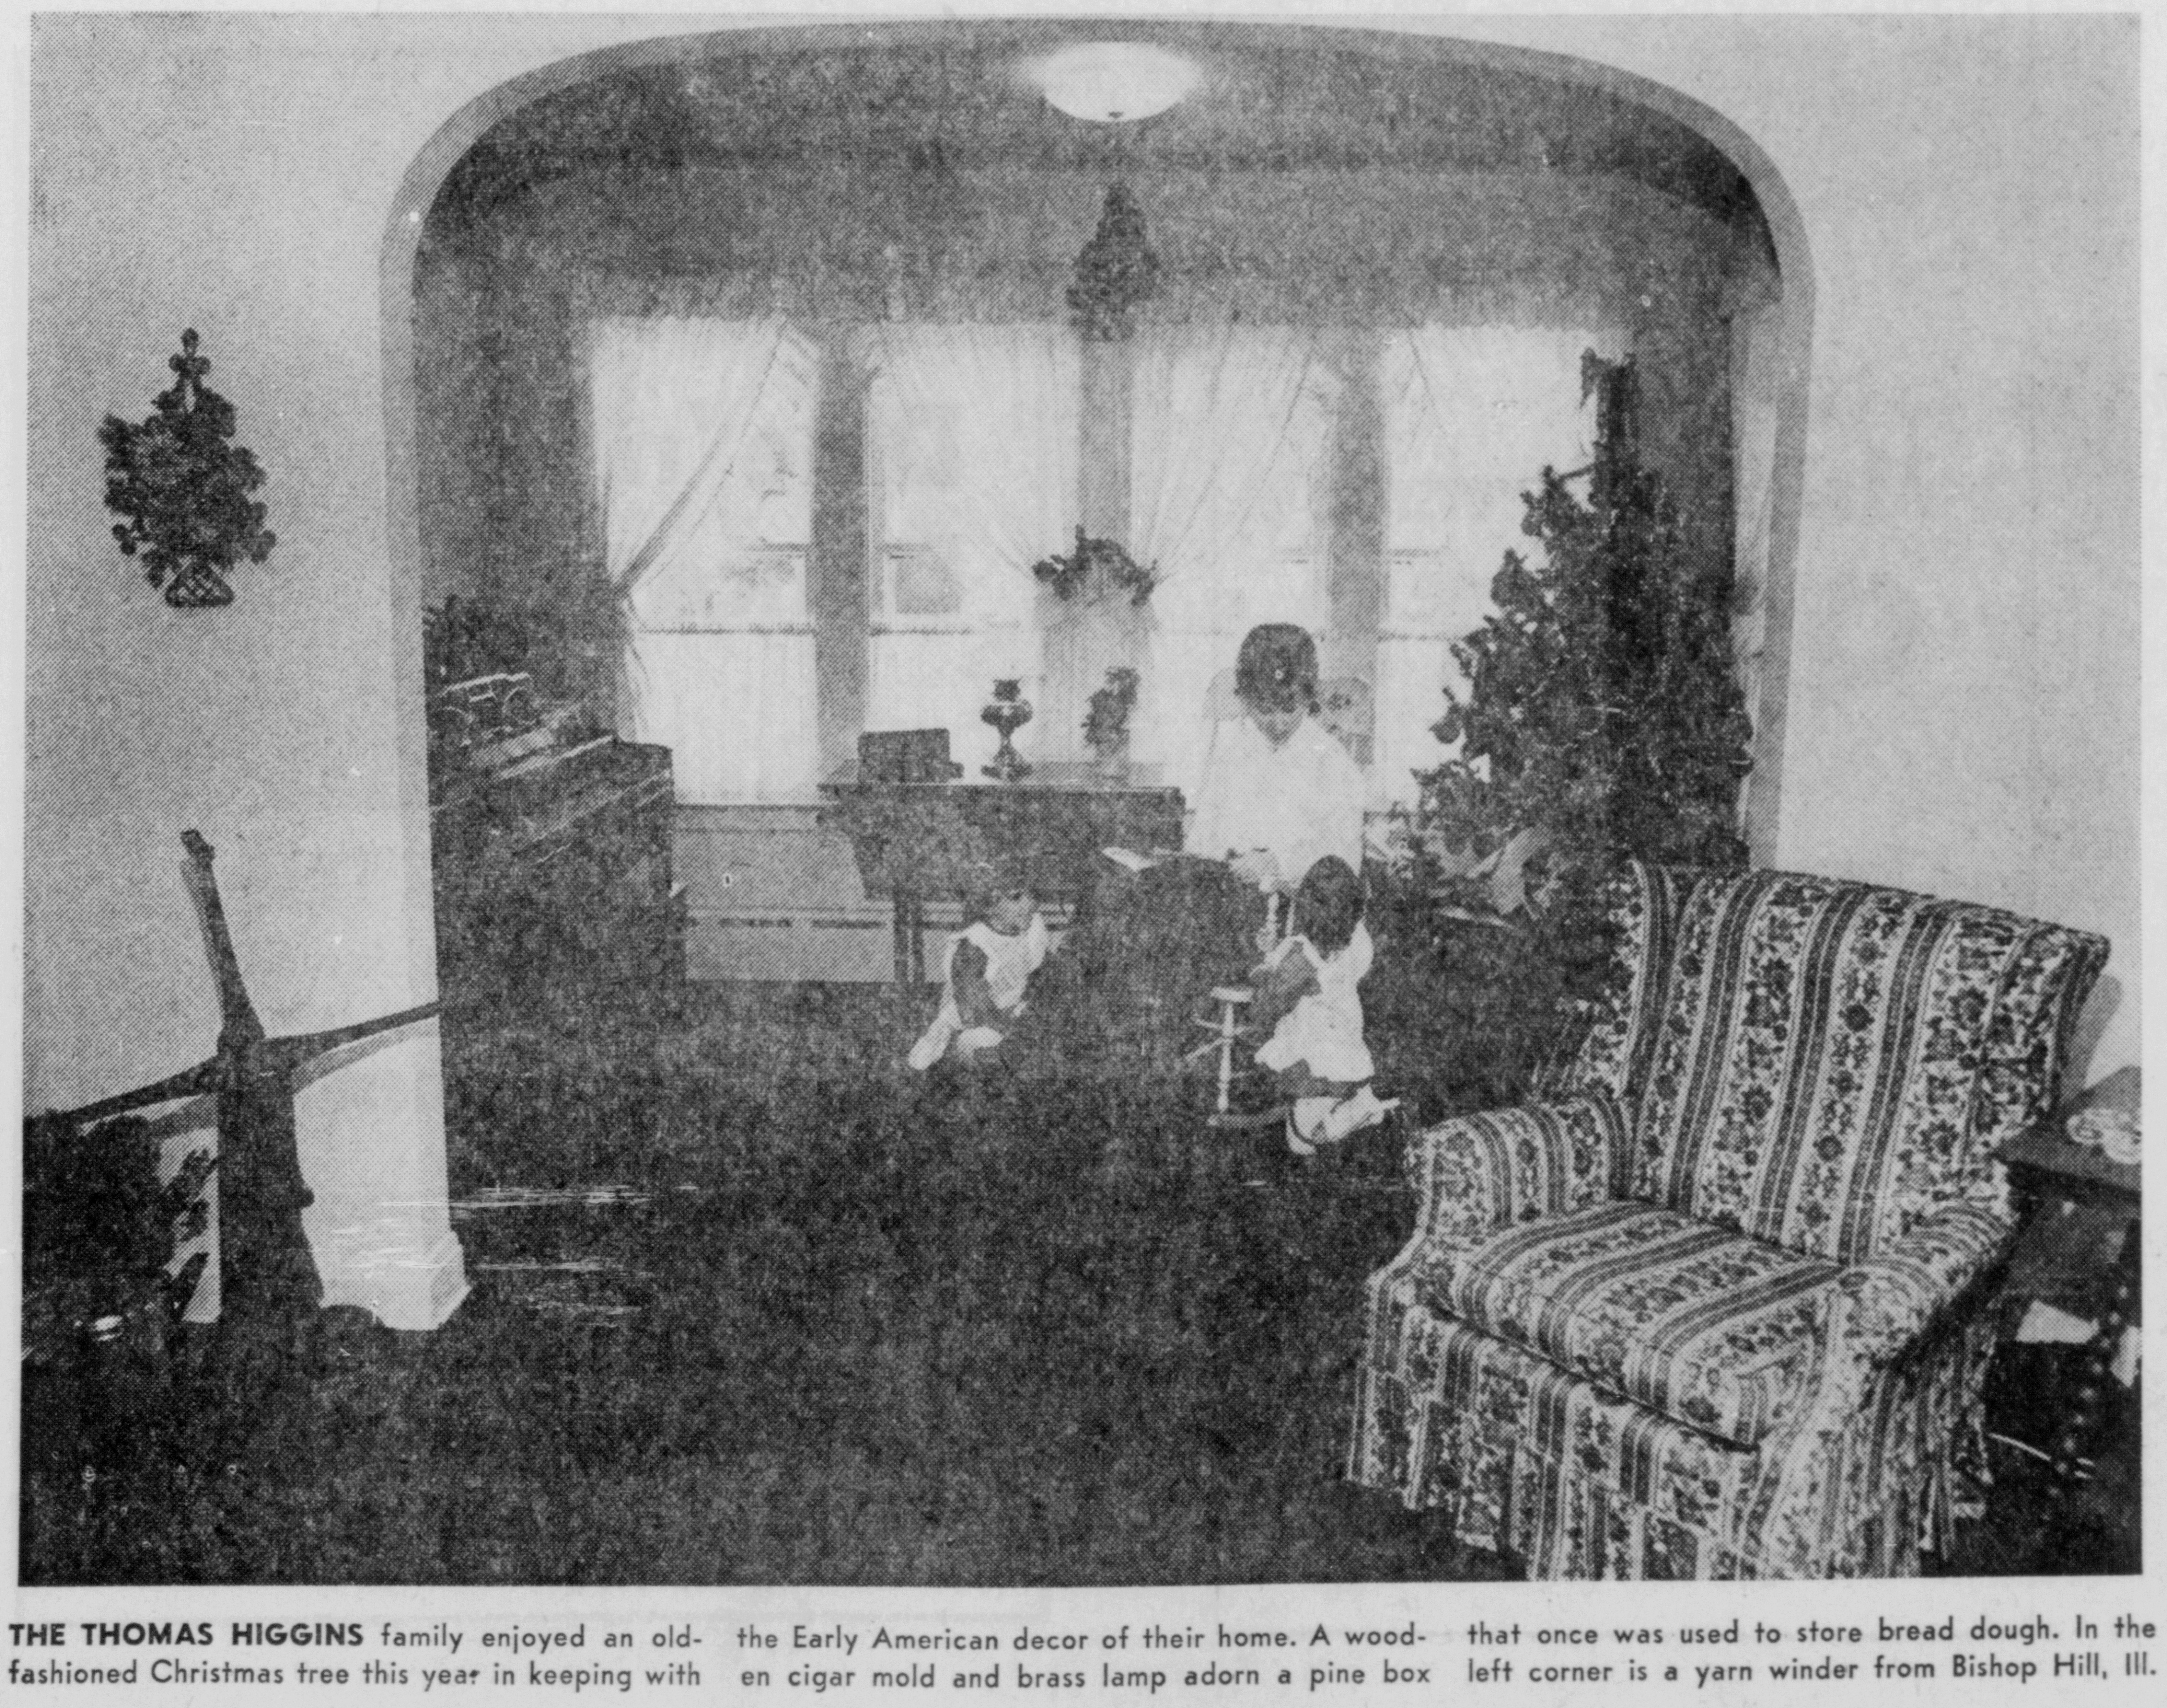
A massive walnut bed that belonged to Rennie's great-granlmother stands in the master bedroom.

"After she died, it stood in a shed behind my grandmother's house until we restored it," said Rennie. An old-fashioned quilt, for which Rennie takes total credit, adds a truly Early American look.

Wins award

Fran Heckart, the Herald's home furnishings writer, has been named winner in her circulation classification in the annual Dorothy Dawe Awards competition for home furnishings reporting.

Miss Heckart, who also serves as foods editor for the Heralds, will receive a trophy in honor of her achievement at a presentation luncheon Jan. 7 at the American Furniture Mart in Chicago.



THE THOMAS HIGGINS family enjoyed an old-fashioned Christmas tree this year in keeping with the Early American decor of their home. A wooden cigar mold and brass lamp adorn a pine box that once was used to store bread dough. In the left corner is a yarn winder from Bishop Hill, Ill.

Experienced mother gives diaper hints to new moms

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: New moms can make their own prefolds by folding a regular gauze diaper in thirds and sewing around three sides, leaving one end open for drying ease. I use the diaper folded in half on my newborn, drawing it through her legs, twisting once. The twist makes a neat-fitting diaper that even my doctor thought was a sharp idea. On washing — I've always used vinegar in the rinse, but this time around I started using it in the diaper pail, too. Then the diapers are washed in the yellow soap granules and washing soda. So far, no rash problems and very snowy, fresh-smelling diapers. —Pat Harmon

Dear Dorothy: If you accidentally burn fudge, don't despair at the mess in the bottom of the pan. Put one-half cup baking soda and one and one-half cups water in the pan and boil furiously. In a few minutes, the burnt-on crust will magically float loose and any residue can be swished away. — Mrs. Trevino

Dear Dorothy: We've lived in our new home almost three years. I have a lovely white kitchen sink but am unable to remove several spots. I use a popular cleanser which has taken care of other stains and even tried chlorine bleach on these spots without any luck. My husband thinks they are rust spots. Any suggestions you may have will be greatly appreciated. — Mrs. Michael Cook.

It's entirely possible that these are rust spots. Maybe something very potent dropped onto the surface and took the finish off. Then, you may have made the spots more prominent by using chlorine bleach. You may be able to get them off by using the cleaners which contains oxalic acid. However, I'd only try it on one spot before going ahead because the cure might be worse than the problem.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Energy crisis threat to food supply

by Monica Wilch

Through the inefficient and hazardous system of trial and error, even rats can learn. But can the U.S. government?

Last year a disastrous grain deal with Russia sent this country into a tailspin. The enormous export of wheat, at a "bargain" price for the Russians, coupled with certain other coincidental factors, resulted in sky-high food prices and a dangerously low reserve grain supply in the U.S.

This month USDA announced that in 1974 China will import a record $1 billion worth of agricultural products from the U.S., up $8 million from last year. The Chinese are expected to buy 4 million tons of U.S. wheat.

The announcement comes on the heels of a warning from a former U.S. Department of Agriculture administrator that a supply of grain equal to less than one month's worldwide consumption is all that stands between humanity and starvation.

TO MAKE MATTERS worse, this sole surplus supply — indeed, the sole capability of producing surplus — exists only in North America. According to Lester Brown, currently with the Overseas Development Council, a bad crop this year in the U.S. and Canada could mean a severe, worldwide food shortage.

Grimmer still is the fact that bad weather and disease as threats to good crops have now been joined by a third specter: the energy crisis.

The administration has pledged that farmers will get all the fuel they need to produce their crops. But the government can't give away what it doesn't have; if there isn't enough fuel, the food won't be produced.

Even with fuel, farmers can't produce at a loss, and the present and predicted state of the economy — inflation now, recession soon — does not bode well for the profit motive.

IT WAS SHORT-SIGHTED tunnel-vision that got the country into its present predicament, and the same inadequacy appears to be carrying the country toward a food crisis.

Ever since the Russian wheat deal, many agri-business economists have been calling for a national agricultural policy that would protect domestic food supplies and provide for orderly export of surpluses.

Experts who have urged such a policy include C. W. Cook, chairman of the board of General Foods, and Clifford Hardin, former secretary of agriculture and vice chairman of Ralston Purina.

"If farmers know that machinery for regulating exports is available and will be used to protect domestic supplies if needed, they will certainly expand with greater courage and confidence," Hardin told a news conference last September.

COOK AND OTHER economists addressing the conference proposed the establishment of an export board — an agency that would gather statistics on production and demand and would then determine how much wheat, corn, etc., the country could export in a given year.

The economists pointed out that such a system has long existed in Canada and seems to work better than the ill-informed scrambling of U.S. export companies which resulted in the Russian wheat deal.

But it seems this helter skelter trading is continuing — perhaps taking its direction now from the energy situation. Following the Russian wheat deal last year, the U.S. signed an agreement to import natural gas from the Soviet Union, a swap which George Koch, president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America, characterized as "increasing fossil fuels at the expense of agricultural fuels (food)."

This country's longtime lack of an energy policy has finally caught up with it. The lack of a food policy may soon do likewise. And that could happen even sooner if food exportation is used as a stop-gap measure for dealing with the energy crisis.

Turn down heat

Virginia H. Knauer, director of the Office of Consumer Affairs in Washington, D.C., says turning down the thermostat 10 degrees at night can save 10 per cent in a fuel bill.

Also at night, to conserve energy, close shades and drapes. Keep the fireplace damper closed, too. (UPI)

Experts who have urged such a policy include C. W. Cook, chairman of the board of General Foods, and Clifford Hardin, former secretary of agriculture and vice chairman of Ralston Purina.

"If farmers know that machinery for regulating exports is available and will be used to protect domestic supplies if needed, they will certainly expand with greater courage and confidence," Hardin told a news conference last September.

COOK AND OTHER economists addressing the conference proposed the establishment of an export board — an agency that would gather statistics on production and demand and would then determine how much wheat, corn, etc., the country could export in a given year.

The economists pointed out that such a system has long existed in Canada and seems to work better than the ill-informed scrambling of U.S. export companies which resulted in the Russian wheat deal.

But it seems this helter skelter trading is continuing — perhaps taking its direction now from the energy situation. Following the Russian wheat deal last year, the U.S. signed an agreement to import natural gas from the Soviet Union, a swap which George Koch, president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America, characterized as "increasing fossil fuels at the expense of agricultural fuels (food)."

This country's longtime lack of an energy policy has finally caught up with it. The lack of a food policy may soon do likewise. And that could happen even sooner if food exportation is used as a stop-gap measure for dealing with the energy crisis.

Turn down heat

Virginia H. Knauer, director of the Office of Consumer Affairs in Washington, D.C., says turning down the thermostat 10 degrees at night can save 10 per cent in a fuel bill.

Also at night, to conserve energy, close shades and drapes. Keep the fireplace damper closed, too. (UPI)

ADVERTISING LEADERSHIP EQUALS SALES LEADERSHIP: THIS IS THE QUINLAN AND TYSON STORY.

Sun can help cut home heating bills

Remember those heating bills last winter, and how you swore to do something about them before this winter rolled around? Commonwealth Edison offers a few heating tips on how to reduce your heating bills without purchasing a new heating system.

The sun can help heat your home. By opening the curtains on the sun-side of your home and closing them on the shade-side, you can reduce the load on your furnace. This allows the furnace to work less and the home to hold the heat longer.

Those hard to heat rooms could be the victims of inadequate insulation. A simple test offered by an insulation manufacturer can tell you whether or not you need additional insulation.

Place a thermometer on the inside surface of an outside wall and another near the center of the room. If, after four hours, there is a difference of more than five degrees, you should consider upgrading the insulation.

If you find this necessary, remember that insulation is rated by R-values. The higher the R-value, the more heat the insulation will keep inside during winter, and outside during summer.

Commonwealth Edison recommends R-19 in the ceiling and R-11 in walls and floors over unheated basements or vented crawl spaces. A home unsulated to these standards is well suited for economical heating and air conditioning.

Storm windows and doors reduce wasted energy during cold weather. Frigid air normally leaks through these openings which should protect your home with an island of warm air.

Another item to consider is weatherstripping. Window and door frames are notorious for leaks that storm windows and doors can't stop. There are several inexpensive caulking compounds available at your local hardware store which can stop winter air infiltration through these openings.

If you have a fireplace in your home, make sure that the damper is firmly closed when not in use. The fireplace draws warm air from your home through the chimney and out into the elements much like an exhaust fan during summer. When the damper is left open, the heat loss is tremendous.

The major cause of high heating costs is poor insulation. By making a conscious effort to keep doors and windows properly sealed, chimney dampers firmly shut and heat registers free of obstructions, you can enjoy a more confortable winter for less than you paid last year for heat.

Be cautious when using substitute fuel devices

While usual sources of heating fuel are in short supply — many Illinois families are resorting to fuel supplements or substitutes they aren't familiar with, says Ordie Hogsett, University of Illinois Extension safety specialist.

Lack of knowledge and experience concerning installation and operation of stoves and heaters burning coal, wood or kerosene may bring disaster to your home.

Here are some practical guidelines offered by Hogsett:

Follow local regulations pertaining to portable heaters. Where they are allowed, install and use them according to manufacturers instructions. If the original directions are missing — as with secondhand or seldom-used devices — get professional guidance from your local fire department or building inspector's office.

Have major and permanent installations made by a licensed heating contractor and checked by enforcement authorities. Be sure chimneys and chimney connectors are tight and clean. Dispose of ashes safely, in tightly-covered metal containers, never in boxes or bags.

Don't buy or use a portable heater that wobbles and might tip over. With stoves burning solid fuel — coal or wood — it's essential to learn how to start, fuel and tend the fire. Be sure you understand how to operate and use dampers properly. Avoid pouring combustible liquids into an already-heated stove to get a quick start or to "freshen" the fire.

Place portable heaters away from stairwells and doorways where they could block escape in case of fire. Keep all heaters away from flammable materials, such as draperies, upholstered furniture, towels, bedding and clothing. Keep people well away from heaters, especially children and anyone wearing floor-length clothing or long, loose sleeves.

Be sure your home is ventilated well enough to assure a continuous supply of fresh air. If you plan to use a portable charcoal burner intended for outdoor cooking — such as a barbeque grill or hibachi — place it in the fireplace where the chimney will draw up the carbon monoxide produced by the burning charcoal. A build-up of this gas in a room could cause asphyxiation.

Hogsett points out that many local building codes prohibit use of room heaters and carefully regulate other heating devices. These codes have been developed for protection of the public. Don't risk your life and the lives of your family by violating common sense or official regulations while trying to ward off the cold.

Sun can help cut home heating bills

Remember those heating bills last winter, and how you swore to do something about them before this winter rolled around? Commonwealth Edison offers a few heating tips on how to reduce your heating bills without purchasing a new heating system.

The sun can help heat your home. By opening the curtains on the sun-side of your home and closing them on the shade-side, you can reduce the load on your furnace. This allows the furnace to work less and the home to hold the heat longer.

Those hard to heat rooms could be the victims of inadequate insulation. A simple test offered by an insulation manufacturer can tell you whether or not you need additional insulation.

Place a thermometer on the inside surface of an outside wall and another near the center of the room. If, after four hours, there is a difference of more than five degrees, you should consider upgrading the insulation.

If you find this necessary, remember that insulation is rated by R-values. The higher the R-value, the more heat the insulation will keep inside during winter, and outside during summer.

Commonwealth Edison recommends R-19 in the ceiling and R-11 in walls and floors over unheated basements or vented crawl spaces. A home unsulated to these standards is well suited for economical heating and air conditioning.

Storm windows and doors reduce wasted energy during cold weather. Frigid air normally leaks through these openings which should protect your home with an island of warm air.

Another item to consider is weatherstripping. Window and door frames are notorious for leaks that storm windows and doors can't stop. There are several inexpensive caulking compounds available at your local hardware store which can stop winter air infiltration through these openings.

If you have a fireplace in your home, make sure that the damper is firmly closed when not in use. The fireplace draws warm air from your home through the chimney and out into the elements much like an exhaust fan during summer. When the damper is left open, the heat loss is tremendous.

The major cause of high heating costs is poor insulation. By making a conscious effort to keep doors and windows properly sealed, chimney dampers firmly shut and heat registers free of obstructions, you can enjoy a more confortable winter for less than you paid last year for heat.

Be cautious when using substitute fuel devices

While usual sources of heating fuel are in short supply — many Illinois families are resorting to fuel supplements or substitutes they aren't familiar with, says Ordie Hogsett, University of Illinois Extension safety specialist.

Lack of knowledge and experience concerning installation and operation of stoves and heaters burning coal, wood or kerosene may bring disaster to your home.

Here are some practical guidelines offered by Hogsett:

Follow local regulations pertaining to portable heaters. Where they are allowed, install and use them according to manufacturers instructions. If the original directions are missing — as with secondhand or seldom-used devices — get professional guidance from your local fire department or building inspector's office.

Have major and permanent installations made by a licensed heating contractor and checked by enforcement authorities. Be sure chimneys and chimney connectors are tight and clean. Dispose of ashes safely, in tightly-covered metal containers, never in boxes or bags.

Don't buy or use a portable heater that wobbles and might tip over. With stoves burning solid fuel — coal or wood — it's essential to learn how to start, fuel and tend the fire. Be sure you understand how to operate and use dampers properly. Avoid pouring combustible liquids into an already-heated stove to get a quick start or to "freshen" the fire.

Place portable heaters away from stairwells and doorways where they could block escape in case of fire. Keep all heaters away from flammable materials, such as draperies, upholstered furniture, towels, bedding and clothing. Keep people well away from heaters, especially children and anyone wearing floor-length clothing or long, loose sleeves.

Be sure your home is ventilated well enough to assure a continuous supply of fresh air. If you plan to use a portable charcoal burner intended for outdoor cooking — such as a barbeque grill or hibachi — place it in the fireplace where the chimney will draw up the carbon monoxide produced by the burning charcoal. A build-up of this gas in a room could cause asphyxiation.

Hogsett points out that many local building codes prohibit use of room heaters and carefully regulate other heating devices. These codes have been developed for protection of the public. Don't risk your life and the lives of your family by violating common sense or official regulations while trying to ward off the cold.

Wise shopping plan makes home-buying much easier

NEW YORK (UPI) —Whether you're laying in the week's groceries, filling out your wardrobe or looking for a new house, it's wise to have a shopping plan.

Haphazard shopping can wreck a budget and result in disappointment. When too many impulse purchases strain the food budget, however, a week of spaghetti, hot dogs and hamburgers can set it right. The wrong dress will hang in the closet a year or two at most.

But the wrong house is something you — and the whole family — may have to live with for years. Finding the right home probably is the most difficult, as well as the most expensive, decision the average family makes.

To organize and simplify the job, State Farm Fire and Casualty Co., Bloomington Ill., has just issued a 24-page working guidebook for househunters.

The booklet is divided into three sections, each designed for use at a different stage in the search for the right house. "The guide won't be needed for most of the homes you look at," the company notes. "You'll know pretty quickly whether you're interested in them or not. But it can help you make a final decision when all but two or three possibilities have been eliminated.

The first section is a Quick Check providing at a glance essential information about three possible choices. The second, a basic check, goes into more detail regarding the physical aspects of the three most likely prospects. Section three is a detailed inspection of the one home which seems most suitable, to help avoid overlooking any important points.

In its basic check for living areas, the guide covers the following points:

General layout is most important. The home should provide free traffic flow. Keep family's living style in mind and anticipate problem areas. Ideally, kitchen and living room should have southern exposures to get plenty of sunlight. Empty rooms can appear deceptively large. Get measurements, note placement of windows, doors, etc. to make sure furniture will fit. If the home has wallpaper you don't like, remember it can be a chore for you to remove and expensive to have it done.

Kitchen. Probably the most important single room in the home, also the most costly on a square-foot basis. Keep in mind if it needs remodeling. Check layout, placement of stove, refrigerator, sink and counters for efficiency. Ask what appliances come with the house, how old they are. See that they're in good working order. The kitchen should be close to the garage, laundry room, family room, and patio, to save steps. Ventilation over the range is a plus.

Living Room. Size is the most important factor, followed by layout and location. Measure and sketch a rough layout to see if your furniture will fit. Foyer is preferable to a door opening directly into the room. It reduces drafts and provides privacy. In older homes, especially, the fireplace may not be in working order. See that the coat closet is handy. Check the number and location of electrical outlets and wall switches.

Dinning Room Area. Make sure it's big enough for your needs. The size of the dining area, in particular, can often be deceptive. There should be sufficient room to circulate around the table without crowding. Consider convenience to the kitchen and whether the kitchen is visible to guests. Check for electrical outlets and adequacy of lighting. Remember that a dimmer switch is a real convenience.

Bathrooms. The size and number of bathrooms is important, especially for growing families. Quality of fixtures is another consideration. Generally figure one bathroom for every two to three people, or two bedrooms per bathroom. A powder room near the main living area is a great convenience. Look for leaks under basin and behind the toilet. Test water pressure adequacy by turning on all taps and flushing the toilet. Door locks should open from outside in case of emergency.

Bedrooms. Preferably they should be isolated from main living area to minimize disturbing sounds. Size, ventilation and closet space are very important. Small windows high on the wall are dangerous in case of fire, especially for the very young or the elderly. In children's rooms think twice about windows far from the ground. Check electrical outlets and wall switches. Ceiling fixtures are useful, but many bedrooms don't have them. Bedrooms with roofs immediately above may be hot in summer and cold in winter. If doors make sure they can be opened from outside in the event of an emergency.

For the layman, State Farm points out, even the most thorough checklist can call attention only to the most obvious shortcomings, or the possibility of serious problems. If there is any question at all, the company recommends having a professional inspect the home you intend to purchase.

Kunkel names sales leader

For the third time, Florence Villadonga has achieved sales leader of the month of November for Wm. L. Kunkel & Co., Realtors, announced Ralph H. Martin, president.

Florence Villadonga

Mrs. Villadonga achieved this distinction by selling the largest number of real estate listings during November. A member of the Kunkel residential sales staff since 1970, she also has achieved a million dollar sales total three years in a row. This assures her of a life membership in the Illinois Association of Real Estate Board's "Million Dollar Sales Club."

Mrs. Villadonga also recently attended the three stage study course of the Realtors Institute of Illinois, sponsored by the Illinois Association of Realtors.

She and her husband, Ed, reside in Mount Prospect, where Mrs. Villadonga is active in civic groups.

Quinlan and Tyson sets new record

Quinlan and Tyson, Inc., Realtors, has set an all-time yearly sales record, breaking the company high mark set last year.

In November, the North Shore and Northwest Suburban real estate firm went over the $104.8 million sales mark set during the entire year of 1972.

Richard G. Rutledge, executive vice president of the firm, said, "We are extremely pleased that the buying and selling public has continued to demonstrate its confidence in the service offered by Quinlan and Tyson.

"Their patronage has made it possible for Q&T to maintain its position as the leading firm in the combined marketing area of the North Shore and Northwest Suburban area."

Rutledge also noted that mortgage money is available, and that the real estate market remains active for this time of year.

Rutledge said that the sales figures used by Quinlan and Tyson are "conservative" figures. He said, "For example a $50,000 home listed by one Q&T office and sold by another Q&T office is counted as $50,000 in sales — not $100,000 as some firms do."

3 receive new positions at Baird and Warner

Three new assignments have been made in the property management division of Baird & Warner, Inc., diversified Chicago area real estate company.

William D. Sally, vice president and general manager of the division, announced that John Matijevich, assistant vice president, has been named branch manager of the property management department of the new Oak Lawn Office, 5167 W. 95th Street.

Matijevich has been succeeded by Chris Barich as branch manager of the property management department in Arlington Heights, 220 E. Northwest Highway. Barich has been replaced by John Shimkus, who has just joined the company, as manager of Harper Square, a 591-unit complex of cooperative apartments and townhomes at Lake Park and Dorchester Aves., between 48th and 49th Street.

In his new post Matijevich will have overall responsibilities for Baird & Warner property management operations in the southern suburbs, including rental apartments, condominiums, and commercial and industrial properties.

Chris Baruch

Barich will be responsible for the management of Baird & Warner rental apartments, condominiums, commercial, and industrial properties in the northwest suburbs.

Matijevich, who is a candidate for designation as Certified Property Manager through courses sponsored by the Institute of Real Estate Management, joined Baird & Warner in 1969 as manager of Four Lakes Village, a residential-recreational complex in Lisle. He was named an assistant vice president in 1971 and assigned to Oak Park Office, operating rental buildings and condominiums in the southeast suburbs. He was assigned to Arlington Heights in May 1972. He and his wife, Shirlee, have three children and reside in Willow Springs.

Barich, who is also a candidate for CPM designation, joined Baird & Warner in 1972 as the manager at Harper Square. Barich is a graduate of Illinois State University with a B.S. degree in social science. He taught social science in junior high schools in Dolton and LaGrange Park and was associated with another real estate firm for two years. Barich lives in Woodridge with his wife, Diane, and two sons. He is a member of the Woodridge Economic Development Commission, the Chicago Real Estate Board, and the Building Owners and Managers Association.

Shimkus is a veteran Chicago area property manager with 20 years of experience with other leading real estate organizations. He is a native Chicagoan and attended Purdue University. He lives in south suburban Flossmoor with his wife Joan and three teen-age children.

Baird and Warner sales for '73 pass $200 million

Baird and Warner, Inc. rang up more than $13 million in November sales to propel the company past $200 million in only 11 months for the first time in the company's 188-year history.

Although November's dollar volume of $13,308,757 was down sharply from an unusually high volume of $22,592,555 a year ago, it was sufficient to propel the major real estate company's cumulative sales for the year to $212,522,660. At the same time a year ago, the dollar production was $194,021,086. It assures the second consecutive year that Baird & Warner has surpassed the $200 million mark.

For the month, unit volume slipped from 242 sales participations a year ago to 237 units, a decrease of two per cent.

The residential sales division registered 210 sales participations and $10,276,270 in volume for the month, according to Robert G. Walters, vice president and general manager.

Mace Cole, vice president and general manager of the commercial and industrial sales division, reported that his staff participated in 27 participations which generated $3,032,487 for the month.

Cumulative results for the year show the diversified real estate company to be fractionally lower than last year's record-breaking unit production, 3,561 units for the first 11 months as compared to 3,581 last year. Dollar volume is running 9 per cent ahead of the year ago level, at $212,522,660 versus $194,021,086.

Repeat wall color in window shade

A well-known designer gives this bit of decorative advice: "Window shades should either repeat the color of the walls, or accent another color in the room." That advice is easy to follow because shades come in a gamut of sparkling whites, sunny yellows, crisp grass greens, heavenly blues — and rich, deep tones to go with the dark wall trend.

Brighten up drab window

Here's a neat trick to finish off a window treatment in a smart, contemporary manner. If your woodwork merits attention, paint it a darker tone than the walls. Choose a shade in the same color as the wall and trim it with braid that matches the frame. Hang the shade within the window frame — and add an interesting pull for good measure. What could be simpler or more dramatic?

Home heating systems require regular care

A lot of people are suddenly aware that heating contractors are very busy men, and getting one to check a system that isn't working may require patience.

On the other hand, there are many things that homeowners can do themselves to keep the house warm while the fuel lasts, and the National Better Heating-Cooling Council is listing a few of them.

Regardless of the kind of system you have — hydronics (hot water), warm air or electric resistance — vacuum all distributors regularly. In warm air systems this means cleaning the registers and changing the filters often. Dust is an insulator, and if enough collects, it will keep the heat from getting into the room. Also, in warm air systems, the heat is circulated by fans or blowers, and if the outlets are dirty you'll be breathing dirty air.

Make sure the motor and blower are oiled, and the belt drive adjusted. If there is a humidifer, the water supply should be on and in good working order.

In hydronic systems, clean all the radiators. If you have baseboard heating, remove the front panels and vacuum the heating elements. Don't be afraid of them. The panels lift off with a little pressure. Sometimes air gets into the system and prevents the hot water from circulating. To correct this, you'll have to 'bleed' the lines.

Find the nearest vent — usually at the end of the run where the system is returning to the boiler, and place a small saucer under it. Turn up the thermostat to activate the system. Using a very small screwdriver, open the vent until some water escapes. Close the vent. You have solved the problem.

Add a few drops of oil to the circulator once a year to keep it in good working order.

Even if your system is working properly, it pays to have a contractor check it every year. Just by cleaning the chimney and adjusting the burner, he will increase its efficiency and reduce your fuel bills.

Some older heating plants run at only 50-60 per cent efficiency and should be replaced. The new ones operate at 75-80 per cent efficiency, and in only two or three years, at today's prices for fuel, will pay for themselves.

If you have electric heat, vacuum your heating distributors. If yours is a system with unit-mounted thermostats, you will find that by replacing them with a low voltage, wall-mounted thermostat, you will be more comfortable and save money. Unit-mounted thermostats are usually line voltage and not very sensitive or accurate. Low voltage thermostats, usually mounted on a wall, are much more sensitive, and accurate to within a degree or two. You will get the temperature you want at the lowest possible use of fuel.

Planned developments make more efficient use of land

Planned Unit Development (PUD), a giant step forward toward more effective use of available land, will now take on added importance to home builders and land developers.

So declares the real estate services arm of Esmark, Inc., Chicago, a diversified company with major interests in food, chemicals, energy and varied financial services.

"While the PUD is not a cure-all, it does ease the job of builders and developers in achieving suitable, as well as feasible, variety in a community — a balanced blend of detached homes, townhouses and apartments.

"There is an added advantage for the developer who can use the natural topography of the land more effectively. Another plus is that existing features can be retained — the bulldozer is not sent in to level everything in sight," the Esmark report states.

The growing popularity of planned developments with home buyers, the report notes, is certainly not to be overlooked. "A well-designed Planned Unit Development offers a variety of housing, regulated automobile traffic, attractive, open, usable areas and, recreational and shopping centers, as well as other community facilities.

"When you put housing, commercial and civic facilities together in one area, the result is actually a 'new town'," the report points out.

"The pure economics of a well-designed Planned Unit Development may well help a builder or developer breathe easier. PUDs generally, at least up to now, result in reduced land development costs. A greater density of housing — necessitated by soaring land costs — can be achieved.

"The PUd concept is spreading — developments range in size from ten acres to several hundred. The big story, however, is basically that it is making for better communities for thousands of American families," the report concludes.

Window shades may be answer

Window shades can be the effective answer to large contemporary windows because they are handsome in themselves yet subtle enough not to overpower a room. Teamed with slim wood panels set between the windows — or topped by lightly scaled lambrequins — they let the indoors and outdoors work together harmoniously, while contributing effective light-and-privacy control for day-and-night comfort.

Humidifiers can provide added comfort in winter

With the talk of cutting back on heating this winter to conserve heating oil, many people are wondering how they can do their part and remain comfortable during the cold months ahead.

Commonwealth Edison suggests using a humidifier to make you more comfortable this winter. Just as humidity in summer makes you feel warmer, it relieves the too-dry feeling in winter and helps make you feel warmer with less heat from your furnace.

Experts have long advocated the use of humidifiers during winter months to alleviate dry skin and other discomforts associated with the cold, dry air. With the use of a humidifier the heating system's thermostat can be set lower and you'll still feel warmer in spite of the reduced temperature.

The Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers has prepared a handy chart to help you determine how much moisture to add to your home.

To use the guide;

Measure the square feet of space in the home or apartment.

Determine if the structure is tightly insulated, normal or loosely constructed.

Select the amount of moisture, in gallons per 24 hours, to be added, and check this figure against the AHAM-certified humidity output for over 100 models of appliance type humidifiers currently on the market.

The chart stresses the importance of carefully determining the type of construction of the structure since more humidity is retained in a tightly constructed building than in one which permits the entry of large amounts of cold, dry outdoor air.

A tightly constructed home is one with good insulation and vapor barriers, tightly fitting storm doors and windows, and complete weatherstripping. Also, if there is a fireplace, it should be provided with a damper that can be closed when not in use. A tightly constructed home needs less humidity to maintain desired comfort levels.

Loosely constructed homes are subject to frigid air infiltration due to the many openings in the windows and doors. These homes require more humidity to maintain required comfort levels. They also require more heat.

Upgrading the quality of insulation will help in the conservation of heating oils this winter.

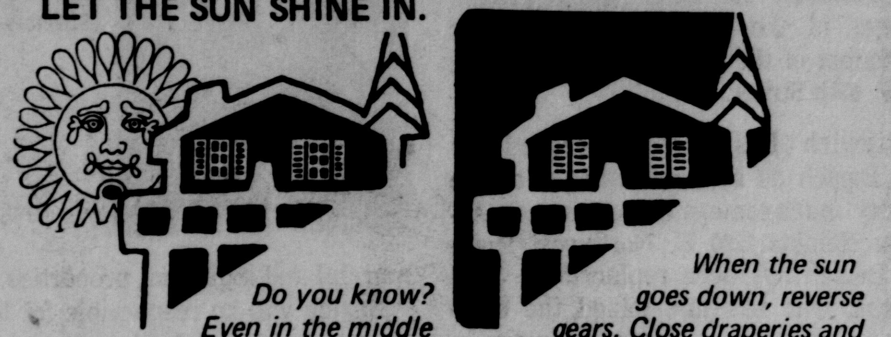
LET THE SUN SHINE IN.



Do you know? Even in the middle of winter, natural sunshine can help warm your home. Throw open your shutters. Open draperies, shades, venetian blinds.

When the sun goes down, reverse gears. Close draperies and other window coverings. (Closed, they double as insulation against the cold night air outside.)

By practicing thrifty little habits like these, you'll not only save money, you'll help conserve precious natural fuel as well. Watch this paper for more tips to help you cut heating costs . . . and keep your home snug and cozy all winter long.

Homefinders announces opening of new location

Homefinders Realtors will open its eighth sales office in Antioch, Illinois on January 8, according to Robert L. Zaun, president of the firm.

The company has purchased the real estate company headed by Charles J. Cermak in Antioch. Cermak will stay on as manager of the office which is located at 389 Lake.

"We are very pleased that we are able to establish Homefinders in the heart of the Chain O'Lakes area," states Zaun. "We can now offer residential properties in an area which is noted for its 100 miles of water and winter sports."

Founded in 1967, Homefinders is a member of ERA, a national network of real estate brokers which facilitiates the movement of business transferrees and families who are moving from one section of the counttry to another.

Charles J. Cermak, has been active for more than 25 years in the real estate field. In addition to serving as President of the Waukegan-Lake County Board of Realtors for two years, he helped form the Multiple Listing Service in the area and served as chairman of the legislative committees of both the Illinois and National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Cermak was also a member of the Chicago Real Estate Board and the National Institute of Real Estate Brokers.

The Antioch office will serve the communities of Fox Lake, Lake Villa, Lindenhurst and Spring Grove in addition to Antioch. It is located midway between Chicago and Milwaukee.

Other offices of Homefinders are located in Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Lake Zurich, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Schaumburg, and Streamwood. The commercial and investment division, headed by Vice President David Hanner, is headquartered in Palatine.

October housing permits down from 1972 figures

Construction activity in the six county metropolitan area of Chicago declined 51 per cent in October this year from figures reported for the same month in 1972, according to the Bell Federal Savings Survey of Building.

According to that Survey, the number of housing units (apartment and single family) for which permits were issued in October reached only 3,290 compared to the 6,671 reported in October, 1972.

Single family homes declined 23 per cent (from 2,325 to 1,793) and multiple permits decreased 66 per cent (from 4,346 to 1,497).

The sharpest decrease was noted in apartment units in the suburban towns where only 763 permits were recorded while 3,428 were reported in October, 1972.

The combined totals of permits issued for single family and apartment units in the first nine months of 1972 were 18 per cent lower than figures reported for the same period last year reaching only 39,189 compared to 47,504 in 1972.

Again, the largest volume in the nine month analysis occurred in multi-famlly activity in the suburban areas which reached 19,585 in 1972 and only 15,207 in the first nine months of this year.

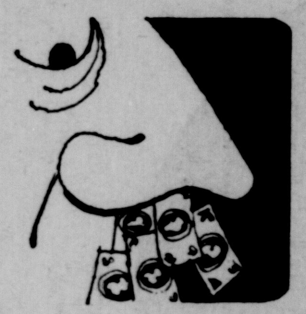
ARE YOU PAYING THROUGH THE NOSE TO HEAT THE GREAT OUTDOORS?



When it's cold outside, every time you open a door, a little heat escapes. When you consider how many times you open the door during the day: to let the dogs out, let the kids out, let the dogs in, let the kids in, take out the trash, go shopping, welcome a neighbor, pay the paper boy, etc . . . you begin to understand how much precious heat is escaping. So, try not to leave the door open any longer than it's absolutely necessary.

Heat can also escape through sneaky little cracks around the door frame, even when the door is closed. If you have a vented heating system, and you feel drafts of cold air, your heating dollars are being wasted. Stuff large cracks with insulating material, then seal with caulking compound. Smaller cracks can be repaired with a simple strip of insulating material. Watch this paper for tips that will help your heating bills and conserve precious fuel, as well.

Future of cooperatives, condominiums is bright

Outlook for both condominiums and cooperatives is bright — despite the current energy crunch.

"In fact, existing condo/co-op units will be in even greater demand as gasoline becomes more expensive and scarce," observes Durand A. Holladay, managing trustee of Continental Mortgage Investors, Boston.

Holladay points out that approximately 90 percent of all buildings housing co-ops or condo units are concentrated in metropolitan areas — with over half the structures located inside city limits.

"For condo/co-op owners, this means relatively easy access to their jobs — a factor of increasing importance as the energy crisis deepens.

"And as demand for these close-in condos or co-ops increases, so will their prices on resale," he adds.

Holladay notes that the recent trend of converting apartments into condominiums or cooperatives will accelerate in 1974 — particularly for apartment complexes in downtown urban areas.

"The picture for construction of new condo/co-op buildings — it is still too early to assess in any meaningful way, the impact of fuel shortages on the plans of both developers and builders," he says.

"But, overall, the condo/co-op scene for '74 is bullish," Holladay concludes.

Asphalt roofing proves popular

Of all the materials used for roofing, asphalt is among the most modern and the most ancient.

Modern-day asphalt shingles account for about 80 per cent of today's residential roofing in the U.S. But history is full of references to the ancient use of asphalt, a preservative that was used to waterproof Noah's ark and to build the ancient pyramids.

In recent years, archeologists have found more than a million mummified ibises — sacred birds of Egypt that are now extinct — in excavations. The ibises had been dipped in bitumen and wrapped in linen strips, with intricate herringbone patterns and a wide variety of decorations. The birds were mummified more than 2,000 years ago, sealed in cone-shaped pottery jars and buried in underground chambers.

Similarly, hundreds of thousands of hawks, mummified in exactly the same way as the ibis birds, were discovered in the excavations. Exploration of the animal-cult civilization also produced 500 mummified baboons and the sarcophagi of 25 cows.

The preservative characteristic of asphalt, valued by the ancient Egyptians, is essential to the manufacture of modern roofing. To produce asphalt shingles, a base mat of cellulose, glass or asbestos fibers is saturated in asphalt and then coated with a more viscous type of asphalt. Opaque mineral granules, ceramic coated for color, are then embedded in the asphalt for long-life protection against sun and fire.

Premium-quality asphalt shingles are classified by the Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc., for fire and wind resistance and are designed to give up to 25 years' service with only minimal maintenance.

Exec sees new housing trend for coming year

America's housing industry — beset, as is true with other economic sectors, by energy difficulties — will take significant new directions in 1974.

So says Jackson W. Goss, president and chief executive officer of Investors Mortgage Insurance Company, Boston, who adds that "while the coming year will be a time of stern testing and constant challenge, there are hopeful signs, too, and we can expect interesting new developments."

Goss makes these predictions for 1974:

New housing starts in the new year will total 1.65 million, down 21 percent from an estimated 2.1 million in 1973.

Two areas of the nation — the South and Southwest — plus Colorado — will retain a vigorous new home market despite a nationwide trend to existing homes.

Specifically, Alabama, Arizona, the Carolinas, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, New Mexico, Mississippi, Oklahoma and Texas will be the national pacesetters.

These states have enjoyed rapid economic growth and an influx of new residents in the past few years — all adding impetus to demand for more new home construction and mortgage money.

Sales of existing homes will emerge as the key market in 1974. Much of the construction industry will shift to the "Three R's": rehabilitation, renovation and restoration.

The Northeast, Pacific Northwest and Great Lakes regions will be the hottest markets for existing homes. Allocation of home heating fuels coupled with the large number of existing homes in need of rehabilitation will spur demand.

The total mortgage money flow will climb 13 percent to $81.4 billion, up from 1973's estimated $72 billion.

The mortgage flow will be heavily weighed in favor of existing homes, with $23.2 billion for new houses, compared with $58.2 billion for existing dwellings.

A continuing turnabout in the flow of savings back into thrift institutions will see such deposits reach new highs in 1974, freeing up substantially more funds for mortgage loans. This should become a cearly visible economic indicator by February-March, 1974.

"As for the mortgage insurance industry, we should be busier than ever in 1974. Costs of home ownership will continue to rise but so will the demand for housing. With higher prices, high-ratio loans — using private mortgage insurance — will be even more essential.

Your next home may be as near as your phone...

Spring Mill Townhomes feature light throughout

Light is an important amenity in the townhomes of Spring Mill, planned community being developed in Hoffman Estates by The Simon/R-G Group, Inc.

In the split-level Woodmire model, energy-conserving daylight from a 12-foot-high front window floods the open interior, spilling over from the story-and-a-half-high living-dining area into the 13-foot-wide kitchen. And the latter has its own glass wall, with sliding patio door, providing light from and sight into the landscaped environment.

Glass walls, facing on private patios, bathe living and dining rooms with daylight, in the two-story Streamcrest and Brookside townhomes. Kitchens, surrounded by interior walls, are equally bright, thanks to luminous ceilings and pass-throughs that convey daylight from the dining rooms.

"Light and cheerful surroundings are an important ingredient of family living," said William H. Crane, vice president-marketing for Simon/R-G. "Architects Booth & Nagle provided for a maximum of natural light in Spring Mill townhomes, with huge bedroom windows as well as glass walls and sliding glass doors in lower floor living areas."

Spring Mill's 200 townhomes are arranged in clusters around landscaped automobile courtyards that provide visitor parking as well as access to each home's attached garage. Glass walls provide views into the wide, landscaped green spaces between clusters, on the sloping site.

"Light is a feature of the landscaped environment, as well," Crane said. "Eighty per cent of the land area, encompassing green space, recreational facilities including clubhouse and swimming pool, a scenic man-made lake and courtyards, will be left open to the sky."

Space is generous inside the townhomes, as well as out, with up to 1,635 square feet of living space, plus attached garage. Carpeting, a full range of kitchen appliances, ceramic-tiled bathrooms with cultured marble vanity tops and insulated glass windows and patio doors are among features included.

Furnished models are on Spring Mill Drive, just south of Higgins Road (Illinois Route 72) about half a mile west of Roselle Road. Models are open for inspection from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m., weekdays and Sundays, and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturdays.

Add delightful flair to window shades

Here's a delightful — and easy — way to dress up a plain window shade. If your wallcovering features an overall floral pattern, cut out a few of the flowers and paste them across the shade, just above the hem. The gay effect will become an instant conversation piece.

23 from Quinlan and Tyson attend G.R.I. study course

Twenty-three real estate sales representatives from Quinlan and Tyson, Inc., Realtors, have just returned from courses of study conducted by the Illinois Association of Realtors.

All 23 are working toward the highly regarded G.R.I. (Graduate, Realtors Institute) designation awarded by the association for completion of three courses of study.

Richard G. Rutledge, executive vice president of the north shore and northwest suburban real estate firm, said, "The G.R.I. studies are an important part of the program of professional training that we stress in our company. The G.R.I. educational program complements our own extensive training at our Q&T Institute."

Rutledge said the advanced training in the G.R.I. program better equips Quinlan and Tyson's representatives to serve the buying and selling public.

Among those who attended the G.R.I. course in Peoria were:

It's the smallest sliver-of-a-crack. Scarcely a fingernail wide. But it's robbing you blind! Sending your heat bills up, by letting precious heat escape. Or perhaps your picture window is perfectly innocent. Maybe there's a sneaky little crack under the threshold of your front door. Or around the frame of your bedroom window. Wherever it is, if you have a vented heating system go to work to adequately and properly insulate and weatherstrip your house.

And while you're at it, check the chimney and vents to the outside to be sure they aren't clogged. All the materials you need are available at your nearest hardware store or building supply store. They cost only pennies, but they'll save you heating dollars over the years. What's more, by conserving heat you're helping to conserve precious fuel. If we run out of that, no amount of money will be able to buy the everyday comfort we take for granted!

Fox River Valley now experiencing an upswing in expansion activities

A distinctive fusion of environmental aesthetics, business and economic development, cultural and recreational opportunities, and a relaxed small-town life-style has thrust the Fox River Valley into a period of "phenomenal" growth activity.

While the entire Valley has experienced a boom, Kane County has emerged as one of the most prolific sectors in the nation today.

"Growth in the Fox River Valley is being compared to the Anaheim-Orange County, California area of the early 60's and the Oak Brook-Schaumburg area of the late 60's," said Harold Gossman, executive vice-president, Elgin Area Chamber of Commerce. Population of the Valley's five Kane County townships increased by 23.2 per cent between 1960-70, and is expected to rise from the 1970 total of 257,171 to well over 350,000 by 1980.

During the same ten-year period (1960-70), residential housing (single-family wooded lots and estates mixed with an increasing trend toward multi-family units) increased by 12,861 in number and $281,044,840 in value.

It is interesting to observe that Chicago's suburban population rise, which spiraled during the 60's, has declined during this decade. The average annual population increase in Chicago's suburbs was 2.1 per cent since 1970, according to a recent study by the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC). The 60's rate was 3.1 per cent. Growth totals for all four counties in the Valley increased 32 per cent during the last decade.

"Families want country living . . . a relaxed environment. Such a priority is shaping the Valley's dynamic growth pattern," said Robert L. Roberts, vice-president marketing for The Branigar Organization, developing The Windings of Ferson Creek.

"A recent Gallup Poll indicated just 13 per cent of the people preferred city living over a non-urban residence. Seven years earlier, a similar Gallup Poll indicated 22 per cent of the city dwellers said they preferred urban living. 20 per cent of the city dwellers recently polled by Gallup said they preferred urban living, compared to 36 per cent in 1966.

There are five rings around the Chicago metropolitan area — central city, outside central city, close-in suburbs, outlying suburbs, and ex-urban living — each representing a distinct lifestyle. Large scale movement into the ex-urban areas is ushering in a new phase of metropolitan development.

Area research/development directors, like Robert Lovell, Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Company of Chicago; Alex Jacobs, First Federal Savings & Loan Association of Aurora; Anthony L. Novak, Elgin Joliet & Eastern Railway Co.; William Barber, Elgin Economic Development Commission; as well as Valley officials believe other significant criteria also make the Valley conducive to growth, including:

Totally self-sustaining satellite cities with stable and prospering economies and well-diversified industrial bases. Valley industry in Kane County is second only to Cook County of Chicagoland's Illinois counties in total industrial employment, according to recent research figures compiled by the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry. About 40 per cent of the work force is employed in area manufacturing. Almost 90 per cent earn their livelihood within the county.

Elgin has become a vigorous multi-company town with a backbone of over 150 light/clean industries. Aurora is one of four of 123 Chicago industrial areas with 186 or more industrial parks. An intensive labor pool is being met by a similarly growing job market in St. Charles with the newly created Central Manufacturing District.

Well-established and healthy communities are mixing effectively with new planned unit developments.

FOX RIVER VALLEY GROWTH MARKET

An accent on space and outdoors enhances the public parks.

Proximity to Chicago's cultural and recreational entertainment.

Transportation arteries — highways, railroads, airports — provide accessibility.

Land is available.

Modern and progressive schools, hospitals, and health and community services serve the area.

Major planned unit developments create a new people market, Douglas said. He cites Fox Valley East, which will include a major shopping facility to rival Woodfield Mall, regional office centers, and a variety of residential housing units; West Valley near Elburn, a "new-town" concept; and the National Accelerator Laboratory east of Batavia.

According to Aurora Mayor Albert D. McCoy, recent annexation of Fox Valley East (projected to have a 1995 population of 50,000) will make Aurora the second largest city in the state by 2000.

"Families used to go to the country for a Sunday drive . . . now they come here to live. In the 50's and 60's people moved from the city to the suburbs . . . today the suburbs have become part of the fabric of the city," Hull, project director at the Windings said.

To accommodate and better serve the perpetual growth, a study was recently completed by H. W. Lochner, Inc., Chicago consulting engineer firm, to develop a major transportation facility. The corridor for the proposed Fox Valley Freeway, running from Lockport (Will County) to McCollum Lake (McHenry County), has been approved by the Federal Highway Administration and local municipalities for the portion between Lockport and Elgin.

"The area needs a highway network that connects to other major routes," said John Knafl, project engineer at Lochner. "If planned properly, a freeway can benefit major development."

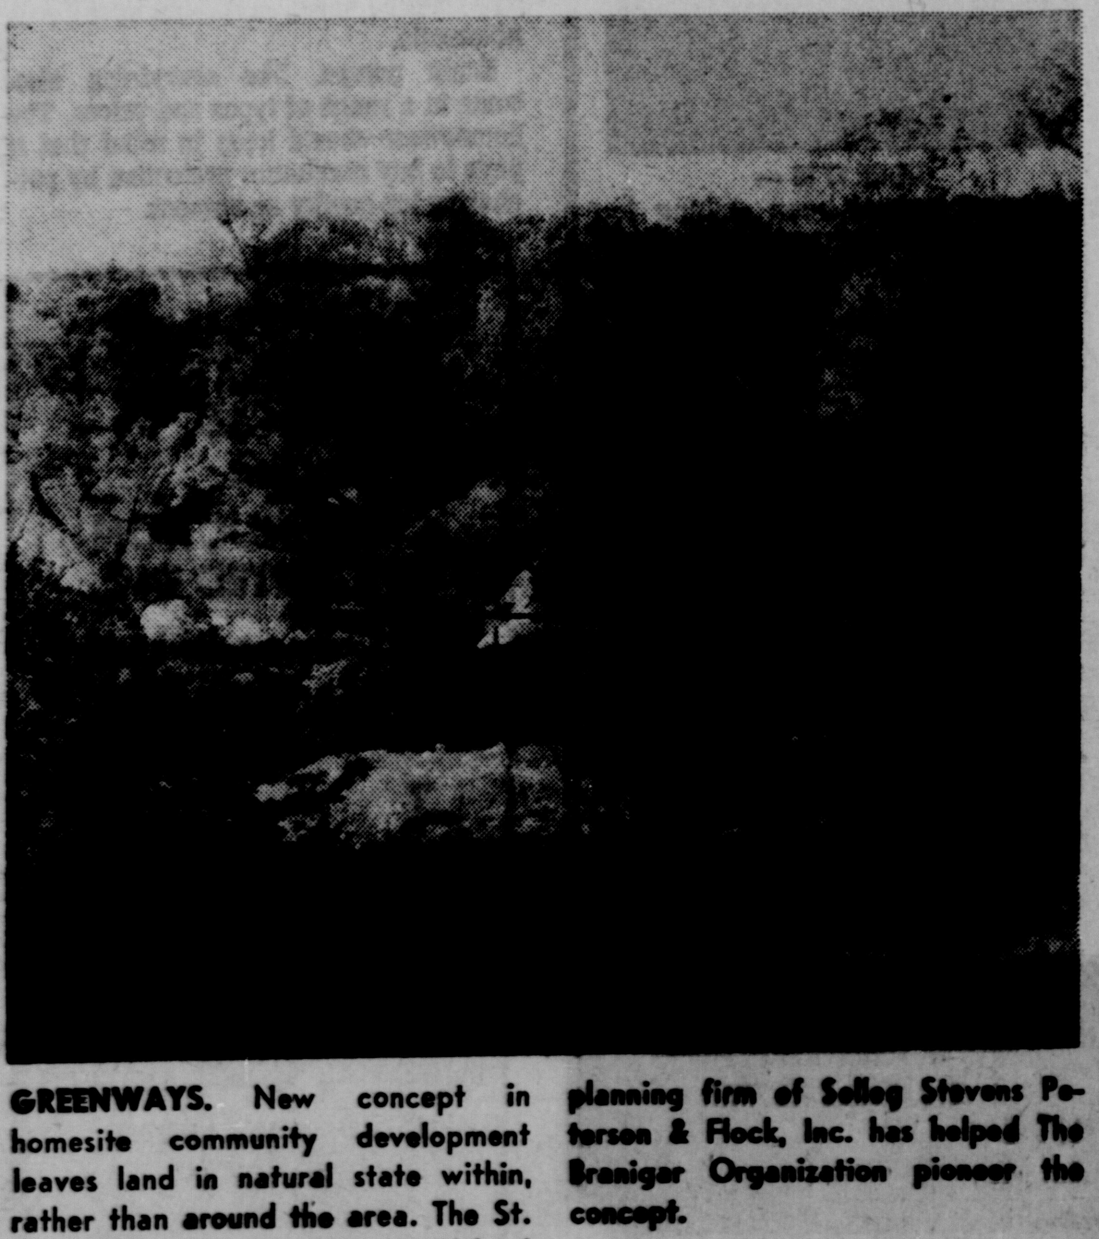
"Sensible management, strict guidelines, and a systematic approach to development are needed," said Ivan Alten, director of Kane County urban development. "Without sophisticated planning and forceful leadership at the community level, the Valley could be a mess in ten years."

Regional planning — communities working jointly — should be responsive to the need for more thorough planning, said Lovell.

"Open space in residential development and buffer zones in commercial expansion should be provided," Blank said.

Is the westward people movement just an overnight happening?

"The Valley has been on the fringes of expansion. The crest of growth has finally reached us and will be concentrated here for the next ten years," said Mayor Rauschenberger. Gossman projected, "The growth impact will continue for at least the next 20 years."



GREENWAYS. New concept in homesite community development leaves land in natural state within, rather than around the area. The St. Charles-based architectural and land planning firm of Selleg Stevens Peterson & Flock, Inc. has helped The Branigar Organization pioneer the concept.

Salesman cited

Jack Williams

During a recent sales meeting hosted by the Eastman Division in Manitowoc, Wis., he was congratulated by Fred G. Diheman, vice president, Eastman Division, who noted that in the past year the division posted the largest sales increase and largest volume of sales in its history.

LARGE WINDOWS in Spring Mill townhomes draw natural light into upper floor bedrooms, while glass walls and sliding glass patio doors, on opposite sides of units, opening onto privte patios, similarly light lower floors. Front entries and attached garages face on landscaped driving courts. Low-maintenance exteriors are of brick and vertical, insulated aluminum siding.

Restoring neighborhoods gains added importance

Rehabilitation and restoration are taking on added importance in today's housing industry.

So declares Durand A. Holladay, managing trustee of Continental Mortgage Investors, Boston, who expects that "any slack in new home construction during 1974 will likely be taken up by an increased number of programs to restore entire neighborhoods."

A recent $4.5 million project in Chicago for which CMI provided construction financing shows what is being done now — and what can be expected in the future.

"An entire block in what was once one of the city's most prestigious residential sections has been completely rebuilt, with a variety of 210 new apartments and 14 townhouses. It is the first time in Chicago's history that an entire block has been rehabilitated by a single developer," Holladay notes.

The Chicago project restored once-stately Victorian structures. Special recreation rooms and facilities were included in several buildings, he states.

"The developers designed the project to attract middle-income residents — both families and individuals. Every effort was made to retain the original architecture of the block while the most modern of amenities were added," Holladay emphasizes.

Reports indicate, he adds, that similar projects are being both launched and planned in other parts of the nation.

"These rehabilitation programs will help meet the ever-burgeoning American public's demand for housing," Holladay concludes.

A distinctive fusion of environmental aesthetics, business and economic development, cultural and recreational opportunities, and a relaxed small-town life-style has thrust the Fox River Valley into a period of "phenomenal" growth activity.

While the entire Valley has experienced a boom, Kane County has emerged as one of the most prolific sectors in the nation today.

"Growth in the Fox River Valley is being compared to the Anaheim-Orange County, California area of the early 60's and the Oak Brook-Schaumburg area of the late 60's," said Harold Gossman, executive vice-president, Elgin Area Chamber of Commerce. Population of the Valley's five Kane County townships increased by 23.2 per cent between 1960-70, and is expected to rise from the 1970 total of 257,171 to well over 350,000 by 1980.

During the same ten-year period (1960-70), residential housing (single-family wooded lots and estates mixed with an increasing trend toward multi-family units) increased by 12,861 in number and $281,044,840 in value.

It is interesting to observe that Chicago's suburban population rise, which spiraled during the 60's, has declined during this decade. The average annual population increase in Chicago's suburbs was 2.1 per cent since 1970, according to a recent study by the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC). The 60's rate was 3.1 per cent. Growth totals for all four counties in the Valley increased 32 per cent during the last decade.

"Families want country living . . . a relaxed environment. Such a priority is shaping the Valley's dynamic growth pattern," said Robert L. Roberts, vice-president marketing for The Branigar Organization, developing The Windings of Ferson Creek.

"A recent Gallup Poll indicated just 13 per cent of the people preferred city living over a non-urban residence. Seven years earlier, a similar Gallup Poll indicated 22 per cent of the city dwellers said they preferred urban living. 20 per cent of the city dwellers recently polled by Gallup said they preferred urban living, compared to 36 per cent in 1966.

There are five rings around the Chicago metropolitan area — central city, outside central city, close-in suburbs, outlying suburbs, and ex-urban living — each representing a distinct lifestyle. Large scale movement into the ex-urban areas is ushering in a new phase of metropolitan development.

Area research/development directors, like Robert Lovell, Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Company of Chicago; Alex Jacobs, First Federal Savings & Loan Association of Aurora; Anthony L. Novak, Elgin Joliet & Eastern Railway Co.; William Barber, Elgin Economic Development Commission; as well as Valley officials believe other significant criteria also make the Valley conducive to growth, including:

Totally self-sustaining satellite cities with stable and prospering economies and well-diversified industrial bases. Valley industry in Kane County is second only to Cook County of Chicagoland's Illinois counties in total industrial employment, according to recent research figures compiled by the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry. About 40 per cent of the work force is employed in area manufacturing. Almost 90 per cent earn their livelihood within the county.

Elgin has become a vigorous multi-company town with a backbone of over 150 light/clean industries. Aurora is one of four of 123 Chicago industrial areas with 186 or more industrial parks. An intensive labor pool is being met by a similarly growing job market in St. Charles with the newly created Central Manufacturing District.

Well-established and healthy communities are mixing effectively with new planned unit developments.

Year-round social, cultural, recreational/leisure-time activities are family-oriented with plenty of parks, forest preserves, museums, exhibits, places to tour, restaurants, theater, and shopping centers.

An accent on space and outdoors enhances the public parks.

Proximity to Chicago's cultural and recreational entertainment.

Transportation arteries — highways, railroads, airports — provide accessibility.

Land is available.

Modern and progressive schools, hospitals, and health and community services serve the area.

Major planned unit developments create a new people market, Douglas said. He cites Fox Valley East, which will include a major shopping facility to rival Woodfield Mall, regional office centers, and a variety of residential housing units; West Valley near Elburn, a "new-town" concept; and the National Accelerator Laboratory east of Batavia.

According to Aurora Mayor Albert D. McCoy, recent annexation of Fox Valley East (projected to have a 1995 population of 50,000) will make Aurora the second largest city in the state by 2000.

"Families used to go to the country for a Sunday drive . . . now they come here to live. In the 50's and 60's people moved from the city to the suburbs . . . today the suburbs have become part of the fabric of the city," Hull, project director at the Windings said.

To accommodate and better serve the perpetual growth, a study was recently completed by H. W. Lochner, Inc., Chicago consulting engineer firm, to develop a major transportation facility. The corridor for the proposed Fox Valley Freeway, running from Lockport (Will County) to McCollum Lake (McHenry County), has been approved by the Federal Highway Administration and local municipalities for the portion between Lockport and Elgin.

"The area needs a highway network that connects to other major routes," said John Knafl, project engineer at Lochner. "If planned properly, a freeway can benefit major development."

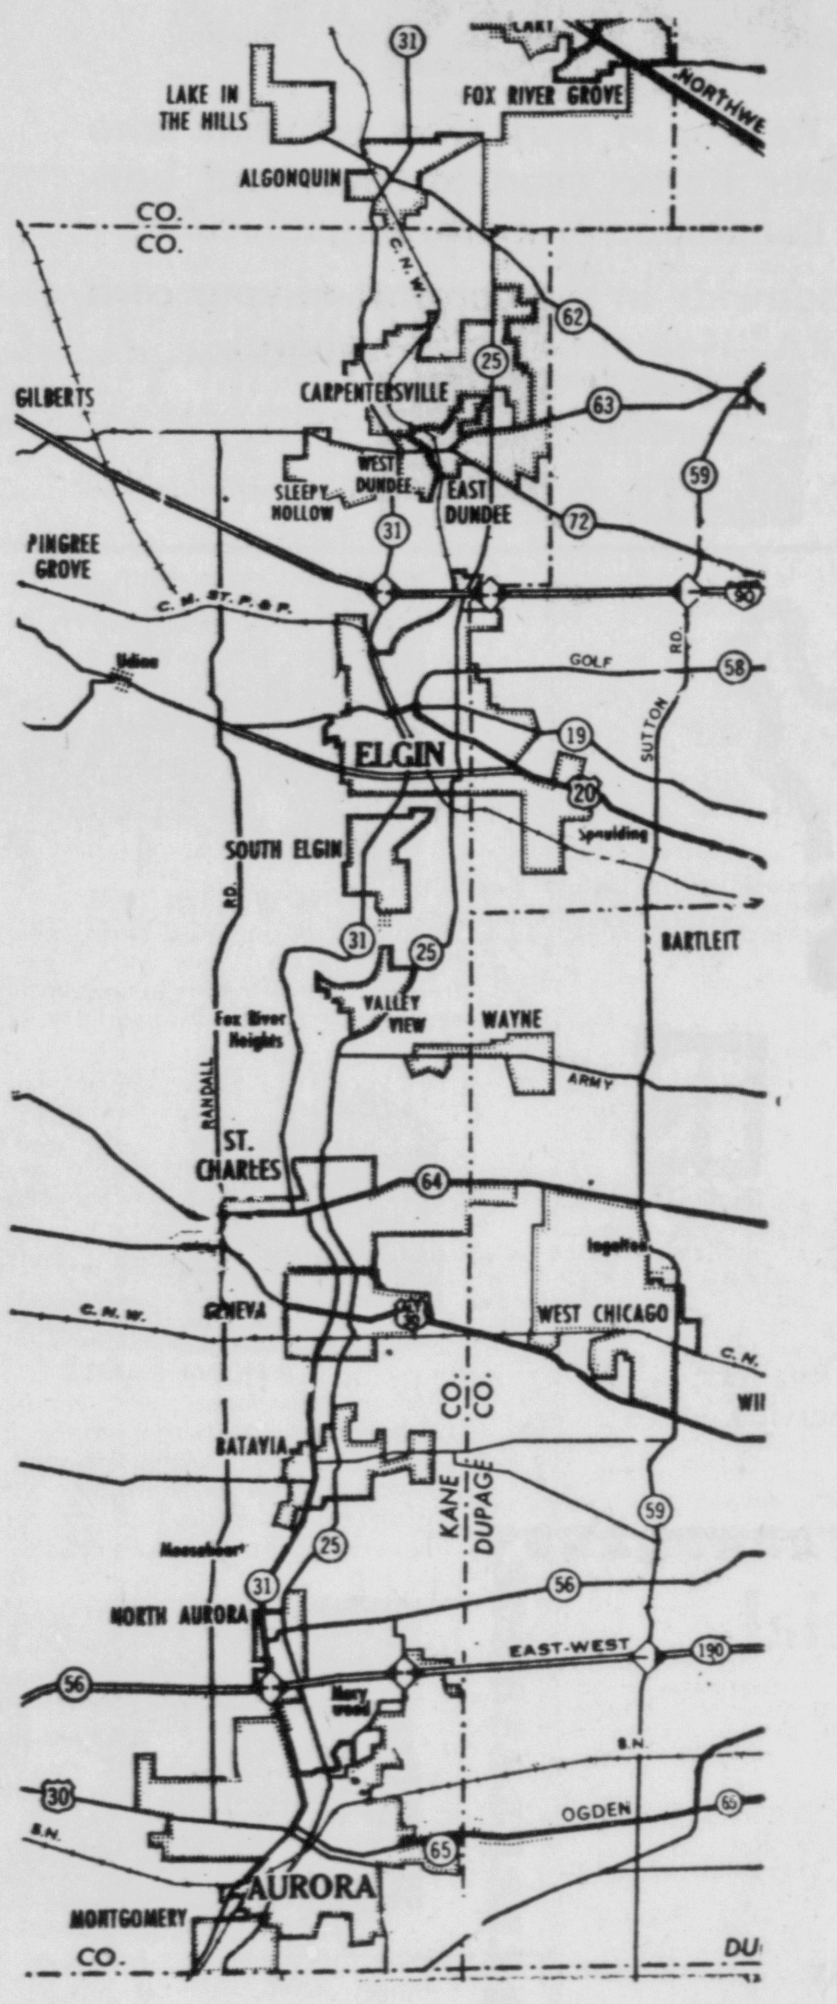
"Sensible management, strict guidelines, and a systematic approach to development are needed," said Ivan Alten, director of Kane County urban development. "Without sophisticated planning and forceful leadership at the community level, the Valley could be a mess in ten years."

Regional planning — communities working jointly — should be responsive to the need for more thorough planning, said Lovell.

"Open space in residential development and buffer zones in commercial expansion should be provided," Blank said.

Is the westward people movement just an overnight happening?

"The Valley has been on the fringes of expansion. The crest of growth has finally reached us and will be concentrated here for the next ten years," said Mayor Rauschenberger. Gossman projected, "The growth impact will continue for at least the next 20 years."



FOX RIVER VALLEY GROWTH MARKET

GREENWAYS. New concept in homesite community development leaves land in natural state within, rather than around the area. The St. Charles-based architectural and land planning firm of Selleg Stevens Peterson & Flock, Inc. has helped The Branigar Organization pioneer the concept.

Jack Williams, 1772 Wood, Mount Prospect, and zone manager, Eastman Division, Eastman Corp., has been honored for his personal sales achievements.

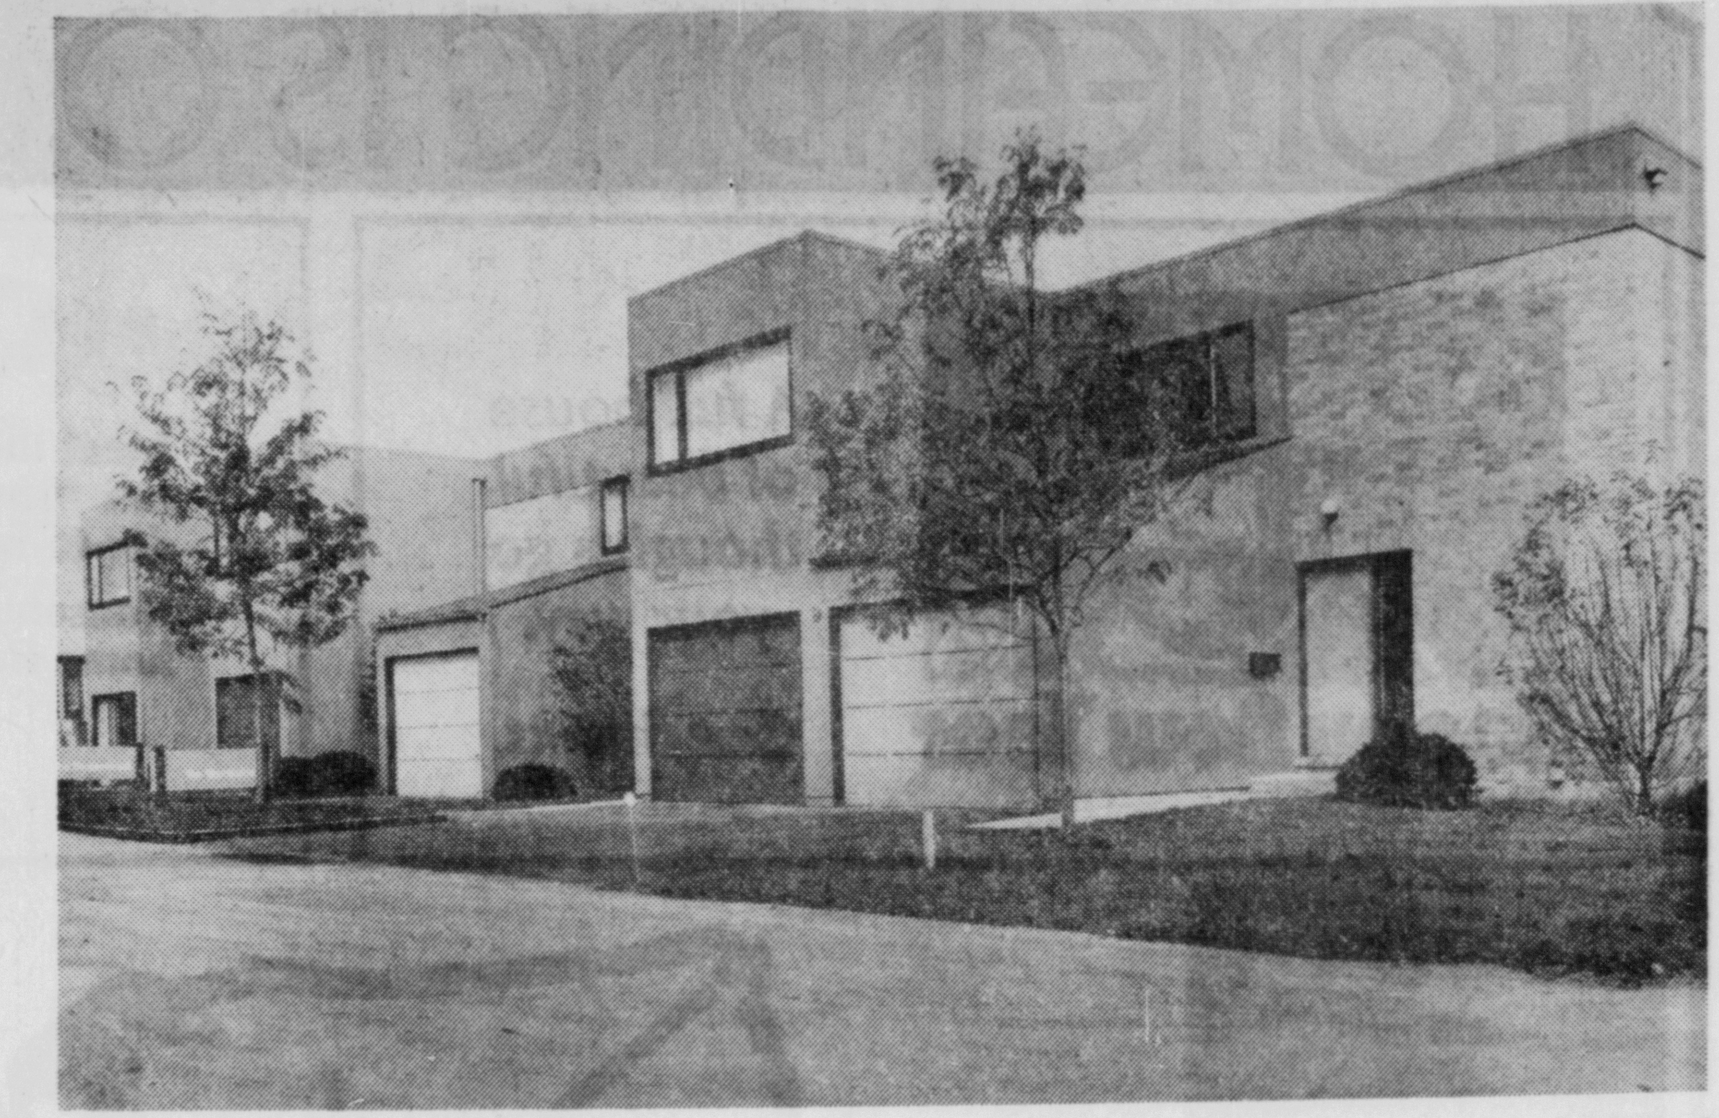
During a recent sales meeting hosted by the Eastman Division in Manitowoc, Wis., he was congratulated by Fred G. Dikeman, vice president, Eastman Division, who noted that in the past year the division posted the largest sales increase and largest volume of sales in its history.



LARGE WINDOWS in Spring Mill townhomes draw natural light into upper floor bedrooms, while glass walls and sliding glass patio doors, on opposite sides of units, opening onto privte patios, similarly light lower floors. Front entries and attached garages face on landscaped driving courts. Low-maintenance exteriors are of brick and vertical, insulated aluminum siding.

Restoring neighborhoods gains added importance

Rehabilitation and restoration are taking on added importance in today's housing industry.

So declares Durand A. Holladay, managing trustee of Continental Mortgage Investors, Boston, who expects that "any slack in new home construction during 1974 will likely be taken up by an increased number of programs to restore entire neighborhoods."

A recent $4.5 million project in Chicago for which CMI provided construction financing shows what is being done now — and what can be expected in the future.

"An entire block in what was once one of the city's most prestigious residential sections has been completely rebuilt, with a variety of 210 new apartments and 14 townhouses. It is the first time in Chicago's history that an entire block has been rehabilitated by a single developer," Holladay notes.

The Chicago project restored once-stately Victorian structures. Special recreation rooms and facilities were included in several buildings, he states.

"The developers designed the project to attract middle-income residents — both families and individuals. Every effort was made to retain the original architecture of the block while the most modern of amenities were added," Holladay emphasizes.

Reports indicate, he adds, that similar projects are being both launched and planned in other parts of the nation.

"These rehabilitation programs will help meet the ever-burgeoning American public's demand for housing," Holladay concludes.

Protect basement with sump pump

Many basements that formerly housed an accumulation of useless things that no one wanted to throw away have been converted into family rooms, dad's workshop or some other facility with valuable equipment. This means that the basement must be protected at all times against flooding. Even the old-fashioned basement must be protected against flooding for health reasons.

The device to do the job is a sump pump, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau. It's installed in a pit or sump, and when water in the pit reached a predetermined level, a float switch automatically starts the pump. It continues to operate until all the water has been drained out. Shutoff also is automatic.

Sump pumps, like everything else, come in a range of types and prices. The homeowner should keep in mind that it pays to buy maximum protection by purchasing top-quality equipment.

Martin Henner named bank trust officer

Martin A. Henner of Arlington Heights recently was appointed trust officer in the Employees Benefits Division of the Trust Department at LaSalle National Bank, Chicago.

Henner joined LaSalle in 1970 as a management trainee. He was assigned to the Trust Department in 1971. Henner holds a B.S. degree in finance from DePaul University.

Protect basement with sump pump

Many basements that formerly housed an accumulation of useless things that no one wanted to throw away have been converted into family rooms, dad's workshop or some other facility with valuable equipment. This means that the basement must be protected at all times against flooding. Even the old-fashioned basement must be protected against flooding for health reasons.

The device to do the job is a sump pump, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau. It's installed in a pit or sump, and when water in the pit reached a predetermined level, a float switch automatically starts the pump. It continues to operate until all the water has been drained out. Shutoff also is automatic.

Sump pumps, like everything else, come in a range of types and prices. The homeowner should keep in mind that it pays to buy maximum protection by purchasing top-quality equipment.

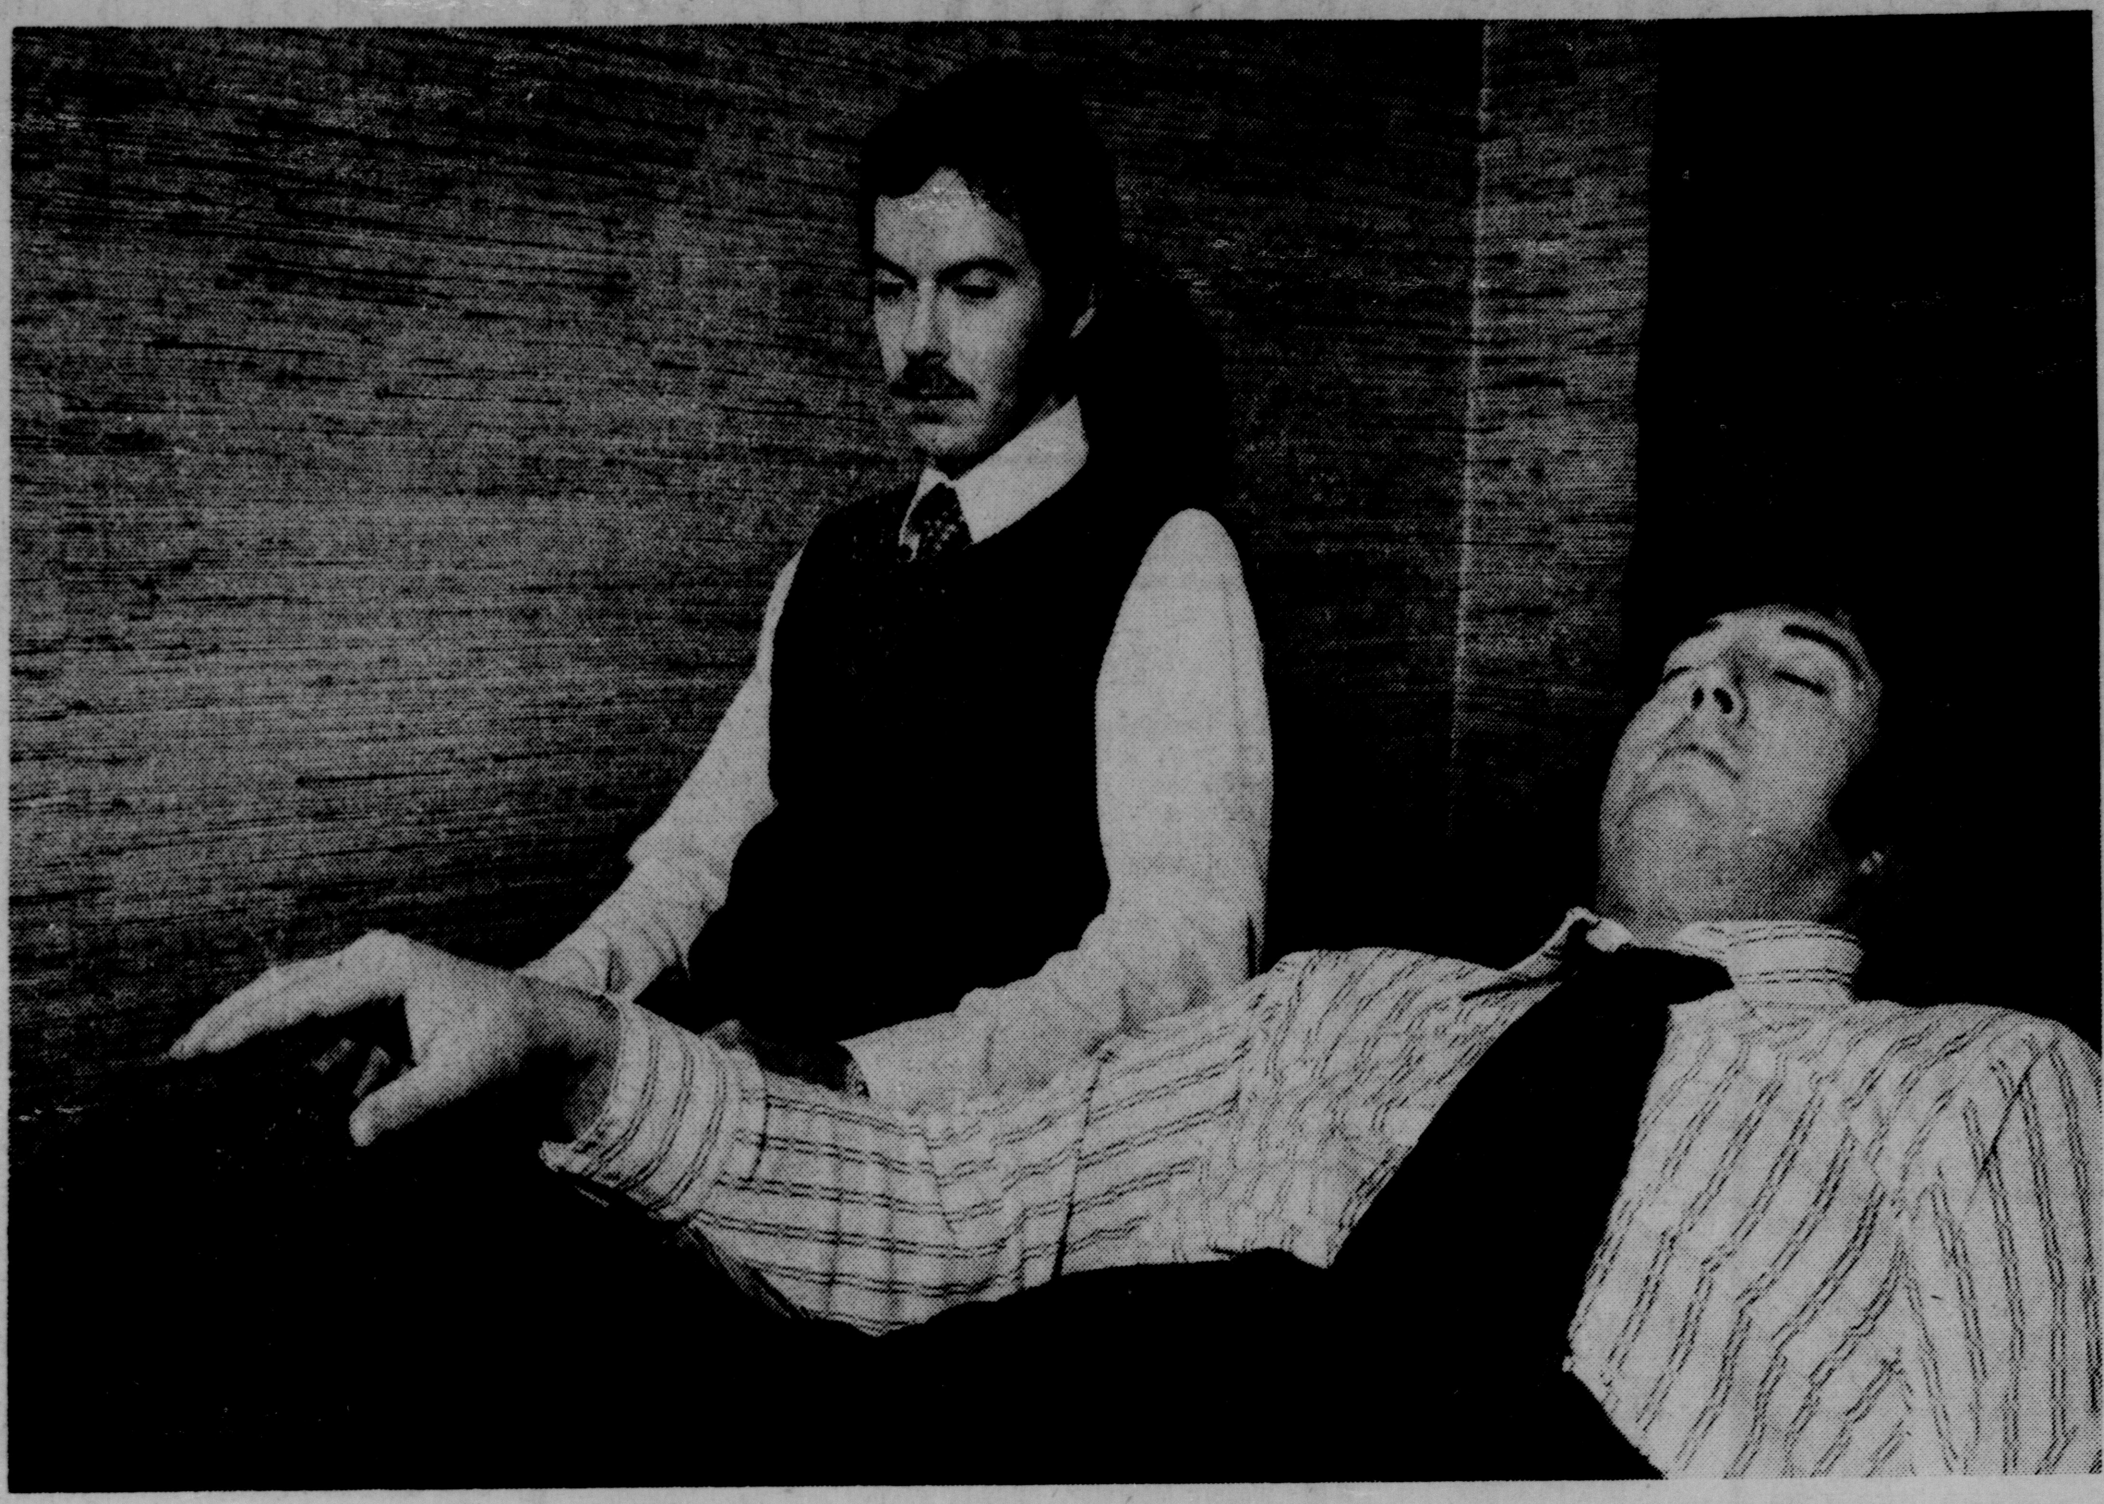
‘Sleepy, sleepy, I'm so sleepy . . . soft rains fall on dewy grass-- and who needs to eat on such a lovely day . . .?’



The red balloon is pulling my arm upward.

Hypnotherapy may provide a new weapon in science's fight against obesity

by BARRY SIGALE

I am chasing Jane Fonda through an alley. She is screaming and looking back as I draw nearer. I catch up to her. Suddenly, she disappears. She's not there anymore. I cry.

The song is melodic. The words talk of the breaking of day. Of blackbirds speaking. Of rains falling on the first grass. Of sunlight. Of God's creation.

Soothing. Simple sounds. Used to relax and produce a euphoric state in my mind. Deeper. Deeper. Deeper. Relaxed. Floating on air. Floating lazily. Floating peacefully. Floating on down. Floating.

A fresh morning. Bright. Crackling. Blue skies coming my way. Hot sun. Silent birds flying. Lying in the sand with waves coming over me. Sensual. Tranquil.

Somewhere, in a green park, a red balloon is tied to my wrist. A string pulls my arm upward. It hangs. Suspended. Limp. Like a marionette's. Muscles free. So free and quiet.

One. Two. Three. SLEEP.

I am under hypnosis.

The black chair is in a reclining position and vibrating in such a way that almost every muscle in my body is being massaged and kneaded. My eyes are closed and in the dim light of the small, square, soundproof room I am in the twilight.

Deeper. Deeper. Relaxed. Deeper. Deeper on down.

Proof of my state has come. Any doubt that I am truly in a trance is gone. Words and phrases come tumbling through my headset, as the songs before. Words and phrases which are piercing and very, very suggestive. Words and phrases designed to elicit an unfiltered response from my subconscious.

AND I RESPOND. About my real and true feelings and attitudes toward sex. Toward my lifestyle. Toward my underlying desires about what I want most out of life. The usual. Fame. Fortune. Recognition. Power. Peace. Satisfaction.

It's all in the inner recesses of my mind. The trick is to get it out. To plunge past the fatty, false pretentions and coverups that shield my gut reactions toward the world around me. It's something we all do.

Being in a trance is like daydreaming only in this case a hypnotherapist, Dr. Lawrence J. Beuret, is monitoring and evaluating my every response to this word association test.

Dr. Beuret, who at 31 is operating one of about a dozen hypnotherapy centers in the country out of the Gas and Electric Building in downtown Rockford, is but a catalyst guiding me into the hypnotic trance.

I am being hypnotized for the first time. It takes about 10 minutes before the imaginary red balloon pulls my arm to an extended position.

THE DOCTOR sits to my right and slightly behind me. He puts his forefinger on top of my head and tells me to look up at it. Although this is impossible I roll my eyes upward and then slowly down and closed upon his command.

He tells me to picture a large, red balloon. With a string attached. The string is wrapped around my wrist. For emphasis and to bring me to total awareness of this sight Dr. Beuret pinches my wrist.

He is now telling me the balloon is rising into the air and taking my wrist and arm with it. I can see and feel it happening. And then my wrist and arm are really moving up. First the hand, then the arm. A few minutes later, my arm is extended gently in the air.

Dr. Beuret leaves the room. He goes into a small studio in which he watches me through closed-circuit television. It is here he feeds tape recordings through the headsets. The tapes talk mainly about taking a positive mental attitude toward life. That you're only as good as you feel. And act. And other mind-building suggestions.

‘One . . . You're coming up. Two . . . Almost awake. Three . . . Wide awake. Feeling refreshed. Feeling great . . .’

THE VOICE is Dr. Beuret's. In a low monotone and drawing out each world, he leads me through and deeper into the trance with a series of suggestions about relaxing my body.

"Feel the tension going out of your muscles. Feel the heaviness of your eyelids. You are going deeper and deeper relaxed. Deeper. Deeper. Deeper. Relaxed. Deeper. Deeper. Deeper on down. Deeper. Deeper. Deeper. Relaxed. Deeper. Deeper. Deeper on down. Deeper. Deeper. Deeper. Relaxed. Deeper. Deeper. Deeper on down."

I am conscious at all times. I have a feeling that my limbs are so heavy I cannot move them. That my body is plastered to the chair and will never turn loose. My breathing rate increases. I am fully aware of what's going on. My nose itches. It's too much trouble to scratch it.

My mouth becomes moist again and my breathing steadies as I go deeper and deeper under. The vibrating chair does enough to make me relax by itself. With the dreamy-like suggestions of the doctor I am falling to even greater depths.

IN ANOTHER relaxation technique I am told to tighten every muscle in my body. For about 60 seconds I become rigid, like a hunting dog pointing toward a fallen bird. Trying to hold this posture for a full minute is excrutiating. But then comes the release and the tremendous tenseness is gone. Dr. Beuret tells me to enter into a deeper sleep. "Deeper. Deeper. Deeper. Relaxed. Deeper. Deeper. Deeper on down."

Bringing me out of this trance is similar to putting me in it. Dr. Beuret counts slowly to three.

"One. You're coming up. Two. Almost awake. THREE. Wide awake. Feeling refreshed. Feeling great." And, I begin to think, able to leap tall buildings at a single bound.

I sought Dr. Beuret for this story on what it is like to be hypnotized and to discuss with him the increasing role hypnosis is playing since the American Medical Assn. became aware of its potentials in the late 1950s.

I have since begun a six-month program of once-a-week visits to him as a patient.

MY PROBLEM is weight. In this, the richest and most plentiful nation of all, millions of Americans are either flabby or downright obese. I am the latter.

There are about as many reasons for obesity as there are obese people. The real problem is not overweight but overeating. Heredity has nothing to do with it. Maybe environment plays a part, but you aren't born fat.

Psychiatrists give other reasons. Something or a series of things may have psychologically affected an infant. The results of the feeding process, the comfort and good feeling that accompanies it, sticks with him. It becomes a conditioned response when repeated over and over, which then carries over when he becomes an adult. When an emotional crisis arises, the adult's subconscious mind says, "EAT." Or, overeat.

All I know is that I am a compulsive eater. Some of the reasons psychiatrists list are applicable to me. How else can I explain grabbing a hamburger sandwich with french fries and a Coke. On the way home to dinner.

Or, attacking the main course of a meal and then, half an hour later, after catching my breath and wiping the sweat from my brow, asking myself, "Did I eat dinner? I don't remember. I don't remember chewing my food. I don't remember what it really tasted like. Why am I still hungry?"

But, I'm not hungry. I don't need to eat. I just want to. That is why the therapy program, accompanied by a special weight program designed to change my eating habits.

DR. BEURET opened his center in February after completing his residency training at the National Academy of Medical Hypnosis in Atlanta. This followed his graduation from Loyola Medical School, internship at Rockford Memorial Hospital and residency in pediatrics and adolescent psychiatry at the Mayo Clinic.

He says he has had good success with his patients in such problem areas as sexual dysfunction, frigidity, alcoholism and insomnia. Most of his patients are from the Rockford area with about a third from Chicago and suburbs.

Most people believe a hypnotist can go "ZAP!" and cure his patient. While this holds true in some cases, Dr. Beuret explained, the majority of patients need several months of therapy. The average cost is between $20 and $40 per hour, depending on the length of the particular therapy program.

The underlying causes to their problems must be found, he said. Then, it is up to him to make sure any thoughts the patients have about them are eradicated and new, more positive thinking replaced. And reinforced. Again and again.

A key to this process is the return to the past, to times and experiences that may have played a key role in creating these problems. It is called age-regression and while it can cause many anxious moments within patients it is found to be the best method in getting to the root of their problems.

Regressing is touched off by an actual dream a patient has while asleep at night, like my Jane Fonda dream. In a session with Dr. Beuret, this dream touched off the remembrances of happenings in my life that point up some of my problems. Insecurity. Self-defeating. Self-conscious.

This is countered by a suggestion that I picture a golden, full-length mirror, with lights shining on it, causing a glistening effect. "Now see yourself in this mirror. The way you want to look. The way you'd like to be seen. The way you always wished."

AND THERE I am. Handsome. Impeccably dressed in a finely woven suit. With prominent-looking glasses balanced delicately on my nose. Distinguished. A briefcase in my hand.

Then I am transformed. I become an active father sitting on the floor playing with my real-life 16-month-old daughter while my wife watches, smiling.

The image changes again. I am standing in a white tennis outfit, racket in one hand, towel around my shoulders. The picture of health. The picture of manhood.

It is an image I'll get to yet.

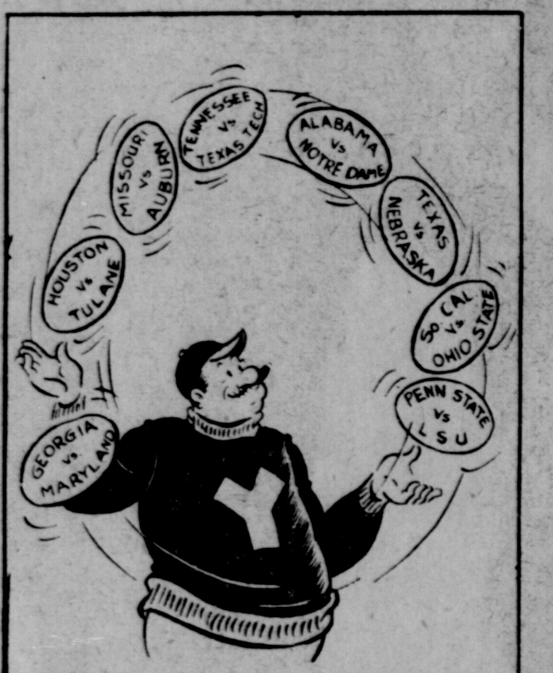
Sugar Bowl is a delectable dish; here's a vote for Irish by seven

by MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
United Press International



Egad, friends, this year's bowl matchups are some of the finest in years with the superpowers Alabama and Notre Dame having at each other in the Sugar Bowl on New Year's Eve, and the bruising Ohio State Buckeyes meeting the high-stepping Southern California Trojans the next day in a repeat engagement in the Rose Bowl. And those are only two of the eight great contests on tap over the holiday weekend — um — kumph! 'Tis indeed unfortunate the excellent Oklahoma club tripped over some off-the-field regulations. They would have been a worthy participant in any bowl.

Let us, without further ado, proceed to analyze the games in their chronological order.

PEACH BOWL
Dec. 28, Atlanta, Ga.
Maryland 30, Georgia 10.

The Terps stunned the collegiate football world by thrashing a fine Tulane team, 42-9, in their season finale. They'll show this was no fluke by turning back Vince Dooley's Georgia Bulldogs by a 20-point margin.

ASTRO-BLUEBONNET
Dec. 29, Houston, Tex.
Houston 28, Tulane 23.

The Houston Cougars (10-1) and Tulane's Green Wave (9-2) appear to be very evenly matched with the Hoople nod going to the Cougars. This is one of Tulane's finest club in years but the rugged Cougar's defense, rated seventh in the nation, will turn the tide.

GATOR BOWL
Dec. 29, Jacksonville, Fla.
Texas Tech 24, Tennessee 21

The Hoople System — kaff-kaff — had a difficult time separating these two fine elevens. The Red Raiders won 10 while losing only one contest this fall while Tennessee, playing in the rugged Southeastern Conference, was forced to settle for a 9-3 record. We look for Jim Carlen's Texas Tech lads to eke out a narrow victory. As a special treat keep your eyes on the Red Raiders' Larry Williams who has averaged better than 25 yards on kickoff returns.

SUN BOWL
Dec. 29, El Paso, Tex.
Missouri 33, Auburn 17.

The Missouri tigers, who won their first six contests and then dropped four of their last five, are expected to return to their early-season form. Auburn has been a disappointment this year but showed it can put it all together by handing Houston its only 1973 defeat. Our indicators say this is Missouri's day.

SUGAR BOWL (N)
Dec. 31, New Orleans, La.
Notre Dame 31, Alabama 24.

With the National Title on the line Notre Dame's Ara Parseghian and Alabama's Bear Bryant will — heh-heh — go for broke! Alabama (11-0-0) and Notre Dame (10-0-0) are almost evenly matched in the statistics department with 'Bama having the edge in offense averaging 480.7 yards per game to Notre Dame's 461.4. In defense it's the other way around with the Irish limiting all opponents to an average of 201.2 yards per game and the Crimson Tide allowing their foes 244.8. In rushing offense 'Bama rolled for 366.1 yards per contest to 350.2 for the Irish. The edge, as we see it, comes in rushing defense where the big, mobile Irish forward wall has stymied running attacks all season while holding their opponents to an average of only 82.4 yards per outing. The Tide has given up 139.6 yards on the ground per game. Truly, to the victor in this colossal showdown should go the No. 1 rating — harrumph!

COTTON BOWL
Jan. 1, Dallas, Tex.
Texas, 33, Nebraska 22.

Darrell Royal's Longhorns stunned by an early 52-13 thrashing at the hands of mighty Oklahoma, recovered their poise and rolled to six straight wins over tough Southwest Conference foes. With Roosevelt Leaks, who ran at a 141.5 yards-per-game clip, leading the charge, the Longhorns should hold the upper hand all the way over the tough Cornhuskers.

ROSE BOWL
Jan. 1, Pasadena, Calif.
So. California 28, Ohio State 20.

The Granddaddy of the Bowls boasts another major attraction shaded in importance only by the Sugar Bowl. For Johnny McKay's Trojans it will be their sixth Rose Bowl appearrnce in the last eight years and for Woody Hayes' Buckeyes it will be a chance to avenge last season's defeat by the Trojans. The Rose Bowl shapes up as a tremendous battle with the Bucks sporting a 9-0-1 record and the Trojans, losers only to Notre Dame, running up a 9-1-1 score. Playing at home and with the cagey McKay directing the show we foresee a triumph for the Trojans — hak-kaff.

ORANGE BOWL
Jan. 1, Miami, Fla.
Penn State 27, LSU 21.

As usual Joe Paterno has one of his fine clubs in a top bowl meeting. Boasting an 11-0-0 record and with Heisman Trophy winner John Capalletti showing the way, the Nittany Lions will prevail over a rugged LSU team. This will be a fitting climax to a great weekend of collegiate football.

Three area teams record wins in wrestling action

by KEITH REINHARD
Wrestling Editor

The adage 'nobody's perfect' held true to form around the Herald area wrestling circuit last Saturday.

A winner from Friday was unkindly dumped the next day while two other clubs coming up with victories needed them to make amends for outs absorbed the previous evening. Another local entry went one-for-three and still another had to lose its only outing of the weekend to accommodate another area unit's win.

Here's how non-conference combat unwound last Saturday:

BUFFALO GROVE 39, ST. VIATOR 19

Pins by Bob Daulton, Doug Browning, Tom Bickner, Jerry Bickner and Brian Gibbons helped propel the Bison to their third triumph in seven tries this season at the expense of the visiting Lions. Jim Brough also picked up six points by default at 112 in a meet that was much closer by bout wins than the score indicated.

The guests won five out of 12 events but all except Dave Sprick's heavyweight pin were three-point decisions. Tim Marwitz turned back Grove's Rick Wilhelm 4-1 in a featured 119 event and John Breen remained undefeated at 167 by an 8-2 count.

Also winning by score for Viator were Steve Schwallenbach at 126 and Tim Jordan at 98. Only Bison verdict not earning six points was by Kevin Lewis at 132.

FREMD 36, LAKE PARK 12

The Vikings made up for a trimming at Hersey Friday by blasting the guest Lancers, and upped their overall dual meet log to 2-4.

Fremd lost out only at three weights including the ones at each end of the card. Dan Lynch scored a first round fall at 132 as did Paul Morales at 105. And Doug McCarthy turned in an impressive 9-0 shutout at 119 to help establish the team triumph.

Other Vike wins included decisions by Dan Neubauer at 126, Diego Ramirez at 138, Dan Stark at 145, Jeff Sveinsson at 155, Craig Orzolek at 167 and Gary Peterson at 185. Ramirez and Orzolek were both newcomers to the lineup who performed admirably.

Mark Krolopp picked up the remaining Fremd points via a forfeit at 112.

CARMEL 30, ROLLING MEADOWS 23
ROLLING MEADOWS 42, NEW TRIER EAST 17
GLENBROOK SOUTH 52, ROLLING MEADOWS 5

The Mustangs were exposed to a little bit of everything Saturday during Glenbrook South's quad. They crushed New Trier East, were in turn crushed by the host Titans and nearly outlasted highly touted Carmel of Mundelein in a hotly contest third dual meet.

Against the hosts, only Roy Carlstrom at 112 was victorious for Meadows while Pete Martin drew at 132. Versus the Indians, nearly everyone got in the act, including Carlstrom and Bill Bremer by pin, Jim Carlstrom Paul Hyneman, Roger Mattix and Martin by decision and Bob Newell and Rick Whitfield by forfeit.

A forfeit by Rolling Meadows at 145 was nearly the measure of difference in their loss to the Corsairs. Jim Carlstrom opened with a 1-0 win, Hyneman rolled 10-1, Roy Carlstrom drew and Mattix pulled off a 4-2 decision at 119 to put the Mustangs quickly up 11-2.

Carmel also forfeited, to Martin at 132, but allowed little more over the last half of the meet except for Ted Tyk's pin at 155.

NOTRE DAME 41, SCHAUMBURG 14

Led by the Vee brothers and despite Mark Mandolini, the Dons scrubbed the Saxons easily, dropping their overall dual meet record to 2-7.

Vit Vee dished out defeat number one of the season to Terry Ruddy in a feature bout at 112. Notre Dame had taken the first two bouts by pin including Paul Vee's win at 98 and jumped into a 14-0 lead before the visitors reached the board.

Mandolini, another sectional representative of a year ago, was nudged out by Bob Jones 4-3 in another key hookup at 155. Schaumburg's only other wins were logged by Ron Kuchnia by pin at 126 and Mark Mandell at 138 with Joe Hannon stalemating at 119.

Harvey paces Falcon gym victory

Forest View continued to flirt with the magic 100 mark while rolling past Riverside-Brookfield, 93.28 to 81.75, in a non-conference gymnastics meet.

In lifting its overall record to 2-3 under first-year head coach Mike Shay, the Falcons exhibited balanced scoring in every event. Kevin Harvey captured the meet's top score with a booming 7.95 on side horse while teammate Mark Ohlmon contributed a 5.3.

John Scola's 6.35, Terry Diaferio's 5.6 and Bob Walsh's 5.0 produced a 16.95 total in free exercise and all-arounder John Buyers' 5.95 paced high bar. Walsh returned for a 6.5 on tramp, Rich Valentine bounced to a 6.0 and earned a high of 5.9 to win rings. Kevin Gawne's 5.8 was tops on parallel bars.

Lindquist, Schlak star . . . but Wildcats, Falcons fall

Only two Mid-Suburban League swimming teams hit the water for the last time before 1974's part of the season.

Wheeling finished a very close third to McHenry at the Libertyville Invitational and Forest View was seventh at the Freeport Invitational Saturday.

'CATS NEAR MISS

Wheeling Coach Doug Cotner had three athletes out of action at the six-team invitational. Had they (Mike Hyde, Tony Lauber and Jeff Stevenson) been competing and only have notched one point apiece, it would have given their team a tie for first.

McHenry won with 45. Then came Lake Forest (43), Wheeling (42), Woodstock (31½), Libertyville (29½) and Stevenson (1). The top four teams were in the running for the No. 1 trophy down the stretch.

Paul Lindquist had a part in all three firsts. The senior sprinter won the 100-yard dash in 53.7, tied for first in the 50-yard freestyle in 23.6 and anchored the freestyle relay team to victory with 3:39.1. Joining him were Bill Blank, Dave Mede and Bill Modica.

Accounting for the only seconds was Modica. He mastered the 200-yard freestyle (1:55.6) and the 500-yard freestyle (5:18.3).

Mike Pasdiora took a third in the backstroke (1:08.4).

Blank had a pair of fourths in the 50-yard freestyle (24.7) and the 100-yard freestyle (55.3). Randy Johnson had the other fourth with his showing in the 200-yard individual medley (2:25.1).

The only fifth was turned in by the 200-yard medley relay — of Dan Mackie, Steve Paulus, Johnson and Pasdiora (2:01.4).

SCHLAK PACES FALCONS

Helped greatly by a pair of firsts by Doug Schlak, the Forest View team of Coach John Hillary totaled 95 points, four short of tying Sterling for sixth place at Freeport.

The Falcons fine sprinter won the 50-yard freestyle in 23.1 and the 100-yard freestyle in 50.5. The former time was best ever.

Forest View had only two seconds. Kevin Redig turned the trick in the 200-yard freestyle and helped out in the freestyle relay despite a sore shoulder. Schlak, Mark Oliver and Oke Pearson rounded out the relay that went 3:42.7.

Hillary didn't wish to publish the other scorers for Forest View.

Rockford Guilford 212½, Rockford East 163½, Freeport 163, Rockford Auburn 133, Rockford Jefferson 127, Sterling 99, Forest View 95, Streator 84, Rockford Harlem 55 and DeKalb 32.

11 area cage teams launch holiday play

Phase two of holiday basketball starts today with 11 area teams playing first-round games at seven different sites around the state.

Local interests are best represented in terms of numbers at Centralia where three Mid-Suburban League teams, Arlington, Prospect, and Wheeling, tipoff.

The Cardinals, 6-1 overall, are touted along with defending champion Benton as the tourney favorites. Arlington opposes the host Orphan team this evening.

The Wildcats are 5-3 this year while the Knights are only 2-6, but riding a two-game winning streak. Wheeling faces Champaign central this afternoon immediately followed by the Prospect-Belleville West tussle.

Unbeaten Conant and scrappy Rolling Meadows commence activities in the four-team round-robin at Grant. Along with the host Bulldogs, Dundee rounds out the field.

The defending champions Cougars, 8-0 this season, are the favorites and play Dundee tonight. Rolling Meadows, 3-5 overall, battles Grant in the home-team headliner.

Maine West plays host Niles East in the Niles Township Tournament this evening, followed by Fremd and Niles West. Immediately preceding the first-round doubleheader is the opening game of the tourney's consolation bracket, matching the losers of last night's St. Viator-Notre Dame and Maine East-Niles North contests.

Hersey plays a morning game against Aurora West at the prestigious Pontiac Holiday Tournament. The Huskies, 5-4, are considered a dark-horse in the 16-team field which includes powers New Trier East, Bloom, and La-Salle-Peru.

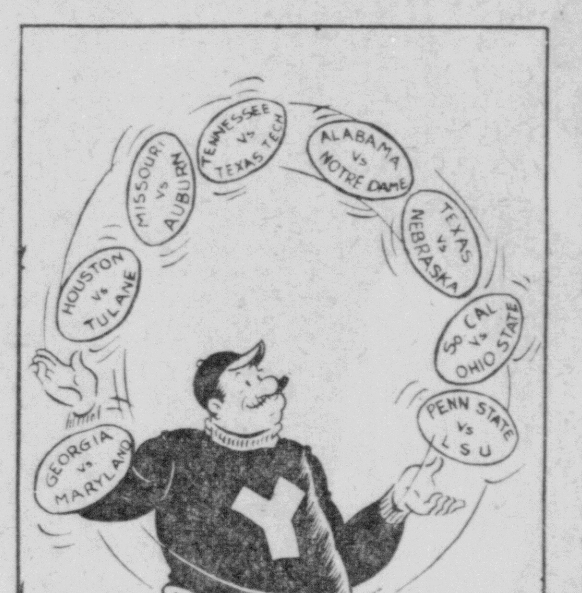
Elk Grove goes south to the Edwardsville Holiday Classic and tackles tiny Triad in the afternoon. The Grenadiers are 4-4 thus far.

Buffalo Grove makes its first journey to a holiday tournament at Rich South. The Big Dipper Tournament pairs 16 generally new or small schools. The Bisons are opposite Tinley Park this afternoon.

The Harper Hawks round out the list of teams opening holiday play tonight when they tussle with the host Highland Cougars in the Highland Holiday Classic at Freeport. The Hawks bring a 5-6 record into the match.

Sugar Bowl is a delectable dish; here's a vote for Irish by seven

by MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
United Press International



Egad, friends, this year's bowl matchups are some of the finest in years with the superpowers Alabama and Notre Dame having at each other in the Sugar Bowl on New Year's Eve, and the bruising Ohio State Buckeyes meeting the high-stepping Southern California Trojans the next day in a repeat engagement in the Rose Bowl. And those are only two of the eight great contests on tap over the holiday weekend — um — kumph! 'Tis indeed unfortunate the excellent Oklahoma club tripped over some off-the-field regulations. They would have been a worthy participant in any bowl.

Let us, without further ado, proceed to analyze the games in their chronological order.

PEACH BOWL
Dec. 28, Atlanta, Ga.
Maryland 30, Georgia 10.

The Terps stunned the collegiate football world by thrashing a fine Tulane team, 42-9, in their season finale. They'll show this was no fluke by turning back Vince Dooley's Georgia Bulldogs by a 20-point margin.

ASTRO-BLUEBONNET
Dec. 29, Houston, Tex.
Houston 28, Tulane 23.

The Houston Cougars (10-1) and Tulane's Green Wave (9-2) appear to be very evenly matched with the Hoople nod going to the Cougars. This is one of Tulane's finest club in years but the rugged Cougar's defense, rated seventh in the nation, will turn the tide.

GATOR BOWL
Dec. 29, Jacksonville, Fla.
Texas Tech 24, Tennessee 21

The Hoople System — kaff-kaff — had a difficult time separating these two fine elevens. The Red Raiders won 10 while losing only one contest this fall while Tennessee, playing in the rugged Southeastern Conference, was forced to settle for a 9-3 record. We look for Jim Carlen's Texas Tech lads to eke out a narrow victory. As a special treat keep your eyes on the Red Raiders' Larry Williams who has averaged better than 25 yards on kickoff returns.

SUN BOWL
Dec. 29, El Paso, Tex.
Missouri 33, Auburn 17.

The Missouri tigers, who won their first six contests and then dropped four of their last five, are expected to return to their early-season form. Auburn has been a disappointment this year but showed it can put it all together by handing Houston its only 1973 defeat. Our indicators say this is Missouri's day.

SUGAR BOWL (N)
Dec. 31, New Orleans, La.
Notre Dame 31, Alabama 24.

With the National Title on the line Notre Dame's Ara Parseghian and Alabama's Bear Bryant will — heh-heh — go for broke! Alabama (11-0-0) and Notre Dame (10-0-0) are almost evenly matched in the statistics department with 'Bama having the edge in offense averaging 480.7 yards per game to Notre Dame's 461.4. In defense it's the other way around with the Irish limiting all opponents to an average of 201.2 yards per game and the Crimson Tide allowing their foes 244.8. In rushing offense 'Bama rolled for 366.1 yards per contest to 350.2 for the Irish. The edge, as we see it, comes in rushing defense where the big, mobile Irish forward wall has stymied running attacks all season while holding their opponents to an average of only 82.4 yards per outing. The Tide has given up 139.6 yards on the ground per game. Truly, to the victor in this colossal showdown should go the No. 1 rating — harrumph!

COTTON BOWL
Jan. 1, Dallas, Tex.
Texas, 33, Nebraska 22.

Darrell Royal's Longhorns stunned by an early 52-13 thrashing at the hands of mighty Oklahoma, recovered their poise and rolled to six straight wins over tough Southwest Conference foes. With Roosevelt Leaks, who ran at a 141.5 yards-per-game clip, leading the charge, the Longhorns should hold the upper hand all the way over the tough Cornhuskers.

ROSE BOWL
Jan. 1, Pasadena, Calif.
So. California 28, Ohio State 20.

The Granddaddy of the Bowls boasts another major attraction shaded in importance only by the Sugar Bowl. For Johnny McKay's Trojans it will be their sixth Rose Bowl appearrnce in the last eight years and for Woody Hayes' Buckeyes it will be a chance to avenge last season's defeat by the Trojans. The Rose Bowl shapes up as a tremendous battle with the Bucks sporting a 9-0-1 record and the Trojans, losers only to Notre Dame, running up a 9-1-1 score. Playing at home and with the cagey McKay directing the show we foresee a triumph for the Trojans — hak-kaff.

ORANGE BOWL
Jan. 1, Miami, Fla.
Penn State 27, LSU 21.

As usual Joe Paterno has one of his fine clubs in a top bowl meeting. Boasting an 11-0-0 record and with Heisman Trophy winner John Capalletti showing the way, the Nittany Lions will prevail over a rugged LSU team. This will be a fitting climax to a great weekend of collegiate football.

Three area teams record wins in wrestling action

by KEITH REINHARD
Wrestling Editor

The adage 'nobody's perfect' held true to form around the Herald area wrestling circuit last Saturday.

A winner from Friday was unkindly dumped the next day while two other clubs coming up with victories needed them to make amends for outs absorbed the previous evening. Another local entry went one-for-three and still another had to lose its only outing of the weekend to accommodate another area unit's win.

Here's how non-conference combat unwound last Saturday:

BUFFALO GROVE 39, ST. VIATOR 19

Pins by Bob Daulton, Doug Browning, Tom Bickner, Jerry Bickner and Brian Gibbons helped propel the Bison to their third triumph in seven tries this season at the expense of the visiting Lions. Jim Brough also picked up six points by default at 112 in a meet that was much closer by bout wins than the score indicated.

The guests won five out of 12 events but all except Dave Sprick's heavyweight pin were three-point decisions. Tim Marwitz turned back Grove's Rick Wilhelm 4-1 in a featured 119 event and John Breen remained undefeated at 167 by an 8-2 count.

Also winning by score for Viator were Steve Schwallenbach at 126 and Tim Jordan at 98. Only Bison verdict not earning six points was by Kevin Lewis at 132.

FREMD 36, LAKE PARK 12

The Vikings made up for a trimming at Hersey Friday by blasting the guest Lancers, and upped their overall dual meet log to 2-4.

Fremd lost out only at three weights including the ones at each end of the card. Dan Lynch scored a first round fall at 132 as did Paul Morales at 105. And Doug McCarthy turned in an impressive 9-0 shutout at 119 to help establish the team triumph.

Other Vike wins included decisions by Dan Neubauer at 126, Diego Ramirez at 138, Dan Stark at 145, Jeff Sveinsson at 155, Craig Orzolek at 167 and Gary Peterson at 185. Ramirez and Orzolek were both newcomers to the lineup who performed admirably.

Mark Krolopp picked up the remaining Fremd points via a forfeit at 112.

ROLLING MEADOWS 42,
NEW TRIER EAST 17
GLENBROOK SOUTH 52,
ROLLING MEADOWS 5

A forfeit by Rolling Meadows at 145 was nearly the measure of difference in their loss to the Corsairs. Jim Carlstrom opened with a 1-0 win, Hyneman rolled 10-1, Roy Carlstrom drew and Mattix pulled off a 4-2 decision at 119 to put the Mustangs quickly up 11-2.

Carmel also forfeited, to Martin at 132, but allowed little more over the last half of the meet except for Ted Tyk's pin at 155.

NOTRE DAME 41, SCHAUMBURG 14

Led by the Vee brothers and despite Mark Mandolini, the Dons scrubbed the Saxons easily, dropping their overall dual meet record to 2-7.

Falcons, Saxons post wins

The Forest View Falcons won their opening game in the 16-team Kankakee Holiday Tournament yesterday, defeating the Joliet East Steelmen, 74-57.

The Steelmen jumped to a quick 2-0 lead, but the Falcons knotted it and then went on top to stay. A second-quarter Joliet East rally cut a 13-point Forest View lead to just 38-35 at the half. Falcon coach Ted Wissen's charges came storming back in period three to ice the game thanks to a tough half-court press.

Senior guard Mark Russo paced the Falcons in scoring with 20 points. Forward Kurt Haaland had 18 while Mike Meyer and Craig Brinkman dumped in a dozen apiece. Center Larry Monroe popped in six, followed by Don Stevens with four and Tony Donile with a pair.

The Falcons boosted their record to 7-2 overall with the victory. They will enter quarter-final action in the tournament at 5:30 this afternoon opposite the winner of the McHenry-Bradley affair.

SAXONS TOP PROSSER

Schaumburg moved into the winners' bracket at the Luther North Holiday Tournament with a 62-52 victory over the Prosser Falcons.

The Saxons fell behind early in the match and trailed at halftime, 28-25. They alternated between a full and half-court press to move ahead 42-38 at the end of three quarters, and gradually increased their lead during the final eight minutes.

Ray Kralicek and John McIlraith shared scoring honors for the Saxons, each finishing with 18 points. Following Merchant, Dave Hill had eight, Wayne Morgan two, and Robbie Bennett, another junior in his first varsity stint, a pair.

The Saxons were outrebounded, 28-27, the key Falcon being Tom Meggers, who wound up with 16 rebounds and 19 points. Kralicek led Schaumburg in boards with 10.

Elk Grove wrestlers claim 3rd in tourney

Elk Grove came up with a lot of point earners but no champions at the day-long Ridgewood Invitational Wrestling Tournament Saturday.

The result was a third place finish overall for coach John Moore and his matmen after leading in the standings through the first two rounds. Addison Trail rallied late to pull past the Grenadiers and claim first team prize and Ridgewood snuck into second.

The final standings had the Blazers with 78½, the hosts with 73 and the Grens with 71½ to head up the eight-squad gathering. Bolstering Grove's cause were five individual runnersup, a pair of thirds and a fourth.

"We had kids wrestling all over the place and had the best shot of anyone going into the finals but for the most part our strength was at Addison Trail's strength and we knew it would be tough after the way they handled us in a dual meet earlier this season."

Moore still felt it was the best an Elk Grove team had done at this tourney despite the absence of blue ribbons.

The big shock for the Grens was at 132 pounds where previously unbeaten Rick Morris was not only bettered but stuck in the first round by a relatively unknown Rebel entry. Morris then rallied for a third place windup but with him went possibly Grove's best shot at a title.

Heavyweight Earl Jursich also claimed a third in most impressive style. He lost one narrow 4-3 decision and pinned three other foes, one in less than a minute.

Meanwhile, Kevin Crews at 105, Jim Heffern at 119, Leo Montemayor at 155, Tom Malinowski at 167 and Steve Klitzka at 185, all advanced to the finals and were then systematically ousted. Heffern was stopped by Tom Kure of Hinsdale South while the other four were all turned back by Addison entries.

Montemayor's setback was by a 3-2 verdict to standout Rick Zey after pinning his way into the finals.

Larry Hamm was the other Gren placer, grabbing a third at 145 while splitting four matches over the long day.

Maine West posts first varsity gymnastics win

Maine West built up an early lead, then held on to claim its first varsity gymnastics win, 96.67 to 89.88, last weekend against New Trier West. In another Central Suburban meet, Maine East's record dropped to 2-4 with a 116.95 to 84.5 loss to Glenbrook South.

The Warriors snapped a four meet losing streak in defeating New Trier West. Mark Schludt gave Maine its highest score of the meet with an 8.05 in floor exercise.

Maine took a 45.45 to 33.20 lead after three events, its highest mark a 20.65 in floor exercise. Joining Schuldt were Keving Henderson 6.4 and Pat Dent 6.2.

But New Trier came back strong in trampoline, parallel bars and still rings, outscoring Maine 51.85 to 46.55 over those events.

The Warriors' other top scores per event were by Neal Sosdian on side horse (4.35), Steve Taylor on horizontal bar (5.45), Ken Heller on parallel bars (5.85) plus Taylor and Mike Swiatek on rings (4.5 apiece).

Maine's trampoline squad totalled 18.25 behind Heller (6.5), Schludt (6.10) and Henderson (5.65).

The Blue Demons of Maine East competed just two gymnasts in four-of-six events and were easy victims for Glenbrook South. Mike Nybakken had Maine's best performance with a 7.5 on rings.

East's next four highest scores were by John Giovenco on side horse (6.85), Scott Miller on parallel bars (6.75), Steve Slaw in free exercise (6.75) and Steve Silberman on side horse (6.6).

Falcons, Saxons post wins

The Forest View Falcons won their opening game in the 16-team Kankakee Holiday Tournament yesterday, defeating the Joliet East Steelmen, 74-57.

The Steelmen jumped to a quick 2-0 lead, but the Falcons knotted it and then went on top to stay. A second-quarter Joliet East rally cut a 13-point Forest View lead to just 38-35 at the half. Falcon coach Ted Wissen's charges came storming back in period three to ice the game thanks to a tough half-court press.

Senior guard Mark Russo paced the Falcons in scoring with 20 points. Forward Kurt Haaland had 18 while Mike Meyer and Craig Brinkman dumped in a dozen apiece. Center Larry Monroe popped in six, followed by Don Stevens with four and Tony Donile with a pair.

The Falcons boosted their record to 7-2 overall with the victory. They will enter quarter-final action in the tournament at 5:30 this afternoon opposite the winner of the McHenry-Bradley affair.

SAXONS TOP PROSSER

Schaumburg moved into the winners' bracket at the Luther North Holiday Tournament with a 62-52 victory over the Prosser Falcons.

The Saxons fell behind early in the match and trailed at halftime, 28-25. They alternated between a full and half-court press to move ahead 42-38 at the end of three quarters, and gradually increased their lead during the final eight minutes.

Coach Joe Breault used several members of his junior varsity team in the game. Gary Merchant, a 5-foot-11 junior forward, made his first varsity appearance and scored 14 points.

Ray Kralicek and John McIlraith shared scoring honors for the Saxons, each finishing with 18 points. Following Merchant, Dave Hill had eight, Wayne Morgan two, and Robbie Bennett, another junior in his first varsity stint, a pair.

The Saxons were outrebounded, 28-27, the key Falcon being Tom Meggers, who wound up with 16 rebounds and 19 points. Kralicek led Schaumburg in boards with 10.

The Saxons play at 6:00 this evening against the winner of the Glenbrook North-Westinghouse tussle.

Elk Grove wrestlers claim 3rd in tourney

Elk Grove came up with a lot of point earners but no champions at the day-long Ridgewood Invitational Wrestling Tournament Saturday.

The result was a third place finish overall for coach John Moore and his matmen after leading in the standings through the first two rounds. Addison Trail rallied late to pull past the Grenadiers and claim first team prize and Ridgewood snuck into second.

The final standings had the Blazers with 78½, the hosts with 73 and the Grens with 71½ to head up the eight-squad gathering. Bolstering Grove's cause were five individual runnersup, a pair of thirds and a fourth.

"We had kids wrestling all over the place and had the best shot of anyone going into the finals but for the most part our strength was at Addison Trail's strength and we knew it would be tough after the way they handled us in a dual meet earlier this season."

Moore still felt it was the best an Elk Grove team had done at this tourney despite the absence of blue ribbons.

The big shock for the Grens was at 132 pounds where previously unbeaten Rick Morris was not only bettered but stuck in the first round by a relatively unknown Rebel entry. Morris then rallied for a third place windup but with him went possibly Grove's best shot at a title.

Heavyweight Earl Jursich also claimed a third in most impressive style. He lost one narrow 4-3 decision and pinned three other foes, one in less than a minute.

Meanwhile, Kevin Crews at 105, Jim Heffern at 119, Leo Montemayor at 155, Tom Malinowski at 167 and Steve Klitzka at 185, all advanced to the finals and were then systematically ousted. Heffern was stopped by Tom Kure of Hinsdale South while the other four were all turned back by Addison entries.

Montemayor's setback was by a 3-2 verdict to standout Rick Zey after pinning his way into the finals.

Larry Hamm was the other Gren placer, grabbing a third at 145 while splitting four matches over the long day.

AND EVERYTHING NICE ABOUT FOOD

A good beginning for the New Year

There's no place like home for a gala New Year's Eve party. Make it a special affair with confetti and hats and lots of champagne for toasting . . . and serve an assortment of appetizing foods.

Plan a buffet meal featuring the finest of foods for the best of friends. Beef Burgundy qualifies, boasting as it does fork-tender cubes of beef in a flavorsome wine sauce, complete with fresh mushrooms, whole baby onions and carrots. The fancy yeast rolls are baked in a handsome bubble loaf, and decorated with frosting and candied cherries. Add a splendid Caesar salad, and for dessert Cranberry Chiffon Pie, a cloud of pink bejeweled with gumdrop "candles," makes a perfect ending. Or bake Double-Decker cookies and serve them with ice cream as a dessert option.

Beef Burgundy

4 pounds beef chuck, cut in 1-inch cubes
⅔ cup flour
1 tablespoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons cooking fat
2 beef bouillon cubes
1 cup boiling water
2 cups Burgundy wine
¾ teaspoon thyme
1 bay leaf
1 clove garlic, crushed
4 large carrots
12 small onions
1 pound mushrooms, sliced
2 tablespoons snipped parsley

Combine flour, salt and pepper. Dredge beef cubes in seasoned flour, reserving any leftover flour. Lightly brown dredged beef cubes (a third at a time), in cooking fat in Dutch oven. Pour off drippings; sprinkle reserved flour over meat. Stir in bouillon cubes, boiling water, Burgundy, thyme, bay leaf and garlic. Cover and cook in slow oven (325 degrees) for 45 minutes. Cut carrots in pieces 2 inches long and cut each in 2 to 4 strips. Stir carrots and onions into meat and cook, covered, 1 hour. Remove bay leaf, stir in mushrooms and continue cooking 15 minutes, or until meat and vegetables are tender. Sprinkle with snipped parsley. 12 servings.

Frosted Double-Deckers

1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup shortening, soft
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
2 tablespoons milk
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1¼ cups quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Add butter, shortening, sugar, milk, egg and vanilla. Beat about 2 minutes on electric mixer until well blended. Stir in oats. Chill dough. Roll out to ⅛-inch thickness on lightly floured board or canvas. Cut into desired shapes with floured assorted cookie cutters. Place on ungreased cookie sheets. Bake in prehated moderate oven (375 degrees) 8 to 10 minutes until lightly browned on edges. Cool. Frost with confectioners sugar frosting and decorate with sugar crystals. If desired, attach smaller cookies to larger cookies with confectioners sugar frosting to form double-deckers. Yield: Approximately 7 dozen cookies.

Bubble Loaf Rolls

Rolls:
2 cakes compressed or 2 packages dry yeast
½ cup lukewarm water
1 cup milk, scalded
⅓ cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
½ cup shortening, soft
2 eggs
5½ to 6 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1½ cups quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked

Spiced Sugar:
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon cardamom

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. (Use warm water for dry yeast.) Pour scalded milk over sugar, salt and shortening; stir occasionally until shortening melts. Cool to lukewarm. Stir in eggs and 1 cup flour; add softened yeast and oats. Stir in enough more flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board or canvas; knead until smooth and satiny about 10 minutes. Round dough into ball; place in greased bowl; brush lightly with melted butter. Cover and let rise in warm place until double in size, about 1 hour. Punch dough down; cover; let rest 10 minutes. Pinch off small pieces of dough; shape to form 42 balls. Dip into melted butter, then into Spiced Sugar, made by combining sugar, cinnamon and cardamom. Arrange balls in layers in a greased 10-inch tube pan. Cover; let rise until nearly double in size, about 45 minutes. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) 40 to 45 minutes. Remove from pan; cool on wire rack. If desired, drizzle with a confectioners sugar frosting and decorate with red and green candied cherries. Yield: 3½ dozen rolls.

Cranberry Chiffon Pie

Pastry:
¾ cup sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
⅔ cup shortening, soft
½ cup quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
3 to 4 tablespoons cold water

Filling:
1 envelope (1 tablespoon) unflavored gelatin
1 can (16 ounces) whole berry cranberry sauce
3 egg whites
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 envelope (2 ounces) whipped topping mix, prepared

For pastry, sift together flour and salt into a bowl. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in oats. Sprinkle water by tablespoonfuls over mixture; stir lightly with fork until just dampened. Form into ball. Roll out dough on a lightly floured board or canvas to form a 13-inch circle. Fit loosely into a 9-inch pie plate. Trim; fold edges under and flute. Prick bottom and sides of crust. Bake in preheated very hot oven (450 degrees) 10 to 12 minutes.

For filling, stir gelatin into the cranberry sauce in a medium-sized saucepan. Cook over medium heat 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Chill, stirring occasionally, until partially set. Beat together egg whites and cream of tartar until foamy. Gradually beat in sugar until stiff and glossy. Fold cranberry mixture into meringue. Fold in vanilla and 1 cup prepared whipped topping. Chill, stirring occasionally until mixture mounds when dropped from a spoon. Pour into cooled crust. Chill several hours or until set. Garnish with dollops of remaining whipped topping and Christmas candle cut-outs made by rolling out large red gumdrops and cutting with a small Christmas candle-shaped cutter or sharp knife. Yield: 1 9-inch pie; 8 servings.

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. (Use warm water for dry yeast.) Pour scalded milk over sugar, salt and shortening; stir occasionally until shortening melts. Cool to lukewarm. Stir in eggs and 1 cup flour; add softened yeast and oats. Stir in enough more flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board or canvas; knead until smooth and satiny about 10 minutes. Round dough into ball; place in greased bowl; brush lightly with melted butter. Cover and let rise in warm place until double in size, about 1 hour. Punch dough down; cover; let rest 10 minutes. Pinch off small pieces of dough; shape to form 42 balls. Dip into melted butter, then into Spiced Sugar, made by combining sugar, cinnamon and cardamom. Arrange balls in layers in a greased 10-inch tube pan. Cover; let rise until nearly double in size, about 45 minutes. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) 40 to 45 minutes. Remove from pan; cool on wire rack. If desired, drizzle with a confectioners sugar frosting and decorate with red and green candied cherries. Yield: 3½ dozen rolls.

Cranberry Chiffon Pie

Pastry:
¾ cup sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
⅔ cup shortening, soft
½ cup quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
3 to 4 tablespoons cold water

Filling:
1 envelope (1 tablespoon) unflavored gelatin
1 can (16 ounces) whole berry cranberry sauce
3 egg whites
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 envelope (2 ounces) whipped topping mix, prepared

For pastry, sift together flour and salt into a bowl. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in oats. Sprinkle water by tablespoonfuls over mixture; stir lightly with fork until just dampened. Form into ball. Roll out dough on a lightly floured board or canvas to form a 13-inch circle. Fit loosely into a 9-inch pie plate. Trim; fold edges under and flute. Prick bottom and sides of crust. Bake in preheated very hot oven (450 degrees) 10 to 12 minutes.

For filling, stir gelatin into the cranberry sauce in a medium-sized saucepan. Cook over medium heat 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Chill, stirring occasionally, until partially set. Beat together egg whites and cream of tartar until foamy. Gradually beat in sugar until stiff and glossy. Fold cranberry mixture into meringue. Fold in vanilla and 1 cup prepared whipped topping. Chill, stirring occasionally until mixture mounds when dropped from a spoon. Pour into cooled crust. Chill several hours or until set. Garnish with dollops of remaining whipped topping and Christmas candle cut-outs made by rolling out large red gumdrops and cutting with a small Christmas candle-shaped cutter or sharp knife. Yield: 1 9-inch pie; 8 servings.

by Fran Heckart

"Try some of these recipes for your holiday eating pleasure," wrote Mrs. J. Placek. "We've enjoyed the originality of them so much at our school that we thought you might enjoy them."

The recipes are truly some of the most original to cross my desk for they were created by Mrs. Placek's kindergarten class at Cardinal Drive School, Rolling Meadows.

Mrs. Placek told her students to quietly observe Mother's holiday kitchen preparations. They returned to school with stories of the most imaginative and delightful concoctions ever.

Seen through the eyes of a youngster, Mom's ability to prepare those delicious foods was related in the most charming detail.

Mrs. Placek compiled the recipes into a completely unedited cookbook for each child. Complete with hand-decorations, a copy of the "Kindergarten 'Kook' Book" (first edition) was given each mother for Christmas.

The following recipes from the book are guaranteed to add that extra sparkle to your holiday food preparations.

Tim Widner of Rolling Meadows offers the following variation for Potato Soup.

Water
After the water, add the potato soup
When the buzzing noise comes on, it's ready
Put it in a bowl and that's all.

If you're having dinner guests, you might want to try Danny Armentrout's No-Name Dessert:

Nuts, you use about this much of the bag
Smashed cracker
Cook it in the oven until you finish your dinner.

Billy Harding has created the easist Chocolate Cake ever:

Butter - 2 knifes of it
Cake mix
Cook it - 5 minutes in the oven
Take it out - let it cool off - eat it!

If you're truly into the holiday spirit, Steven Mensel's Green Cake is sure to add a chuckle.

Put in cherries and juice
Put in 4 packs of jelly
4 cream
Put it in the oven - 5 minutes
Wait!
Put it out
Put frosting on That's all!

Chasen's famous chili is hearty supper fare

Mostly for men

by Charles Flynn

The history of restaurants around the world is filled with stories of how production of one house specialty has brought fame and fortune from a modest beginning.

Perhaps none surpasses Chasen's of Beverly Boulevard in Hollywood which Dave Chasen opened in 1933 as a chili parlor with the assistance of a $3,500 loan from the late Harold Ross, then editor of New Yorker Magazine.

Today it's a favorite of movie and television stars who come for steaks, simple hearty foods and Chasen's Famous Chili. We pass along the chili recipe with the thought it will be admirable for a New Year's Eve supper or to serve a crew watching the Bowl games on New Year's Day.

Wash ½ pound pinto beans and place in a bowl with water to cover by 2 inches and soak overnight. (You can shortcut this by using two No. 303 cans of red beans).

Pour beans and soaking water into a large kettle, cover and simmer until tender, about 2 hours. (You skip this step if using the canned beans.)

Add 5 cups canned tomatoes and simmer for 5 minutes. While the beans are cooking heat 1½ tablespoons oil in a skillet and saute 1 pound green peppers (3 large) which have been seeded and coarsely chopped. Add 1½ pounds (3 large) onions, peeled and coarsely chopped. Cook, stirring frequently, until onions are soft.

Add 2 cloves garlic, peeled and crushed, and ½ cup minced parsley. (I reduce amount of garlic to ¼ teaspoon, powder, but use your own judgment).

In another skillet melt ½ cup butter or margarine. When hot put in 2½ pounds of lean ground beef chuck and 1 pound lean ground pork. Cook about 15 minutes, until all red has left the meat.

Now add the meat to the onion and pepper mixture, stir in 1/3 cup chili powder and simmer 10 minutes. Add the meat mixture to the beans and season with 2 tablespoons salt, 1½ teaspoons pepper, 1½ teaspoons cumin seed (I regard this as optional), and 1½ teaspoons monosodium glutamate.

Cover and simmer for 1 hour, then remove cover and continue cooking 30 minutes. If needed, add tomato juice to keep properly moistened. Serve hot in deep bowls. This makes 4 quarts or 16 servings of 8 ounces.

The chili can be frozen if you have leftovers. Cool and put into containers with tight covers. Happy New Year!

Mrs. Jim Kunnen

She has formula for great party

by LOIS SEILER

The formula for a successful party is lots of food and lots of people, according to Jim and Pat Kunnen of Arlington Heights. Noted for their graciousness, the Kunnens are experienced hosts and prefer to entertain at cocktail parties where their guest list numbers anywhere from 50 to 100.

Because Jim is assistant principal at Prospect High School, he and Pat enjoy entertaining the faculty as well as friends and neighbors. They usually have several parties each year, among which is a holiday open house.

"I feel more confident with this style of entertaining," Pat confided. A teacher's aid at Berkley School and mother of two sons, Jeff, 18, and Greg, 13, she likes to do whatever she can in advance. A large assortment of hors d'oeuvres, prepared days ahead, is arranged on the table before guests arrive and only appetizers hot from the oven need to be passed.

True to the Kunnens' party pattern, the table is laden with good food. An interesting centerpiece sets the holiday theme, candles add a festive glow and springs of holly are used to decorate the trays.

The variety of appealing hors d'oeuvres is outstanding. Pat always serves old favorites and includes several new ones. Many she devised herself; others have been changed to suit her taste. Eleven of her specialties are being featured today and will be an asset to hostesses planning a holiday or New Year's party.

The barbecued chicken wings resemble little drumsticks, and have a tangy flavor from the sauce. They can be made a day ahead and warmed before serving. Easy meat balls are quick to prepare because they are browned in the oven, then served hot in a mushroom gravy from a chafing dish.

GARLIC-BUTTERED party rye slices sprinkled with Cheddar and Swiss cheese can be made in advance and frozen, with mushrooms added before baking.

Spicy beef dip has a Sloppy-Joe appearance with a stroganoff-type flavor. Served with toasted French bread, it especially appeals to men.

Sherried beef, made with thin strips of round steak, is another man-pleaser, while dieters relish Pat's vegetable tray which includes nippy marinated mushrooms, stuffed cherry tomatoes, carrot and celery strips, green pepper rings and fresh cauliflower served with Green Goddess salad dressing.

Dippers will delight in a hot seafood dip, a cold and creamy shrimp dip and a pepperoni dip, while a unique salmon ball is superb with a cracker assortment.

As is obvious from this array of delicacies, Pat loves to cook. She finds it a relaxing hobby and a creative outlet as well. Pat also enjoys flower arranging, making festive decorations and playing bridge.

BARBECUED CHICKEN APPETIZERS

3 pounds chicken wings
1 cup catsup
½ cup brown sugar
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
Onion salt to taste

Cut each wing into two pieces. Discard tips and keep the piece most resembling a drum stick. Place these pieces in a pan with a little water and bake at 350 degrees until done, about 30 to 40 minutes. Pour off any liquid.

Combine remaining ingredients until smooth and pour over the chicken pieces. Bake 15 to 20 minutes at 375 degrees. Serve them on tray as finger food.

EASY MEAT BALLS

1 cup shredded Swiss cheese
1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
1 3-ounce jar mushrooms, diced

1 pound ground beef
½ cup chopped onion
1 8-ounce can tomato sauce
1 clove garlic or garlic salt
1 8-ounce package cream cheese
1/3 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Cook beef and onions until beef is brown. Pour off any excess fat. Add tomato sauce and garlic. Mix in cream cheese, Parmesan and oregano and stir until smooth. Stir in sour cream and serve hot in a chafing dish with toasted small slices of French bread or bread sticks.

SHERRIED BEEF DIP

3 pounds round steak
2 cans cream of mushroom soup
1 large can mushrooms
¾ cup sherry
½ envelope onion soup mix

Cut round steak in strips ½-inch wide and 3 inches long. Combine with remaining ingredients and bake at 325 degrees for three hours. Serve in a chafing dish with triscuits or toasted bread strips for dipping.

½ cup lemon juice
2 green onions, chopped
Garlic salt to taste
1 teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon ginger

Salt and cracked pepper to taste

Mix marinade ingredients and cover mushrooms. Refrigerate two to three days before serving. Keep covered and stir at least 3 times a day. When serving, drain and place on tray with assorted vegetables, having toothpicks handy.

STUFFED CHERRY TOMATOES

1 box small cherry tomatoes
Chicken salad, tuna salad or cheese for filling

Scoop out tomatoes with ¼ teaspoon measuring spoon. Fill with your favorite filling and serve with marinated mushrooms on a vegetable tray.

PEPPERONI DIP

1 8-ounce package cream cheese
¼ cup milk
1 4-ounce package sliced pepperoni

Blend cheese and milk until smooth. Dice pepperoni and blend with cheese mixture, using electric beater or blender. Serve with potato chips or crackers.

SALMON PARTY BALL

1 pound can (2 cups) canned salmon
1 8-ounce package cream cheese
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 teaspoons grated onion
1 teaspoon horseradish, or more
¼ teaspoon salt
1/3 teaspoon liquid smoke (optional, but very good)
3 tablespoons chopped pecans
3 tablespoons snipped parsley

Drain and flake salmon, removing skin and bones. Combine salmon, cheese, lemon juice, onion, horseradish, salt and liquid smoke, mixing thoroughly. Chill several hours.

Combine pecans and parsley. Shape salmon mixture into ball, roll in nut mixture and chill well. Serve with cracker assortment.

COLD SHRIMP DIP

1 8-ounce package cream cheese
2 tablespoons milk
1 tablespoon catsup
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon mayonnaise
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 can shrimp, drained
3 green onions, chopped
Dash of onion salt

Put cheese, milk, catsup, Worcestershire sauce and mayonnaise in mixer bowl. Blend thoroughly until no lumps remain.

Pour lemon juice lightly over shrimp. Add green onion, salt and shrimp to cheese and mix lightly. Serve with potato chips or crackers.

HOT SEAFOOD DIP

1 can frozen shrimp soup (A & P brand), thawed
1 6-ounce roll garlic cheese
1 8-ounce package cream cheese
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 can shrimp
1 can crabmeat, drained and separated
1 8-ounce can mushrooms, drained.

Place soup and cheeses in top of double boiler. Cook and stir over boiling water until ingredients are blended. Add remaining ingredients and heat to serving temperature. Serve in fondue pot and use triscuits, onion rounds, etc. for dipping.

This is also excellent served on English muffins as a brunch idea.

The average price of whole fryer chicken rose 14 cents in four days according to the most recent price survey. Prices recorded on Monday and Friday last week reflected the increase as well as a 10-cent climb in pork chops. However, bacon decreased 10 cents and ground beef, two cents.

American cheese increased four cents in the same period and eggs rose two cents.

Only minor variances were noted for other prices surveyed at that time.

Because of the Christmas holiday, prices from four area supermarkets were obtained on Dec. 21 rather than on Monday. Recorded prices indicate the average cost of the products.

Tradition sets stage for gala holiday party

Happy New Year Punch and Twelfth Night Cake

The New Year's Eve party is the high social point of the year . . . and every hostess wants hers to be the most swinging. Ring in the New Year with glorious citrus punch and a King of the Bean Twelfth Night Cake. The King of the Bean tradition adds liveliness to just about any New Year's Eve occasion.

A handsome big punch bowl on the buffet . . . surrounded by balloons, noisemakers, paper hats and New Year's Eve favors . . . sets the stage for party fun. And orange juice is the basis for two fine punches . . . one non-alcoholic and one with a little kick to it. Happy New Year Punch requires only orange juice, Grand Marnier, and strawberry or cherry soda.

And for the non-drinkers in the crowd, or for a teen party, Ring-in-the-New-Year Punch will be equally successful. It combines orange juice with maraschino cherry syrup and lemon soda. Garnish with orange slices and maraschino cherries for a festive sight on the buffet.

The Twelfth Night Cake turns up a little early but welcome none the less. It's a fine rich cake, very light in texture, flavored with orange juice concentrate and grated orange rind. It's lavish with eggs, too, and perfection as an accompaniment to the punch.

To observe the ancient King of the Bean tradition, bake a bean in the cake and alert your guests that the one who gets it will be king or queen for the night . . . and guests have to do as royalty bids.

And there you have the makings of New Year's Eve cheer guaranteed to keep the party lively. Just add guests and serve.

HAPPY NEW YEAR PUNCH

2 quarts orange juice
1 cup Grand Marnier
1 quart strawberry or cherry soda
Ice

Combine orange juice and Grand Marnier in large punch bowl. Slowly add strawberry soda. Add a block of ice or ice cubes to punch before serving. Garnish with orange slices and maraschino cherries. Yield: 24 to 26 servings.

RING-IN-THE-NEW-YEAR PUNCH

5 cups orange juice
2½ cups maraschino cherry syrup
5 cups lemon soda or sparkling water

Combine orange juice and cherry syrup in large punch bowls. Slowly add lemon soda. Add a block of ice or ice cubes to punch before serving. Garnish with orange slices and cherries. Yield: 24 to 26 servings.

TWELFTH NIGHT CAKE

1 cup butter or margarine
3 tablespoons frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed, undiluted
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
½ teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt
4 whole eggs, at room temperature
4 egg yolks, at room temperature
1 cup sugar
1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
¼ cup sifted cornstarch

Grease one 9-inch tube pan. In small saucepan, combine butter, undiluted orange concentrate, rind, vanilla, and salt; stir over low heat until butter is melted. Remove from heat; let cool to lukewarm. In large warm bowl, beat eggs, egg yolks and sugar until triple in bulk. Gently sprinkle flour and cornstarch over eggs, add orange-butter mixture and very gently fold in until there is no trace of butter. Pour into pan. Bake in 350 degree oven about 50 minutes, or until cake starts to come away from sides of pan. To serve, sprinkle top of cake with confectioners' sugar and garnish the sides with orange slices if desired. Yield: About 12 servings.

It's snack season

FOR AFTERNOON and evening snacks try Cheese Sticks: trim the crusts from four slices of white bread; cut into 4 strips; brush with ¼ cup (½ stick) butter, melted. Divide ½ cup grated Cheddar cheese on each strip. Place on baking sheet and bake in preheated 350 degree oven 5-7 minutes until bread is toasted and cheese melted. This makes 12 to 16 delicious strips.

Cook bacon in oven

When preparing a quantity of bacon for a large gathering at the breakfast, brunch, lunch or dinner table, do it an easy way — in the oven. Just separate bacon slices and place on jelly roll pan. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees.) 10 minutes. Carefully pour off drippings. Return to oven and bake 2 to 5 minutes longer.

The average price of whole fryer chicken rose 14 cents in four days according to the most recent price survey. Prices recorded on Monday and Friday last week reflected the increase as well as a 10-cent climb in pork chops. However, bacon decreased 10 cents and ground beef, two cents.

American cheese increased four cents in the same period and eggs rose two cents.

Only minor variances were noted for other prices surveyed at that time.

Because of the Christmas holiday, prices from four area supermarkets were obtained on Dec. 21 rather than on Monday. Recorded prices indicate the average cost of the products.

Happy New Year Punch and Twelfth Night Cake

The New Year's Eve party is the high social point of the year . . . and every hostess wants hers to be the most swinging. Ring in the New Year with glorious citrus punch and a King of the Bean Twelfth Night Cake. The King of the Bean tradition adds liveliness to just about any New Year's Eve occasion.

A handsome big punch bowl on the buffet . . . surrounded by balloons, noisemakers, paper hats and New Year's Eve favors . . . sets the stage for party fun. And orange juice is the basis for two fine punches . . . one non-alcoholic and one with a little kick to it. Happy New Year Punch requires only orange juice, Grand Marnier, and strawberry or cherry soda.

And for the non-drinkers in the crowd, or for a teen party, Ring-in-the-New-Year Punch will be equally successful. It combines orange juice with maraschino cherry syrup and lemon soda. Garnish with orange slices and maraschino cherries for a festive sight on the buffet.

The Twelfth Night Cake turns up a little early but welcome none the less. It's a fine rich cake, very light in texture, flavored with orange juice concentrate and grated orange rind. It's lavish with eggs, too, and perfection as an accompaniment to the punch.

To observe the ancient King of the Bean tradition, bake a bean in the cake and alert your guests that the one who gets it will be king or queen for the night . . . and guests have to do as royalty bids.

And there you have the makings of New Year's Eve cheer guaranteed to keep the party lively. Just add guests and serve.

HAPPY NEW YEAR PUNCH

2 quarts orange juice
1 cup Grand Marnier
1 quart strawberry or cherry soda
Ice

Combine orange juice and Grand Marnier in large punch bowl. Slowly add strawberry soda. Add a block of ice or ice cubes to punch before serving. Garnish with orange slices and maraschino cherries. Yield: 24 to 26 servings.

RING-IN-THE-NEW-YEAR PUNCH

5 cups orange juice
2½ cups maraschino cherry syrup
5 cups lemon soda or sparkling water

Combine orange juice and cherry syrup in large punch bowls. Slowly add lemon soda. Add a block of ice or ice cubes to punch before serving. Garnish with orange slices and cherries. Yield: 24 to 26 servings.

TWELFTH NIGHT CAKE

1 cup butter or margarine
3 tablespoons frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed, undiluted
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
½ teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt
4 whole eggs, at room temperature
4 egg yolks, at room temperature
1 cup sugar
1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
¼ cup sifted cornstarch

Grease one 9-inch tube pan. In small saucepan, combine butter, undiluted orange concentrate, rind, vanilla, and salt; stir over low heat until butter is melted. Remove from heat; let cool to lukewarm. In large warm bowl, beat eggs, egg yolks and sugar until triple in bulk. Gently sprinkle flour and cornstarch over eggs, add orange-butter mixture and very gently fold in until there is no trace of butter. Pour into pan. Bake in 350 degree oven about 50 minutes, or until cake starts to come away from sides of pan. To serve, sprinkle top of cake with confectioners' sugar and garnish the sides with orange slices if desired. Yield: About 12 servings.

It's snack season

FOR AFTERNOON and evening snacks try Cheese Sticks: trim the crusts from four slices of white bread; cut into 4 strips; brush with ¼ cup (½ stick) butter, melted. Divide ½ cup grated Cheddar cheese on each strip. Place on baking sheet and bake in preheated 350 degree oven 5-7 minutes until bread is toasted and cheese melted. This makes 12 to 16 delicious strips.

Parmesan Popcorn is a good snack at holiday time. In a saucepan, melt ¼ cup (½ stick) butter; add ¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese and ½ teaspoon salt. Toss over 1½ quarts hot, freshly popped corn.

Cook bacon in oven

When preparing a quantity of bacon for a large gathering at the breakfast, brunch, lunch or dinner table, do it an easy way — in the oven. Just separate bacon slices and place on jelly roll pan. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees.) 10 minutes. Carefully pour off drippings. Return to oven and bake 2 to 5 minutes longer.

Sandwiches for entertaining ease

A buffet is one of the best tried-and-true ways of entertaining for the food may be prepared ahead of time, allowing the hostess the leisurely pleasure of spending almost all her time with her guests.

With a little imagination, some of the simplest foodstuffs can make the fanciest concoctions, as witness the attractive little open sandwiches. A cream cheese mixture, a ham and a liverwurst spread on rye or pumpernickel bread are great beginnings.

Those who love mushrooms will love mushrooms vinaigrette, made by marinating the partially cooked vegetable in vinegar, oil, Tabasco and garlic.

½ teaspoon pepper sauce
6 slices rye or pumpernickel bread, sliced in half

Suggested Garnishes: Slices of hard-cooked egg, hard-cooked egg white rings with smoked salmon middles, chopped egg white or yolk, tiny smoked salmon rolls, sliced shrimp, sliced olives, parsley and dill. Note: Packaged hors d'oeuvre breads may be used. Yield doubles with smaller sandwiches.
